Rickenbacker Mentioned
At the Wailing Wall
How to Create 8 Billions
Harnessing the Ocean

—By Arthur Brisbane—

IN WELCOMING THE FRENCH FLIERS enthusiastically yesterday, President Hoover mentioned "Byrd, Rickenbacker and the rest."

It is refreshing to hear Rickenbacker mentioned, proving that men who flew in the war are not entirely forgotten.

Their flying was unlike modern peace flying, as different as the performance of a hawk from that of a carrier pigeon.

When Rickenbacker went up, his plane, or another, had to crash.

Time after time he went up, and time after time he brought down the other planes. This he did more often than any other American flier.

He has remained in the background, amid all the praise of peace flying. The public should not let him stay there.

The nations, with few exceptions, stand with their foreheads pressed against the wailing wall of diminished prosperity. Side by side they bemoan the downfall of a great boom, asking each other:

"When do you think things will improve?"

They ought to know that real business is not done by those that gather at the other wailing wall, of great antiquity. It is done by those that remain at home and attend to business.

Mr. Cromie, of the Vancouver Sun, thinks the main trouble is "refusal of European bankers to recognize the necessity of restoring silver as a one to 32 world money token with gold." There are in the world six billion ounces of silver, now worth only two billions of dollars. If bankers would do their duty, Mr. Cromie thinks the six billion ounces would be worth ten billions of dollars and the purchasing power of China, India, Mexico and other countries, now on a silver basis, would be increased by eight billions, almost as much as we lent to our dear allies.

There is no doubt that cutting down by more than 50 per cent the value of money used by more than half the people on earth is one cause of trouble. If Mr. Rockefeller himself suddenly found that half his money was counterfeit he would have to economize.

We live in a world that needs better management in many directions, and Mr. Cromie proves it. The public debt of China is only about $1 per inhabitant. The public debt of Australia is $1000 per individual. If China and Australia were both in danger of bankruptcy, Australia probably would go overboard, without the help of Great Britain, which, by the way, has been acting more like a stepmother than a real mother.

Bankers, European and American, will say:

"We shall be much obliged if Mr. Cromie will show us how to restore the value of silver. W. J. Bryan tried it on a 16 to 1 basis and failed. Uncle Sam tried it with wheat, putting in nearly $100,000,000 and wheat dropped 25 cents. 'Supply and demand' is an obstinate reality."

An experiment made in Cuba yesterday may, 100 or 1000 years hence, be far more important ten times over than the great war and all the wars before it.

Georges Claude, a French scientist, with the indorsement of the French Academy of Science and the Cuban government, is undertaking, by a costly process, to develop the heat of surface and Gulf Stream waters in the tropics, recondensing the steam thus created by sending it to the colder depths of the ocean. A vacuum will be used to create steam at low temperature.

Man, with his little coal mines, steam engines, hydraulic turbines and other sources of power, is like a fly building a windmill on the rim of a driving wheel.

The earth itself will be our dynamo in time, which will mean power unlimited, to last while the world lasts.

The Argentine revolution rolls on successfully. If there are any objectors, they say nothing. The new President is beloved.

You will learn, without surprise, that Europe blames the revolution on the United States. In Rome, the Fascist newspaper, Il Tevere, says South America's trouble is imitating the United States, its Constitution and its centralisation of power. Also "the famous Monroe Doctrine" is a disturbing factor.

If it were not for that doctrine, Japan might have half of South America today, and Germany the other half.

But we can afford to let that go, provided we do not let the Monroe Doctrine go.

MUDDY RUEL TO MANAGE RED SOX

Senators Secure Hargrave From Detroit, Making Deal Possible

By JOE CASHMAN.

Harold "Muddy" Ruel, veteran catcher of the Washington Senators, will be the next manager of the Red Sox, succeeding "Heinie" Wagner next Spring.

It may be some time before the official announcement is made, but the shift was as good as completed today when Washington secured Catcher Bill Hargrave from Detroit.

President Bob Quinn of the Sox, according to most reliable information given this writer today, opened negotiations to get Ruel to manage the Fenway outfit several weeks ago.

Clark Griffith, owner of the Senators, agreed to let Ruel go, providing he could secure Hargrave, and the veteran catcher has been informing his close friends for some time that he expected to be pilot in the Hub next season.

HAROLD "MUDDY" RUEL, many years a catcher of big league prominence, will take over the managerial reins of the Red Sox next spring, succeeding Charles "Heinie" Wagner. Ruel, who is a noted attorney, is considered one of the smartest men in baseball. At present he is the second string catcher for the Washington Senators.

Tilson Sees Hoover Victory in Maine Vote

New York, Sept. 9 (AP)—John Q. Tilson, Eastern director of the national Republican congressional committee, today characterized the Republican victory in the Maine elections as "a sweeping indorsement of the policies and record of President Hoover."

"Republicans all over the country cannot help but be elated over one thing—the clear way in which Maine voters repudiated the unjustifiable attacks on President Hoover and his constructive policies of legislation," he said.

100 Injured When Police Horse Bolts

New York, Sept. 9 (AP)—A bolting police horse spread terror among thousands attending the Mardi Gras at Coney Island last night, slightly injuring more than 100 persons.

The parade was nearing the end when the horse took fright at a sudden burst from the motor of an automobile float. The girth snapped, causing the saddle to slide from the horse's back, catapulting the rider, Patrolman Joseph Flynn, to the ground.

Oil Blast Kills at Least 8 in Greece

Athens, Greece, Sept. 9 (AP)—Explosion of a sailing vessel filled with oil in front of the Standard Oil depots at Drapetsonius harbor early today took at least eight lives and possibly more. The blast destroyed the vessel, flaming fragments of which set fire to 18 other sailboats and one steamship.

6 Killed, Dozen Hurt as Engine Blows Up

Philadelphia, Sept. 9 (AP)—Six were killed and a dozen injured today in the explosion of a pusher locomotive in the Reading Railroad roundhouse yard, Third st. and Erie ave. The cause of the explosion has not been determined.

BOSTON YACHT AT GIBRALTAR

Gibraltar, Sept. 9 (AP)—Prof. Enrique Blanco, from the department of Spanish at Iowa University, arrived here today from Boston via the Azores, traveling in the 10-ton yacht Evalu. He was accompanied by his wife and seven-year-old daughter.

The professor will leave soon for Melilla, Morocco, where the Spanish authorities are preparing festivities for his reception.

Bar More Aliens to Help Unemployed

Washington, Sept. 9 (AP)—President Hoover announced today that the State Department had moved to alleviate the unemployment situation by tightening the immigration restrictions upon aliens who might become public charges. Consul-general who issued visas for immigration to the United States have been instructed to inquire more carefully into the financial status of the applicant.

Graf Zeppelin in Flight to Moscow

Friedrichshafen, Germany, Sept. 9 (INS)—The dirigible Graf Zeppelin left her home base at 8 a. m. today (3 a. m. Eastern daylight time), for Moscow, Dr. Hugo Eckener is in command, with 20 passengers aboard. They expect to reach Moscow tomorrow morning.

3 TRAPPED, 85 FLEE FLAMES

Paterson, N. J., Sept. 9 (AP)—At least three persons were believed to have been trapped today in the Lamond Robertson Cotton mill, which was destroyed by fire. Eighty-five persons escaped, two others were seriously burned and one fireman was injured.

First reports said several hundred employes were trapped in the building. The fire is believed to have started from combustion. In half an hour the two-story brick structure was an inferno.

One man, his clothing afire, leaped from a second story window. He was rushed to a hospital in an ambulance. His condition was said to be serious.

Lila Lee Wins Her Fight for Health

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 9 (INS)—Having practically won her fight back to good health again, Lila Lee, motion picture star, will soon be back to resume her film career, it was said today. She will return from an Arizona sanitarium in October, friends reported.

AGREE ON PLANS FOR BROOKLINE TUNNEL

Trustees of Elevated in Full Accord With the Plans for Huntington Ave. Project

The Huntington ave.-Brookline tunnel project, suggested by Mayor Curley, gathered momentum today when a meeting of the mayor, the public trustees of the Boston Elevated Railway and others found all in accord.

To his original plan the mayor today added a suggestion that it might be found advisable to link the proposed tunnel with the East Boston tunnel by some means, so that through trains could be run from East Boston to Brookline Village.

Following the meeting, Mayor Curley announced he would have the Boston Transit Board and the City Law Department make a thorough study of the matter.

ESTIMATE COST

The Elevated trustees made estimates of the cost at from $12,000,000 to $22,000,000 depending on whether the East Boston link was made, and suggested various means of financing.

The general plan is for a tunnel under Huntington ave. all the way from Brookline Village to Copley sq., where it would connect with the Boylston st. subway.

If, however, the plan of running through trains between Brookline and East Boston is carried out, the project will not be so simple.

DEVISE NEW TUBE

Engineers will have to devise some means of sending the new tube under the downtown section to tie up with the third-rail East Boston tunnel line, without interfering with the Tremont-Boylston st. trolley car subway.

Members of the Boston Planning Board and the Metropolitan Planning Board also were present at today's meeting at City Hall, as were representatives of several civic organizations, including Horace Guild of the Back Bay Improvement Association, who said his memo highly favored the proposed tunnel.

BRAZIL REVOLT REPORTED IN MONTEVIDEO

Uruguay Sends Cavalry to Prevent Any Violation of Neutrality

Montevideo, Sept. 9 (AP)—The Uruguayan government has received official information of inception of a revolution in the state of Rio Grande do Sul, Brazil.

The Minister of War ordered two regiments of cavalry sent to the frontier to assure that there is no violation of Uruguayan neutrality in probably forthcoming hostilities.

Frequent reports in the past of revolutionary movements in Rio Grande do Sul have been denied by the Brazilian Government.

Irigoyen and Cabinet Ordered Arrested

Buenos Aires, Argentina, Sept. 9 (AP)—Hipolito Irigoyen, fallen President of Argentina, all members of his Cabinet, and Irigoyenists members of Congress were today ordered arrested and held incommunicado.

Until all danger is averted, Buenos Aires will be administered like an armed fortress. The military rule, however, will be that of peace time.

Reports were current today that a motor launch carrying Senator Del Valle, Irigoyenista leader in the Senate, and a party of the fallen president's followers, had landed at Carmelo, Uruguay.

Among the citizens storming the arms stores last night were elements identified with Irigoyen's "Klan Radical." They were driven out only when the government soldiers set fire to the building.

This morning it was said "three or four" postoffice clerks had been summarily executed by a firing squad after they had been discovered shooting from behind at the soldiers defending the postoffice. Among those executed was said to be Sub-Director of Posts Firpo. (No relation to the boxer).

About 15 persons were being held for summary execution today after their arrest on charges of looting.

In Party Tangle

Mayor Curley (top)

John F. Fitzgerald (bottom)

Joseph B. Ely (center)

MAYOR JAMES M. CURLEY and members of the Democratic city committee declared their intention today of continuing work for the nomination of John F. Fitzgerald for the Democratic candidate for governor.

CURLEY PLAN IS BACKED BY COMMITTEE

Would Nominate Ex-Mayor, Then Have Walsh and State Chiefs Select Candidate

By BERT FORD

Ringing endorsement of Mayor Curley's plan for the Democratic voters of Massachusetts to stand by John F. Fitzgerald and nominate him for Governor, despite his withdrawal because of illness, was given by the Democratic City Committee today.

The committee also demanded that Joseph B. Ely withdraw as a candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

The statement issued at noon by Henry E. Lawler, president of the city committee, ended with this significant paragraph which indicated the attitude of the machine:

"The City Committee will continue its campaign on behalf of Mr. Fitzgerald and nominate him. The understanding being that the Democratic State Committee and Senator David I. Walsh shall in conference name the candidate that we can all support and bring Democratic victory to Massachusetts in this Democratic year."

The Lawler announcement left little doubt of the plan of battle from now on. It tended to contradict suggestions earlier in the day that the party might call upon either one of three leading Democrats to fill the gap—Major General Edward L. Logan, Sherman L. Whipple or former Mayor Andrew J. Peters.

ELY WON'T WITHDRAW

Ely, in answer to the demand for his withdrawal, said:

"Let the ballot decide your choice. Such was the verdict of the Worcester conference."

In the midst of the political tempest public interest turned to Robert Brigham hospital, where Fitzgerald today was reported to be resting comfortably in a private ward.

Fears that the former mayor might be in critical condition were early dispelled by business associates and members of the family. They said he had been sent to bed by order of the Boston physician

CITY COMMITTEE DEMANDS ELY QUIT AND FITZGERALD BE NAMED

BACKS CURLEY "VICTORY PLAN"

Would Have State Committee and Walsh Pick Nominee After Primary Election because he was utterly exhausted and needed immediate rest.

They were assured by the hospital authorities that there were no grave symptoms and that the patient would leave the hospital within a week.

ELY, CUMMINGS CHEERED

Fitzgerald's removal from the arena cheered the supporters of Ely. While they regretted Fitzgerald's sudden illness, they felt that with him out of the race the course was cleared for them.

John J. Cummings, the third Democratic candidate for the gubernatorial nomination, smiled at the optimism of the Ely camp and waved aside the suggestion of Mayor Curley that Fitzgerald remain in the race.

"The withdrawal of Mr. Fitzgerald is final," said Cummings in a statement issued this noon. "Any suggestion that the voters nominate him is silly and would not be in accord with his wishes."

Mayor Curley, in his statement urging that Democrats vote for Fitzgerald said:

"The announcement that former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald, owing to ill health, will not be a candidate for governor is to be regretted, not alone because his nomination was assured, but because it was a reward to which his long service in the Democratic party entitled him.

"In the present campaign neither of his two opponents has demonstrated the capacity requisite for the governorship of Massachusetts and it is clearly the duty of the Democrats to nominate Mr. Fitzgerald. In the event that Mr. Fitzgerald is accorded the nomination to which he is entitled, his withdrawal can be accepted after the primary and the Democratic state committee can fill the vacancy.

"The election of an able, capable, outstanding Democrat will insure victory. The duty of the Democracy is clear. Nominate John F. Fitzgerald and permit the state committee, after the primary, to substitute the ablest man in the Democratic party for governor."

According to his brother, Henry F. Fitzgerald, the former mayor will remain at the hospital for several days.

Fitzgerald in his statement indicated no preference for any of his opponents. It is known, however, that Mayor Curley was in conference with Fitzgerald before the retirement notice was put out.

"Acting on the advice of my physicians and at their urgent request as well as that of my family, I have decided to withdraw from the contest for Governor," the former mayor's statement read.

"The doctors tell me that my physical condition is such that it would be extremely unwise for me to enter into any campaign, vigorous or otherwise.

"Some four weeks ago I underwent an examination as to my physical condition.

"The doctors told me that organically I was all right but my vitality was low.

"Some 10 days ago my family asked me to be examined again, as they noticed that I was steadily losing weight. So last Tuesday I was examined again, and was informed that my vitality was such that I must retire. The doctors sent me to a hospital on Thursday. Against their objection I left the hospital on Saturday night, when I spoke over the radio.

"I returned to the hospital and the doctors then told me that my retirement was imperative.

"My first duty is to my family, but I also owe a duty to the party which has been so generous to me in the past.

"The party is entitled to a candidate who is able to make an aggressive campaign. This I cannot now make. Therefore, my withdrawal, which is absolute and final.

"I deeply appreciate the offers of support by men and women in every part of the Commonwealth and regret that conditions are such that I cannot go forward, particularly when the chances of party success are so bright.

"I need not say that I have never wavered in my support to Democratic candidates and that the nominee on the state ticket will have all of the support that I am able to give."

Former District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien, candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator, at a rally in East Boston at noon said:

"I wish publicly to express my sincere regret at the illness of Hon. John F. Fitzgerald. I hope he will soon be restored to his entire vigor, I have, on many occasions, expressed the same sentiment for one of my opponents in the Senatorial contest, Joseph F. O'Connell. Mr. Fitzgerald has saved our party and his opponents from any embarrassment by retiring from the campaign for Governor."

City Committee Backs Curley's Proposal

Boston Democratic City Committee today officially indorsed Mayor Curley's plan to have former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald remain in the race and nominate him as Democratic candidate for Governor despite Fitzgerald's withdrawal owing to illness. The committee asked Joseph B. Ely to withdraw. The full text of the statement issued by President Henry E. Lawler follows:

"The unfortunate illness of former Mayor Fitzgerald is to be regretted by all and is a further proof of his unselfishness and loyalty to the Democratic party. Mr. Fitzgerald's entire political life has been given to assist others. It was against his own wishes as well as those of his dearest friends that he consented to become a candidate at this time.

"The position of the Boston city committee remains the same, our only desire is to demonstrate our loyalty to the Democratic party and to refute the statements of those well meaning but ill-advised statesmen who always assail Boston. Mr. Ely who was always in favor that the Democrats in conference should suggest the name of the candidate for governor, now has an opportunity to show his sincerity and withdraw from the contest and agree that the state commitee, with which I am in no way connected shall substitute the candidate for governor since Mr. Ely's recent alliance with Mr. Coakley, the assassin of characters who has left the Democratic party, makes it impossible for the Boston Democrats to give him serious consideration.

"The city committee will continue its campaign on behalf of Mr. Fitzgerald and nominate him. The understanding being that the Democratic state committee and Senator David I. Walsh shall in conference name the candidate that we can all support and bring Democratic victory to Massachusetts in this Democratic year."

RELIEF PLANES DRIVEN BACK BY WEATHER

Three Hop for Santo Domingo With Medical Supplies, but Two Return

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 9 (AP)—Two of the three navy planes which took off from here today with medical supplies for hurricane sufferers at Santo Domingo were forced to return an hour later because of thick weather encountered over North Carolina.

The third plane, piloted by Major Roy S. Geiger, U. S. M. C., had not been heard from at noon. It was assumed here that he was attempting to reach Fort Bragg, N. C., his first scheduled stop.

Each of the three planes was carrying 2000 pounds of vaccines, antitoxins, hypodermic syringes, anaesthetics for treatment of thousands of cases of gangrene among the victims of the hurricane.

Food and Water Big Red Cross Problems

Santo Domingo, Sept. 9 (AP)—Furnishing of food and water to Santo Domingo's stricken thousands became today a problem of increasing importance to national and Red Cross authorities superintending hurricane relief.

Soldiers of the Dominican guardia, with United States sailors standing by, suppressed a food riot yesterday at one of the wharves where relief supplies were being unloaded from the U. S. destroyer-minesweeper Grebe.

More than 100 persons rushed the laborers who were stacking the supplies on the dock. The guardia held them off while Dominican and American officers assured the people that rations would be distributed as soon as possible. Most of the crowd had not eaten since Wednesday.

Lack of water has become almost as distressing a problem as lack of food, but an aqueduct has been repaired for bringing water from inland sources. A supply was drawn toward the city and was expected here today.

Curley, Fitzgerald in Bedside Parley

Word went forth from the Robert Brigham hospital today that "a very sick man" had expressed a desire to see Mayor Curley.

It reached the mayor at Gloucester and he hurried back to Boston. At the hospital, a half hour later, there was an affectionate meeting between James M. Curley and John F. Fitzgerald.

"John F." was propped up in bed by two pillows, his tanned face, belying the condition of his health, in sharp relief against the white linen.

"Hello, John," said the mayor from the doorway.

"Come in, Jim, I'm glad to see you," said the former mayor.

SITS BY BEDSIDE

Curley walked to the bedside and they shook hands warmly. The mayor was obviously greatly affected. "John F." was obviously suffering, but he brightened and one of the "Honey Fitz" smiles lit up the room.

The mayor drew up a chair by the bed. He had been warned by the nurse outside that Fitzgerald was indeed a very sick man and he could remain but a few minutes. He had been told the same by Henry Fitzgerald, a brother, who carried the word that Curley was needed at the hospital.

"I'm tremendously sorry to find you a sick man, John," said the mayor.

ORDERED TO WITHDRAW

Fitzgerald smiled again and the mayor continued:

"And I'm doubly sorry, John, because the nomination for governor is assured for you, a fitting reward for your long service to the state and to the Democratic party. But you're going to be all right and you'll be out of here in no time."

The "withdrawal" candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination explained at length that he had been "carrying on" on nerve alone and that the doctors were serious when they told him if he wanted to live he must withdraw from the campaign.

"John, we're not going to let you withdraw. You're entitled to that nomination, anyway, and you're going to get it. For your many years of service you certainly deserve no less. We're going to nominate you and put you over."

TALK 15 MINUTES

Then the two Democratic war horses, who so often in the past have pulled against each other in harness, but who have been warm, close friends since they buried the double-edged hatchet in the interests of Alfred E. Smith in 1928, held a real political "pow wow."

It lasted about 15 minutes and during it, perhaps, the destiny of the Democratic governorship hopes this year was shaped. The mayor left after repeating his well wishes and Fitzgerald was visibly cheered up. The only person present during their meeting was Joseph Gargan, Fitzgerald's son-in-law, and former Notre Dame football player.

Ship's Purser Given Deferred Sentence

Providence, Sept. 9 (AP)—Ralph H. Hamel, 28, of Fall River, Mass., former purser of the steamer Richard Peck of the New England Steamship Company, was given a deferred sentence today in Superior Court here when he pleaded nolo to an indictment charging embezzlement. Hamel, police said, disappeared with $2243.73 of the company's funds in January. Full restitution was made, the court was informed.

BITTER FIGHTS FEATURE VOTE IN 8 STATES

Gov. Long, Struck by Reporter, Is Guarded; Cole Blease Has Battle in Carolina

By the Associated Press.

In eight states, scattered from coast to coast, voters today choose party candidates for national and local office.

Today's primaries are to decide who will represent Louisiana and South Carolina in the Senate. Their Democratic nominations are tantamount to election. Senate candidates are to be chosen also in Colorado, Michigan and New Hampshire. In Arizona and Vermont selections for Governor hold the principal interest, while in the State of Washington contests for House seats head the list.

Tomorrow Georgia Democrats will hold a primary and next week Massachusetts, New York and Wisconsin will stage the pre-election contests.

GOVERNOR SLUGGED.

Absence of contests within the parties in Maryland made yesterday's primary largely a formality, marked by the lightest vote in years.

South Carolina's contest is a run-off primary to decide between the leading candidates in the August 26 polling. Cole L. Blease seeks to hold his Senate seat and James F. Byrnes, former representative, is making his second try to oust him. Ibra C. Blackwood and Olin D. Johnson, both of Spartanburg, are seeking the governorship.

Louisiana's primary marks the end of a heated campaign in which Governor Huey P. Long sought the Senate seat held for many years by Joseph E. Ransdell.

Long spent last night under heavy guard after having been struck on the face by a New Orleans reporter.

In Colorado five men are seeking senatorial nominations. William V. Hodges, former treasurer of the Republican National Committee, and George H. Shaw, former state chairman, are seeking the Republican nomination, while Edward P. Costigan, James A. Marsh, and Morrison Shafroth are the Democratic candidates.

HUNT RUINS AGAIN

Senator James Couzens is seeking renomination in Michigan, opposed by Chase S. Osborn, former Governor. Three Republicans contest the governorship.

In Arizona George W. P. Hunt campaigned against three opponents for the Democratic nomination for the governorship, an office he held almost continuously from statehood 20 years ago until 1928. John C. Phillips, Republican incumbent, who defeated him then, is unopposed within his party.

Street Widening Up to Property Owners

Unless all property owners affected by the contemplated widening of Boylston and Newbury sts., Back Bay, waive claims for damages, the improvement would not be put through, Mayor Curley announced today.

This statement followed a conference in the mayor's office between representatives of property owners on the two streets and officials of the City of Boston Planning Board.

Mayor Curley suggested that 10 feet be taken from each sidewalk on Newbury st., and as much as possible on each side of Boylston st. He added the widening would hinge on the attitude of property owners affected and said they would seem to have claims for damages if the improvements were made.

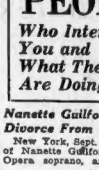
Nanette Guilford Gets Divorce From Rosen

New York, Sept. 9—The romance of Nanette Guilford, Metropolitan Opera soprano, and Max Rosen, concert violinist, which began when the musical artists met in 1928 and culminated in their marriage in November of that year, has ended in the divorce court, it was revealed by Miss Guilford today. Nanette disclosed that she received a divorce in Mexico last Wednesday which will become final in October.



Nanette Guilford

She charged incompatibility. The rift between the two artists became known last February when Nanette returned to the home of her parents. Miss Guilford said at that time temperament was the cause.

Chevalier Will Receive Record Salary

Paris, Sept. 9—A world's record for high earnings in the theater has been created by Maurice Chevalier, French stage and talkie star, who has just returned here from a triumphant year at Hollywood. The Theater Chatelet here engaged him to appear for two weeks in November at 4 million francs for the period—$20,000 a week.

According to the terms of the contract Chevalier stands to earn considerably more than $20,000. The contract stipulates that he is to receive 80 per-cent of the theater's gross takings. Recently Chevalier refused $5000 for a week's appearance in a London theater.

Mrs. Beryl Hart to Fly Across Atlantic

New York, Sept. 9—Despite the willingness of her husband, Mrs. Beryl Hart, aviatrix, has been selected as second member of the crew of the Bellanca Transwind, which is to make the first heavier-than-air load transatlantic flight from New York, by way of Bermuda, the Azores and Paris. Mrs. Hart is a noted aviatrix and is one of 14 women to hold a transport pilot license.

Mrs. Beryl Hart

It was her knowledge of flying and willingness to "respect authority" that caused the backers of the flight to sign her. The flight is planned for early next month. Mrs. Hart will accompany William S. MacLaren on the flight.

Robbers Chase Their Victim So He Can't Notify Police

New York, Sept. 9 (AP)—Two men took turns chasing David Cohen today to keep him from the telephone.

They had just robbed Cohen of $60 in his Harlem candy store and he wanted to inform police.

The men with the gun pursued the frightened man back and forth across 125th st., then his pal fished out another gun and took up the chase and the first pursuer disappeared.

After chasing Cohen some more the second gunman also decided to call it a day. When Cohen recovered his breath he found a telephone.

CRUSADERS PROTEST U. S. DRY CHIEF SPEAKING HERE MONDAY

GREENOUGH WIRES TO MITCHELL

Resents the Interference by Woodcock on Eve of Bay State Primaries

Charging "an attempt to dictate to the voters at the 11th hour," Crusaders Inc., an organization of anti-dry young Republicans, protested to Attorney-General William D. Mitchell today against a projected Boston speech by Prohibition Commissioner Woodcock on the night before the State primaries.

Commissioner Woodcock is scheduled to speak next Monday night in Ford Hall at what has been broadcast as "A Constitutional Committee Meeting."

The protest was contained in a telegram sent by Malcolm W. Greenough, former Harvard football captain and commander of the Massachusetts division of Crusaders, Inc. In his telegram he said:

"Prohibition Commissioner Woodcock scheduled to speak in Boston on September 15, the day before primary. His subject wholly controversial. Feeling running high among Republican voters. Wet and dry question playingimportant part.

"Our organizations, numbering thousands of Republican voters, resent interference by Federal authorities. In the interest of Republican harmony we respectfully request that Commissioner Woodcock be restrained from taking sides.

"His attempt to dictate to the voters of this State at the 11th hour is deliberate and contrary to the hands-off policy of President Hoover in all primaries. Immediate action requested."

Crusaders, Inc., a nation-wide organization of young Republicans working for repeal of the 18th amendment and establishment of true temperance.

Their protest was the second against a federal official taking a hand in the Massachusetts political fight in a week.

Last week Federal District Attorney Frederick H. Tarr was barred from speaking over WBZ in behalf of William M. Butler, dry candidate for the Republican nomination for senator, after the Liberal Civic League had pointed out to the station director that the federal attorney was not a candidate for public office.

On Saturday the Liberal Civic League demanded of President Hoover that District Attorney Tarr be removed from office for "unwarranted interference" in Massachusetts politics.

This demand was repeated today in a lengthy communication to the President enlarging on the organization's telegram sent Saturday.

French Air Heroes Pay Tribute to Unknown Soldier

MAURICE BELLONTE

DIEUDONNE COSTE

WHILE A GUARD OF HONOR stood at attention Capt. Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte, hero conquerors of the North Atlantic air trails, paid a tribute to the memory of America's war dead at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington Cemetery. Coste and Bellonte are shown placing a wreath on the tomb. It was Coste's second visit to the tomb. He placed a wreath at the tomb when he made a four-continent flight with the French pilot, Brix. COSTE IN HOP BACK TO N. Y.

Washington, Sept. 9—Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte flew from here to Curtiss field, Long Island, today after being honored in the capital as a result of their successful Paris-New York flight.

President Hoover bestowed upon Capt. Coste and Lieut. Bellonte the crowning reward for their epochal flight. It was an official commendation for their remarkable feat, the only honor which the United States may render a foreigner. The President's words and those of Capt. Coste were carried to the world by an international radio network.

RISK MEN URGE SAFETY PLAN

Hartford, Ct., Sept. 9—Changes in the safety responsibility provisions of motor vehicle laws to protect non-resident drivers were recommended at the national convention of insurance commissioners here.

Two hundred delegates from every state in the Union and from Canada are attending the convention.

Amendment of motor vehicle laws regarding uniform safety responsibility provisions on the North American continent, rather than a change in insurance laws, was suggested by R. Leighton Foster, insurance superintendent of the province of Ontario, where the amended American Automobile Association safety responsibility bill was recently carried.

The bill would authorize commissioners of motor vehicles to accept as proof of responsibility by non-residents a certificate issued by any company which complies with state motor vehicle regulations, although not necessarily authorized in that state to do business.

WARNS AGAINST BANK RUN

Millbury, Sept. 9—More than 1000 depositors of the Millbury Savings Bank were told at a mass meeting in the Town Hall last night that unless withdrawals of funds ceased when the moratorium ends on October 15, the bank faces liquidation.

The bank suffered a run of $500,000 in July following the disappearance of the treasurer, Ernest Smith, who is now out on $30,000 bail on charges of larceny of bank funds. The total shortage was $63,000, according to Atty. Jay Clark, Jr., counsel for the bank.

A moratorium was granted following the first run on the bank. The counsel said that there was $800,000 on hand with which to pay off depositors, but that if the bank had to foreclose its mortgages in Millbury, great hardship might result to property owners.

He said that if the run continued in October, the bank would have to turn over its affairs to Bank Examiner Roy A. Hovey. The $63,000 shortage is covered by a bond of $55,000.

Fines 2 in Drive on Garden Thievery

Westfield, Sept. 9 (AP)—Judge Willis J. Kellege of District Court has sailed himself with the farmer to check thefts of garden produce and today imposed fines of $100 on William Brew, 16, and William Lemanski, 18, charged with larceny of canteloupes worth $5 from a local grower.

Heirs of Bandit King Let Jury Settle Film Dispute

Los Angeles, Sept. 9 (AP)—Descendants of Jesse James, early day highwayman who settled his accounts with a gun, came into court today to settle an alleged account with the movies.

Jesse E. James, son of the bandit, and Miss Jessie Estelle James, a granddaughter, are plaintiffs in a suit for $50,000 damages against Paramount-Famous Players-Lasky. They alleged an agreement was made to film the life of their famous forebear, and then broken by the movie company. David R. Faries, executor of the estate of the late Frad Thompson, actor, is co-defendant.

Miss James complained that in January, 1929, she was induced by the film company to quit her stenographer's job in Kansas City, Mo., and come here to play the part of her great-grandmother Mrs. Zerald Samuels, in the Jesse James picture. She seeks $71,000 damages. The late bandit's son alleged he was engaged to write his father's life story, for which he was paid but $600. He claimed $10,000 was a reasonable fee for his services. Six men and six women have been selected for a jury.

Col. Furlong Brings Back Stanley Relics

New York, Sept. 9 (AP)—Col. C. Wellington Furlong of Boston, explorer and author, has returned from an 8000-mile trip through Africa, bringing back relics of the Henry M. Stanley expedition to find David Livingston, 10,000 feet of motion picture film and 3000 still negatives.

Col. Furlong believes the principal accomplishment was the study of pigmies. His collection of pigmy objects will be presented to some museum.

Ex-Prisoners Held in Attack on Guard

Brockton, Sept. 9—Two former inmates of the Bridgewater State Farm were under arrest here today charged with beating up J. W. Spear of 408 Ash st., a guard at the institution, whom they are supposed to have encountered while he was enjoying a walk on his day

SCHOOL HEAD STANDS FIRM

Barnstable, Sept. 9—Challenging the good faith of the local school committee in attempting to oust Louis M. Boody, principal of the high school for 30 years, in favor of Wayne L. Lowe of Berlin, N. H., a petition is in circulation here today. The document will be sent to the state teachers' retirement board. A hearing on the matter will be held at the State House, Sept. 16.

Pupils of the high school returned to their studies yesterday to find both Boody and Lowe in the principal's office. Through a pre-arranged truce, there was no visible friction between the two headmasters.

Boody was granted a leave of absence in June, with the proviso that he either resign as principal or return as a teacher at the expiration of that time. Less than an hour before the vote was taken by the school committee, Boody sailed to Europe for the summer. He refused to accept the committee's terms when he returned last week.

Failed in Stage Test—Weds Director

ALTHOUGH SHE DIDN'T get the coveted ingenue lead as a result of her screen test, June Clyde, former Follies girl, did win a husband—the director of the production. When Thornton Freeland, United Artist director, informed Miss Clyde that he could not give her the part, he expressed some desire to see her again. Now they are to be married. DEMOCRATS IN MAINE GAIN 14 HOUSE SEATS

Republicans Claim White's Election Backs Hoover; Gardiner Wins by Only 16,000

Portland, Me., Sept. 9 (AP)—Endorsement of the Hoover administration by Maine voters was claimed by Republican leaders today in the victory of major candidates in yesterday's biennial election, while Democratic spokesmen termed it a "victory in defeat."

Republicans say the 30,000 majority given Representative Wallace H. White, Jr., Lewiston, in his contest for U. S. Senator with Frank H. Haskell, Portland, showed the state stood squarely behind the President.

Democrats foresaw disaster for the Republicans throughout the state in the increased percentages Haskell and Edward C. Moran, Jr., Rockland, their Gubernatorial candidate, amassed over those of two years ago. The Democrats gained 14 seats in the lower branch of the Legislature.

WHITE LEADS TICKET

The Republicans reelected Gov. William Tudor Gardiner and three congressmen, and again took the second congressional district, vacated by White who in his vote for senator ran far ahead of Gardiner.

Two years ago against Moran, Gardiner polled a majority of 82,000 in the Hoover landslide and largest vote in the history of Maine, but this year with a light vote, he could muster a majority of only about 16,000.

Carroll L. Beedy, Portland; John E. Nelson, Augusta, and Donald F. Snow, Bangor, re-elected representatives, defeated their Democratic opponents easily, and Donald D. Partridge, Norway, defeated Albert Bilveau, Rumford, in White's district, to complete the state delegation to Washington solidly Republican.

The first woman to seek a state-wide election office in Maine, Helen N. Hanson of Calais, Democrat, was defeated by State Auditor Elbert W. Hayford, Republican incumbent.

DEMOCRATIC GAINS

Democrats in gaining 14 seats in the State House of Representatives will have 30 out of the 151 members.

Four women were chosen for the lower branch: Lena M. Day, Gorham, and Marion Martin, Bangor, Republicans, and Jessie R. Morsey, Lewiston, and Bessie M. Carter, Fairfield, Democrats.

Mrs. Day was in the last Legislature, the others will serve their first term. Clair S. Carter, Lewiston, Republican, remains the lone woman in the Senate, which will be solidly Republican.

The figures for Governor and U. S Senator, with 599 precincts out of 632 reported, are:

For Governor:

William Tudor Gardiner, Republican, of Gardiner, 81,530; Edward C. Moran, Democrat, of Rockland, 65,385.

For U. S. Senator:

Wallace H. White, Republican, of Lewiston, 86,837; Frank H. Haskell, Democrat, of Portland, 55,932.

Governor Gardiner's lead over Moran is the smallest since Carl E. Milliken, Republican, was elected Governor over Bertrand G. McIntyre 12 years ago by a margin of 5000 votes.

JAPS SAVE FOUR AMERICANS

Washington, Sept. 9 (AP)—The capture by Communist forces of Shansi, a city in Hupeh province China, reported to the State Department yesterday, left in doubt the fate of American citizens known to have resided there.

Four Americans were reported safe aboard Japanese vessels, but their identity was not disclosed. Whether more were in the city at the time it fell to the invaders could not be ascertained.

The report came from the American consulate general at Hankow.

Another Hankow dispatch said the American gunboat Tutuila and the British gunboat Ladybird repulsed Communist attacks near Shansi yesterday, inflicting heavy loss on the Reds.

Mrs. Ayer Granted Divorce at Reno

Reno, Nev., Sept. 9—Mrs. Helen Draper Taft Ayer, former wife of a nephew of the late President Taft, was granted a divorce in the district court here yesterday from Nathaniel Farwell Ayer, Boston capitalist.

The papers in the case were filed late in the day and the case tried shortly afterward behind closed doors.

FLAYS FOES OF DRY LAW POLL

Bloomington, Ill., Sept. 9 (AP)—While disclaiming any part in the movement to place the prohibition referendum before Illinois voters next November, Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican senatorial candidate, in a campaign address today declared no citizen "has any right to oppose this poll."

She said even the liquor problem was less important than the right of the people to petition the government.

"Several thousand citizens have signed this petition for a referendum," she continued, "proceeding under their constitutional rights and under their rights specifically provided by the laws of this state. As a result, certain leaders of the Anti-Saloon League have taken the field and their first attack is upon this legal and constitutional proposal.

"The league would have me oppose this legal petition and ignore it later, but I will listen to no counsel which outrages every conviction I have ever held on the subject of majority rule, of popular government and of the sanctity of the Constitution."

BOSTON MAYORS TO MEET SOON

Mayor Reuben Salter of Boston, Eng., is quite sure he will like Boston, Mass. and Mayor Curley. Today he is on the high seas en route for Quebec, thence to here, where he is to be the guest of the city in its tercentenary celebration.

Mayor Salter is accompanied by three old Boston's councilors, Messrs. Bailey, Tait and Mountain, who are anxious to see what Boston's city officials look like. Their only idea of an American alderman is the rotund type depicted in the funny papers and cartoons. They are wondering, too, what Mayor Curley looks like, and they are picturing in their dreams what sort of a place Boston, Mass., is.

Mayor Salter feels that he already knows Mayor Curley and is sure that he is going to like him and, ere long, it may be "Jim" and "Rube" with the two Boston mayors. A London Daily Express staff reporter interviewed Mayor Salter just before his departure from old England for New England. The Express reporter declares that Mayor Salter is the sort of a chap Americans will like.

The domestic help problem is solved by taking a kitchenette apartment and the best are advertised daily in the For Rent columns.

WHITNEY SAYS COURAGE CAN CURE SLUMP

Head of New York Exchange Denies That Stock Drop Caused Depression

New York, Sept. 9 (AP)—The business depression "can be cured only by the courage and activity of our people," said Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock Exchange, in an address today before the Merchants' Association of New York city.

Taking as his topic "Trade Depressions and Stock Panics," Mr. Whitney asserted the decline in security values last fall was not a cause of the business slump, but that it was, on the contrary, "the general realization of the downward trend in trade conditions" which initiated the break in stocks.

"If the stock market did not cause the trade depression," he added, "it is clear the stock market cannot cure it. Many people still seem to believe that rising security prices will forecast the end of the present period in business. That may be so, but before security prices rise there must be confidence that business has turned the corner.

RESOURCES UNIMPAIRED

"Our natural resources are as great today as they were last year. Our great business organizations are in strong financial condition, and our industrial plants are at the highest state of efficient development.

"Credit is abundant. With the exception of the difficulties that have arisen as a result of the drastic deflation of commodity prices, the business horizon is clear.

"What is needed, therefore, is courageous and intelligent effort and confidence in the future of our country. We all know that the present period cannot long endure; yet, individually, many of us are hesitant and wish to wait until others have had the courage to take the initiative.

"I am confident, if the great organizations of business men throughout the country will put their shoulders to the wheel, the period of hesitation will be unnaturally shortened and the re-establishment of prosperity in the United States will become an accomplished fact."

Over-production, Mr. Whitney asserted, was the basic cause of depression and the breaking point was reached last summer when consumption could no longer keep pace with the enormous output. The most dramatic result of the ensuing loss of equilibrium was the stock market panic.

HITS "PRICE FIXING"

Referring to attempts to "tinker artificially with prices," Mr. Whitney mentioned experiments of the American and Canadian governments with wheat, of Brazil with coffee, Great Britain with rubber and Cuba with sugar.

"It was the artificial price structure created by such methods, and not clearly revealed in the indices of commodity prices," he said, "which has been responsible for the unexpected weakness of commodity prices during recent months. Business is thus today paying the price for unsound attempts to maintain price levels in the face of increasing production costs. This trying experience shows that the law of supply and demand cannot be disregarded."

500 LOSE JOBS BY FIRE

Seabrook, N. H., Sept. 9—Fire, of mysterious origin, threw 500 persons out of work here, today, when a one-story wooden shoe factory, owned by the Kessler Shoe Company of Haverhill, Mass., was burned to the ground, destroying thousands of dollars' worth of machinery and shoes and threatening nearby buildings.

Fire departments of Seabrook, Salisbury and Hampton were called in to check the blaze and save nearby property.

20,000 GLEEFUL CHILDREN OPEN BROCKTON FAIR

Brockton, Sept. 9—The Brockton Fair opened its gates today to 20,000 children.

Children's Day, as usual, marked the opening of the five-day fair, but past events witnessed no such influx of shouting youngsters as poured in to take possession of the grounds this morning.

Brockton schools were closed, as were those of many towns in the district, and free transportation was provided by fair officials to all children under 14 from Randolph, Holbrook, Stoughton, Abington, Whitman and the Bridgewaters. All under 14 were admitted free.

PROGRAM FOR THEM

All morning long special trolley cars from distant points rolled up to the fair grounds and discharged their lively, whooping cargoes and before noon it was predicted that the attendance of children would pass the 20,000 figure. There was of well a large attendance of elders, who became kids again for a day.

The Star Spangled Banner" and a salute to the flag by several thousand children grouped on the grounds officially opened the fair. There followed sports in the horse-show rings, pageant dancing by playground groups, a miniature aircraft show with 32 "pilots" and 127 planes, harness races, horse show, Girl and Boy Scout activities, stock and poultry judging by youthful experts, junior extension contests for scholarships and the opening of the industrial arts and home furnishings exposition.

There was a display of daylight fireworks this afternoon and tonight there will be another.

Judge Fred E. Field of the Supreme Court doffed his robe to greet the children, and the special program for them was directed by James Keith. The big Midway, with its sideshow, was their mecca.

FLEET OF BUSSES

By special arrangement with fair officials, the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway is operating buses every half hour both ways between the fair grounds and Mattapan.

Tomorrow will be Grange Day, when the farmers of New England gather for their innings and the inspection of agricultural exhibits. This exhibit becomes of added value this year with the fair moved a month ahead and nearer the regular harvest season.

Boston Day comes as usual on Thursday, with Mayor James M. Curley of Boston the principal guest of the day. A lengthy athletic program has been arranged for that day, with the finale, a 10-mile modified marathon, in the evening.

Horace Keith, chairman of the athletic program, reports a record list of entries, including entries from every section of New England.

GOVERNOR'S DAY

Governor Frank G. Allen with his staff, leading army and navy officials and foreign diplomats will be entertained Friday, set apart as Governor's Day.

The entry of the Governor and his staff in the fair grounds will be preceded by a luncheon at the Commercial Club, with the arrival at the fair grounds scheduled for 1:15 p. m. on that day.

An army of police have been assigned to the fair for the five days, augmenting the regular city force with 250 sworn in for special duty and 40 State troopers to care for the flow of traffic.

This year's change to an earlier date is in the nature of an experiment, according to the officials, who have experienced bad weather in other years when the fair took place in October.

The grand windup Saturday will include an old-fashioned firemen's muster and a program of automobile races. It is designated New England Day.

SCORES FRANCE FOR HEARST INCIDENT

San Francisco, Sept. 9—The government of France made a technical blunder in expelling William Randolph Hearst from French territory, in the opinion of Dr. Rudolph I. Coffee, rabbi of Sinai Temple.

Dr. Coffee, who has just returned from a European tour, today declared France has few friends among the family of European nations, and that she needlessly imperiled American good will in ordering Mr. Hearst to leave France as a result of his exposure of a secret treaty document two years ago.

The Rabbi's statement follows:

"My travels this summer indicate to me that France has few friends among the European nations. The relation between Italy and France is quite acute.

"Why France should seek to arouse additional ill will through harsh treatment of Americans passes my understanding. Yet I regret that that seems to be her present attitude.

"From what I can gather France looks upon every American tourist as a millionaire to be exploited for commercial gain. It is well known that Americans are taxed higher prices in the stores than are European purchasers.

"When France is so fast losing our good will, it is a technical blunder to expel so influential an American as William Randolph Hearst.

"Thirty years ago France regretted the wrong done to Captain Albert Dreyfuss, and she will soon regret that she treated Mr. Hearst with such scant courtesy."

More Than 30 Times Around the World

The motor trucks of The Boston Ice Company would probably take a prize from any travel club in the world—were mileage, alone, considered. During the past year these trucks have traveled 734,262 miles—more than 30 times around the earth. And at each of their many stops they have left cool comfort and the promise of deliciously fresh food.

The Boston Ice Company prides itself upon the service that it is able to render its customers. Its great fleet of motor trucks is only one item of the equipment that makes the prompt daily delivery of ice a certainty. Instead of a hope. So regular is this service that many of our friends say they can set their watches by the arrival of Boston Ice delivery-men.

NURSE ENTERS TYPICAL GIRL SEARCH

In Loretta Durkin, a nurse at the Cambridge Hospital, do admirers believe they have a Typical New England Girl.

A girl who can stand the test of the preliminaries leading up to graduation as a nurse can stand any test, they feel. And so Miss Durkin has become an entry in the Boston Evening American's Typical New England Girl contest.

All girls would like to win the Evening American's Typical New England Girl contest. All girls would like to enjoy New York hospitality at the Hotel Roosevelt, tea with Gloria Swanson, ocean travel on the French liners, Ile de France and the Paris, a week in the French capital and a post-stopover in Manhattan.

But only ONE girl will have the honor and privilege. We don't know who she is. We won't until after midnight Sept. 14, when the search ends and the five judges begin their task of sorting the applications and finding the ONE.

We list today at random the entries of Pauline E. McCaffrey of Portsmouth, N. H., 21, a telephone operator with a penchant for music, athletics and domestic science, five feet six inches, blonde and 120 pounds to her credit; Adelaide Farmer of Westerly, R. I., interested in design and jewelry making, titian-haired; Sophie Victoria Sullivan, Nashua, N. H., 21, and an office clerk, graduate of the Nashua high school.

We could print so many but space does not permit. Suffice it to say that New England womanhood is responding to the great offer of the Boston Evening American and Gloria Swanson. Let other young women do likewise, if they would see Paris as Gloria Swanson sees it in her latest film, "What a Widow," soon to be shown at the Loew's State Theater.

HAVERHILL SHOE PLANTS BOOM

Cheerful tidings came from Haverhill today to the effect that the shoe industry in that city had taken on a new lease of life and was steadily improving.

The Shoe Workers' Protective Union, in one of the most optimistic statements issued in five years, announced that many of the factories had gone on a full winter schedule.

The most encouraging feature of the statement was that the shoe workers' payroll in Haverhill last week totalled $66,000 a day, which was $10,000 a day more than for the preceding week.

$5000 Reward

The Boston Evening American will pay a reward of $5000 for information furnished FIRST and EXCLUSIVELY to this paper resulting in the capture of Oliver B. Garrett as a fugitive from justice. All communications concerning such information should be addressed to the Garrett Reward Editor, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq., or telephone Liberty 4000. All communications and information received by this newspaper will be treated with strict confidence.

Oliver B. Garrett

Aged 35, height 5 feet 10, 160 pounds, complexion medium, eyes and hair chestnut, slightly bald in front, stoop-der build, usually wears a Leghorn or Panama straw hat, double-breasted suit with coat open, neat dresser, walks jauntily.

What can be done with Life Insurance

(6) Taking Care of the Mortgage

A MAN who owns an equity in his home naturally intends to increase it and correspondingly reduce the mortgage as time goes on. He wants to know that his family can continue to live in the home that he has provided, if anything happens to him.

But the home is not really secured unless he arranges to have the debt wiped off in the event of his death while part of the obligation is still outstanding.

MORTGAGE LIFE INSURANCE meets situations like this. By assuming a slight additional carrying charge, a man can feel assured that his family will enjoy their home with no debt to trouble them.

MISS BERT WARREN

MISS GLORIA C. NARDIN

FROM MAINE TO RHODE Island, New England girls are anxious to be The Typical New England Girl and go to Paris as the guest of the Evening American. An art enthusiast is Miss Bert Warren of Madawaska, Me., University of Maine co-ed, one of the most recent entrants in the great contest. Another Normal Art School student is Gloria C. Nardin of Woonsocket, R. I., who hopes to get to Paris to combine such travel with her interests as a fashion artist. And then there is Natalie Carcione of Lynn, a lover of sports, music and dancing.

MISS NATALIE CARCIONE

THE CURE BEGINS IN THE KITCHEN

So MANY people suffer from constipation. It steals health and happiness. They spend millions of dollars yearly on pills and drugs.

That's the wrong way to try to cure constipation. The right way is to correct the diet—to add enough roughage to your food to sweep the poisons out of your system.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to do this. You'll enjoy it as a ready-to-eat cereal, with milk or cream. A delicious food for maintaining health.

Use Kellogg's ALL-BRAN also for making bran muffins and breads. Adds a pleasant, nut-like flavor to omelets, soups, salads. At all grocers in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

2 NOW MISSING IN EWALD CASE

New York, Sept. 9 (AP)—A second mysterious disappearance today occupied the attention of federal officials investigating the alleged purchase by George F. Ewald of his office of magistrate.

A partner of Martin J. Healy, district Tammany leader, in the Cayuga Realty Company, was reported missing since July 29. It is understood federal marshals are seeking him in Canada to subpoena him and the company's records, which disappeared about the same time.

Meanwhile, the police search for Supreme Court Justice Joseph Force Crater has virtually reached a standstill with all clues exhausted. Ten thousand circulars describing the missing justice have been sent throughout the country and to Mexico and Canada.

Friends Pay Taxi Bill to Save One-Time Star From Jail

"New York, Sept. 9 (INS)—Broadway has a heart after all.

That street where yesterday's triumphs are forgotten like the passing seasons, remembered Frances White and the onetime darling of the stage will not go to jail today because she didn't have $3.50 to pay for a taxi fare.

Friends of the actress sent her money when they learned she was so low in funds she faced a court appearance because she could not pay a cab bill.

Princess Eudoxie Reported Engaged

Sofia, Bulgaria, Sept. 9 (AP)—It is reported in political circles that Princess Eudoxie, sister of King Boris and third daughter of King Ferdinand, has been betrothed to a member of the family of the Duke of Wuerttemberg.

HUNTED NEGRO IS FOUND SHOT

Darien, Ga., Sept. 9 (AP)—"Bubber" Bryan, 24, sought as the second negro who participated in a gun fight yesterday, in which a policeman was slain and three others wounded, was found shot and seriously wounded in the woods near here today, according to deputy sheriffs.

Bryan was found lying near his home authorities said in the opposite direction of the swamps where George Grant, negro believed to have been Bryan's companion in yesterday's gun battle, was captured. Grant was lynched in the county jail and a detachment of National Guardsmen was sent here by the governor.

Leonard Campaigns on Reduced Taxes

Basing his campaign on lower taxes and development of Dorchester Bay, Joseph Leonard is waging a determined fight for Democratic nomination to the House of Representatives from the 15th Suffolk district.

He believes that Ward 15 is entitled to a White Health Unit, also a municipal building and better trolley service. Leonard is a former member of the City Council, the House of Representatives and the State Senate.

LAST OF ANDREE RELICS ON WAY TO TROMSOE

By KNUT STUBBENDORFF

Universal Service special correspondent with the Hearst-Scandinavian newspaper expedition to White Island. Arctic death place of the members of the tragic Andree balloon expedition to the North Pole.

Special Radio Dispatch

(Copyright, 1930, by Universal Service, Inc., in all countries except Norway and Sweden. All rights reserved. Reproduction in whole or in part prohibited.)

Aboard S. S. Isbjoern, bound for Tromsoe, Sept. 9—The little sealing vessel Isbjoern, which originally left Tromsoe to search for the Bratvaag which was bringing the first Andree expedition relics to civilization, is homeward bound today, bearing what are believed to be the skull of Salomon Auguste Andree and the skeleton of Knut Fraenkel.

Another landing on White Island was made in a perfectly calm sea. Together with Capt. Skogvik of the Isbjoern, I went on shore to make a rough sketch and map of the Andree party's death house. The captain and I also visited the inland ice.

We found a sleeping bag of reindeer skin at the east end of the short wall of the hut, where the Andree party members spent their last days.

Out of the ice near the supply depot we hewed out with icexes a third pair of snowshoes. These shoes were not worn, and apparently had never been used.

After that, we shovelled snow over the place where we had made our grim discoveries, and bade farewell to the deserted Arctic island.

Suddenly, the wind began to increase. We signalled to the Isbjoern by means of a flag, and were lucky to have the men aboard see us. The weather became worse, and banks of fog grew like a compact wall out of the sea.

Retracts Theory of Italia Discovery

By SVEN HEDMAN

Universal Service Special Cable

(Copyright, 1930, By Universal Service, Inc.

Tromsoe, Norway, Sept. 9—In the face of opinions of other Arctic experts, Dr. Holmboe today retracted his statement of last night that the Hearst-Dagens-Nyter expedition, now sailing from White Island to Tromsoe Isbjoern, may have discovered the last camp of the six missing members of the crew of the ill-fated dirigible Italia.

It was not until Capt. Gunnar Horn, commander of the Bratvaag, the crew of which made the first Andree discoveries on August 6 had declared Dr. Holmboe's theory untenable that the latter recanted.

The Bratvaag has already returned with the complete body of Dr. Nils Strindberg and the skeleton of Andree. Members of the newspaper expedition have declared they believe their subsequent finds to be the complete body of Knut Fraenkel, third member of the Andree expedition, and the skull of Andree.

Coast Guards Nab 5 as River Pirates

Port Norris, N. J., Sept. 9 (AP)—Five men, alleged members of a gang of river pirates, were under arrest here today. They were lured ashore, authorities said, when Coast Guardsmen imitated the signals used by their alleged confederates.

Police believe the men are responsible for at least 35 robberies which have cost ship owners and rivermen along the Maurice river $10,000 within the past year.

HARBORD FLAYS SMITH, WALKER, ROOSEVELT

New York, Sept. 9 (AP)—Maj.-Gen. James G. Harbord, chairman of the Republican advisory committee, in a radio address last night charged that "Democratic politicians during 10 years of misrule have plundered the city of New York and brought its government to the verge of moral bankruptcy."

Responsibility for conditions, he said, must be shared by Alfred E. Smith, titular head of the party; Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt and Mayor James J. Walker, whom he described as "an amiable young man with cynical indifference to crimes committed under his administration."

"Democratic politicians have plundered the city treasury, exploited the judiciary, and formed alliances with criminals and racketeers," he said. "Millions of dollars have been stolen through fraudulent contracts, payroll padding and sale of appointments and special privileges. "The governor of our state, a Democrat and a fine citizen, is now scarcely to be envied. If re-elected this autumn circumstances will make him a healing contender for the next presidential nomination.

"He cannot be renominated or reelected without the influence of Tammany. To secure that influence he has chosen to stand for its crimes in the chief city of America. He, too, must share the responsibility for the most tragic years in the history of this city."

SLOVENES BURN ITALIAN FLAG

Zagreb, Croatia, Jugoslavia, Sept. 9 (AP)—Students today, protesting the execution of four Slovenes by the Italian Government at Triest, dragged an Italian flag through the mud and burnt it in the hospital square. The population applauded.

A demonstration in front of the Italian consulate was frustrated by police. The crowd then went to the French and German consulates and cheered.

As a sign of mourning, all cafes and theaters and the concert hall were closed.

800 Back to Work at Boston & Maine

Billerica, Sept. 9—George M. Silva, superintendent of the Boston & Maine railroad plant here, today announced that 800 men, some of whom have been without employment for a fortnight and some of whom have been out for a longer period, had been re-employed.

He advised that the remaining 50 men "laid off" will be re-employed Wednesday.

Sea Drives Divers From Treasure Ship

Brest, France, Sept. 9 (AP)—Italian divers operating off the coast were unable to reach the sunken steamship Egypt today in their quest for treasure. The sea was calm but ocean currents were so strong divers found the work underseas too dangerous.

N. Y. Broker Loses Money, Ends Life

New York, Sept. 9 (INS)—Financial reverses were blamed today for the suicide of Edgar Leo, 50-year-old broker, husband of Rita Wellman, playwright and novelist. Leo shot himself with a rifle. He had been separated from his wife for several years, police said.

DRAPER 7 TO 5 FAVORITE OVER BUTLER IN G. O. P. SENATE RACE

PLANK CUTS INTO DRY RANKS

Colonel to Address Women at Home Today; Rallies Scheduled in Newton

By BERNARD J. DOHERTY

With the primaries but a week away, wagers on the G. O. P. senatorial contest today placed odds of 7 to 5 on Draper.

A veritable deluge of letters in support of the Hopedale man has reached Draper's quarters at the Hotel Statler.

His stand on the prohibition issue, which he regards as the greatest challenge to law and order, has not only attracted the wets but a great many in the dry ranks, many of them women.

BOWLES FOR DRAPER

Former Congressman Henry L. Bowles of Springfield, who served in the Governor's Council under Calvin Coolidge, last night threw his strength to Draper.

"I feel that Mr. Draper typifies the honesty and sincerity which we must demand in public life," he said.

As a testimonial to Draper and Mrs. Draper, women supporters in Hopedale will meet at "The Ledges," the Draper home today.

Mrs. B. M. Bristow Draper will assist Mrs. Eben S. Draper in receiving.

RALLIES IN NEWTON

In Newton today two rallies in the interest of Draper's candidacy will be held. Draper will be the guest of the Kiwanis Club at luncheon in the Newton Centre Women's Club. Mayor Sinclair Weeks will also speak. At 6:30 p. m. there will be a parade in Draper's honor, with the American Legion Post No. 44 band making its first public appearance.

A concert will be given on the town of the Newton high school, after which a rally will take place with Mayor Weeks presiding. The occasion will mark the first public appearance of former Speaker B. Loring Young on the stump for Draper.

Today's activities will be followed by daily gatherings throughout the Newtons during the "Seven Days of Service" to Col. Draper.

HITS 48-HOUR PLAN

Draper in a radio speech last night again assailed the national 48-hour law legislation proped by his opponent, William M. Butler.

"I have quoted from a decision of the United States Supreme Court in 1917 holding similar legislation to be unconstitutional," he pointed out. "I am glad to say my position has been entirely vindicated by comments of the press throughout the state."

The candidate reiterated his stand for repeal of the 18th amendment.

"I take this stand not because that amendment is merely an amendment to the Constitution but because it contains in its wording certain prohibitions making it impossible for the individual states to control what is essentially a state problem," he stated.

"I have no objection to a grant of power to the federal government which would allow it to assist such states as may ask for federal assistance in the enforcement of their own laws, but I object to having the State of Massachusetts placed in a position

LOW PRICE OF CANE SUGAR STIMULATES HOME PRESERVING

Winter Food Bills Can Be Materially Reduced by Putting Up Fruit Now

One cannot go to market these days without being reminded that this is the year to make jellies, jams and preserves. Luscious fruit is in abundance and cheap everywhere, and pure cane sugar — the best to be had—is offered at an unheard-of low price.

The woman who puts up a dozen jars of fruit or a few glasses of jelly and jam will be surprised at how little they cost her. But the real saving will be noticed later when these delicious home-made preserves make it unnecessary to buy others.

As a means of making menus attractive, there are few foods more helpful than jellies, jams and preserves. For children, canned fruit is a most desirable breakfast dish or dessert.

Sweet pickles and relishes made of cucumbers, tomatoes, cabbage or melon rind are also easy and inexpensive to put up. When served with meat and fish the combination is delicious. Good food promotes good health. The Sugar Institute.

Still in Fight

where it cannot, even if it will, pass laws which might ameliorate the present unsatisfactory situation. I am glad to say the people of Massachusetts agree with me in this stand as shown by the majority of over 280,000 cast in the last election."

At rallies in Belmont, Watertown, Malden and Everett both senatorial candidates talked to large gatherings.

Butler pledged himself to upbuilding Massachusetts employment and business conditions. He alluded to the platform adopted at the national convention in 1928 and stated that it should not be regarded lightly.

"I stand by the Constitution always and when I am elected to the Senate, I don't propose to use my time and efforts to tear down the Constitution," he said, referring to the Eighteenth Amendment. "I stand with the President when he says I do not favor repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment."

U. S. Bars Daughter of British Labor M. P.

New York, Sept. 9 (AP)—Detention at Ellis Island of Miss Elsa Hewitt, daughter of George Hewitt, Labor member of parliament, was revealed today when the American Civil Liberties Union announced it would protest to Washington. Her admission was denied on grounds that it would be in violation of the anti-alien contract labor law.

FEATURE NOON BUTLER RALLY

With Massachusetts primaries only a week away the campaign of William M. Butler for the Republican senatorial nomination gathered impetus today, a noon-day rally at Pemberton sq. being the feature.

Mrs Butler made her first radio "appearance" last night, calling upon the women of the state to endorse her husband because he advocated a national labor law to equalize working conditions.

Simultaneously, Butler headquarters made public the enforcement of their candidate by City Councilor Robert Gardner Wilson. Wilson announced that although he personally admires Eben S. Draper, Butler's opponent, he believes Butler better fitted by long training and experience.

The Butler committee is planning a huge rally, somewhere in Boston Friday night, when Gen. Butler Ames, a candidate for the senatorial nomination two years ago, will tell why he is for Butler.

Offsetting Butler's endorsement by Councilor Wilson, the Draper forces will give out a statement by former Congressman Henry L. Bowles of Springfield, in which Bowles' support is pledged to the anti prohibition candidate on the ground that Draper's nomination will be the only guarantee of success for the Republican party at the polls in November.

O'BRIEN FLAYS COOLIDGE

Speaking at several rallies throughout Greater Boston last night, former Dist.-Atty. Thomas C O'Brien, candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States senator, charged Marcus Coolidge, his opponent with having "torn the Corrupt Practices Act into shreds" in his campaign.

"I charge that you have already, personally, expended far more money than is allowed under this act as a candidate for the United States Senate in a primary election. I charge that you have engaged a number of paid workers, that you have gone into expensive billboard advertising, and that you have contracted to send a circular to the entire Democratic voting list of the State," said O'Brien.

"You have torn the Corrupt Practices Act into shreds," said O'Brien. "I charge that you have brought nothing into our party except a big bankroll, much of which came to you as a manufacturer during the war that was fought to make the world safe for democracy. I say to you, Mr. Coolidge, if you wish to buy your way into the United States Senate you should go over into the Republican party where bartering and sale seem to be the accepted order of campaigning."

Buy Now Club Gets 3 Notable Members

$100 worth of clothing. I was measured for a suit that cost me —well, let us say more than $20."

His interviewer surveyed the commissioner's six feet and more of frame and 200 and more of weight and agreed that the suit must have cost considerably more.

"The Buy Now Club is an excellent way to promote buying," the commissioner added, "and will undoubtedly help to relieve unemployment. I live up to my salary fairly well, but I would be glad to spend as much more as I can afford.

"Joining the Buy Now Club will provide me with an opportunity to indulge a weakness I have for buying everything I like, particularly antiques."

Registrar George A. Parker declared he would make extra purchases as he enrolled in the Buy Now Club.

"The plan is logical and timely," he said, "and one which should have the support of everyone who can afford to loosen up their purse strings a little more. I am glad to add my name to this worth-while movement to revive business."

HUNDREDS JOIN CLUB

Calvin Coolidge, first citizen of Massachusetts, Governor Allen, Mayor Curley and hundreds of citizens of the rank and file throughout the Commonwealth have joined the club already. Its purposes have been endorsed by men and women in every walk of life.

Sign the coupon printed daily in this newspaper and add your pledge to those who have started the ball rolling toward prosperity. There is no obligation attached.

The suggestion that Boston business houses advance $29 to each of their salaried employes and make small weekly deduction from wages until the sum is paid back was made by former Lieut.-Gov. Edward P. Barry.

"If this action were taken by commercial institutions which are financially able to do so Mayor Curley's request that everybody spend $29 to stimulate business would promptly receive the support of a large number of small salaried people," Mr. Barry said.

"The greater part of the money advanced in this manner would be spent for necessities and the concerns taking such action would profit from it.

"Many small salaried persons are now making weekly savings toward the purchase of suits and overcoats later in the season. If the money were advanced now by their employers they would make immediate purchases. Business would resume and soon things would be back to normal.

DESERVES SUPPORT

"Mayor Curley's suggestion deserves the support of every intelligent business man in this city and I sincerely trust that they will encourage their salaried employes to put their money in circulation.

"Concerns that make annual Christmas gratuities, might well consider the suggestion that they pay these monies earlier than usual this year because as a rule those benefiting by such payments put the money back in circulation almost immediately after receiving it.

"The Boston Evening American BUY NOW CLUB is an excellent idea and I feel confident that it will have far reaching and beneficial results."

FOLEY SCORES OPPONENT

The irresponsible statements of State Senator Joseph Mulhern in his attempt to interest voters of Suffolk County, disqualify him for the post of county prosecutor. Dist Atty. William J. Foley declared last night at rallies in Hyde sq., Roxbury.

"The wild statements of my inexperienced opponent concerning general police matters are convincing proof that he is incapable of handling such a position," Foley said.

"There are approximately 25,000 cases coming before a district attorney in the course of one administration. To place such a responsibility on an immature, flighty type of individual, careless in the use of facts and figures, is too great a risk."

Cooks in 9 minutes

THE best meals are not always the hardest to prepare. Just try a surprise on your family. Why not serve MUELLER'S SPAGHETTI?

Serve it plain—or prepare it according to one of the many special MUELLER recipes; here is one:

SPAGHETTI a l'Ohio

1 pkg. MUELLER'S SPAGHETTI; ½ cup mushrooms; 4 slices bacon; 2 onions; ¾ pound ground round steak; 2 cans tomato soup; 2 pieces chopped pimento; ½ tsp. salt; ¼ tsp. pepper; 1 tbsp. butter. Parboil spaghetti 7 min. in 4 qts. boiling water with 1 tbsp. salt. Drain. Peel and stew mushrooms 15 min. Cut bacon small and fry. Add chopped onions and steak; cook 5 min. Add spaghetti, mushrooms, soup, seasonings and butter. Pour into greased baking dish. Bake in slow oven ½ hour.

A Blend of Farina

—the most nourishing part of the wheat — makes MUELLER'S SPAGHETTI different from all other foods. Light, fluffy and delicious, owing to the special Mueller-processes, it needs no other garnishing than ordinary pan gravy!

9 Minutes' Boiling

MUELLER'S SPAGHETTI and MACARONI cook up to perfection in 9 minutes' boiling. This prevents overcooking, though one or two minutes more may be allowed for extra tenderness. Be sure to say "MUELLER'S" to your grocer; he has it or can get it for you.

FANNING with GEORGE UNDERWOOD

At vs. Jimmy No Broadcast "Tain't Right"

Radio Helps Breeds Fans Sizing 'Em Up

Help! Mister Edison to Rescue of Radio Fans!

Will not the good Signor Marconi, the venerable Thomas Edison, or some other wizard of electricity come to the rescue of the fans? Promoters are refusing to permit sporting events to be broadcasted. The big business men of sport think broadcasting hurts the ticket sale. A whole parcel of others don't think it does. Let's arbitrate. Perhaps a compromise could be arranged if Marconi or Edison could invent a Blanket of Silence, which could be thrown out over a radius of a couple of hundred miles, but leave the ether outside that radius as unblanketed as Venus arising from the seafoam.

For instance. Down in New York Thursday night Jimmy McLarnin and Al Singer are going to cross gloves in what looms up on paper as the best boxing attraction of the year. The duel between the smiling faced Irish-Canadian from the sunset slopes of the Rockies and the doughty little Jewish warrior from off the sidewalks of New York carries such magnetic qualities that a whole flock of fight regulars are going down from Boston to see it. Oodles of us can't make the trek and so would like to get it over the air.

George Underwood

"No," the promoters holler. "The event will not be broadcast. It would hurt the ticket sale."

If Mister Edison or the good Signor Marconi would come along and manufacture that Silence Blanket perhaps the promoters would agree to let the Singer-McLarnin duel be broadcast, provided only listeners outside a radius of the aforementioned couple hundred miles could tune in. Everyone inside that radius would have to cough up the root of all evil. Thus the poor, starving promoters would be able to rake in enough shekels to buy the winter's coal and keep the wolf from the door.

GRAN'MAS NOW FANS

Broadcasting an event hurt the ticket sale? You can't tell us it does. We believe it helps it. No one who has the wherewithal to see a fight, ball game or sporting event is content to listen in. We fans tune in only when circumstances compel us to remain away. The radio has bred millions of fans, aroused interest in sport among a new and most desirable clientele. Take boxing for instance. Since the advent of the radio boxing has been brought directly into the home. The radio has the whole durned family from gran'ma down to the cat interested in the manly art of scrambling ears.

Kindly, benign, gentle old ladies not interested in modified murder, you say? Now you know you're wrong. We have the kindest, sweetest, dearest old mother in the world. The snows of 81 winters are in her hair; the sunshine of 81 summers in her heart. If you don't think that old Irish mother of mine is interested in the cauliflower industry you should hear the conversation over the coffee some morning after a fight which those hard hearted promoters actually allow to be broadcasted. It goes something like this:

Me—Morning, ma. What, no bananas? All right, I'll have a couple of oranges and a honey dew melon. Corking scrap, last night, Mother. One-Round Kibitzer didn't win a round from Mike McTush. Kibitzer was terrible.

Ma—I fear you are wrong, my son. I do hope you didn't write anything like that in the paper. I listened in on the —eh, er—contest and I distinctly heard Graham Crackers McNamitzsky describe Mr. Kibitzer's beautiful boxing.

Me—Now, Mother, I was right at the ringside, where I could reach over and touch McTush and Kibitzer. You were sitting right here in the easy chair at home.

Ma—Tut! Tut! My son! True, I did not see the fight—er, eh—pastime, with my eyes, but didn't I hear it with my own ears?

FAIRLY OOZE CLASS

Friend fans, the Singer-McLarnin duel should warm the cockles of your heart. Two great little men. Class sticks out all over them. Each has speed, skill, heart and—punch!

Singer is the greatest lightweight that has come up since Leonard's time. A twelve-month ago after being in the professional ring for only a little more than a year he was good enough to beat Kid Chocolate. Boston fans saw Chocolate rock Johnny Vacca into the arms of Morpheus for the first time Johnny ever had the dirge of the doleful decimal tolled over him. Singer beat that sensational Cuban brunette, but was robbed of the decision. Al has marched steadily onward since then. That knockout over Sammy Mandell was no fluke. Singer is a better fighter now than Leonard was at a corresponding stage of his career.

McLarnin—ah, what a scrapper that lad is! Dynamite in both hands and as sweet a boxer as you ever saw. Shamus will knock anyone out that cannot make him keep his guard up. Most of the time Jimmy, who is the neatest ducker and slipper, we have seen since Jem Driscoll, depends on ducking, slipping and footwork on the defence, seldom putting up his hands to block. That enables him to always be in punching position. He hits with the speed of a striking rattler and with the accuracy and impact of a sharpshooter's bullet.

Facing a southpaw or a dangerous puncher Jimmy has to keep his guard up. That throws him off his punching. When he's blocking, you know, he is not hitting.

Most of the experts think that in taking on McLarnin Singer has bitten off more than he can chew.

We dunno—we dunno. The world's lightweight champion is a much greater fighter than some of the experts think. But Singer will have to be a wonder of wonders to go out of his division and whip a ring man of the class and caliber of Jimmy McLarnin.

Mass. Aggies to Hold Track Meet

Amherst, Sept. 9—M. A. C.'s second annual western Massachusetts small high school track and field championships will take place on Alumni Field on Saturday, September 27.

As has been the custom, the meet will be open to schools of less than 500 enrollment with the idea of stacking the smaller schools against each other to promote fairness in competition.

New Dummy Set Up at Harvard

Harvard's new tackling dummy that arrived from California several weeks ago has been set up on the varsity practice field back of the Stadium.

The new machine is operated by the coach, with a minimum of effort, and gives him an opportunity to observe the technique of the tackler as well as to judge the force behind each tackle.

Old-Time Stars Thrill Fans in Brilliant Game

By JOE CASHMAN

There's no baseball in Boston today, which is just as well, as far as the 30,000 fans who saw these marvelous players of the past in the old-timers' game are concerned.

They witnessed more baseball and experienced more thrills while gazing on these diamond masters of yesteryear than they would watching the modern players for a full season, and they would not care in the least if they couldn't see another game this year.

They can and will, of course, but all they want to do today is talk about the old heroes and the wonderful performance they put on up at the Wigwam.

You can't blame them, either, considering what they saw yesterday.

Nothing that could come close to rivaling that great reunion was ever held anywhere.

Participating in actual conflict again was every star of note from 1890 to 1920, Cobb, Wagner, Hooper, Speaker, Lewis, Clarke and all the rest.

Among the spectators were thousands of fans, men and women who hadn't seen a ball game in years. The modern game doesn't hold any appeal to them, but they were out in force to see the diamond heroes of their youth in uniform once more and the sight put the sparkle back in their eyes, new life in their hardened arteries. They were kids again for the nonce and the most enthusiastic fans in the huge crowd.

That's the sort of a never-to-be-forgotten spectacle it was, and it is the hope of all who were present that an encore will be put on before many more years have past.

The fans went out principally to see the old heroes in the flesh again and to give them a hand for all they had done for baseball in the past. They didn't expect the veterans to show much baseball class, yet they went home convinced that they had seen as fine a game as has been played in the Hub all season.

The first old-timers' game, back in 1925, was more or less of a burlesque, but there was little of the ridiculous in this latest pastime.

Every player was serious in his desire to win and it was a nip and tuck battle from the first until the last inning. The All-Boston team won, 8 to 4, but there was nothing certain about its victory until it put over three runs in the eighth.

Some of the veterans, naturally, were not able to do much either at bat or afield but others looked just as good as they ever did and the majority showed that they could still go out there and play a fair game of ball.

Harry Hooper, great Red Sox outfielder from 1910 to 1929, was never better. He made a diving catch of a Texas Leaguer back of second base that no right fielder in the game today could have come within 10 yards of, he held legitimate doubles to singles with that great arm which threw out so many daring runners in the past and he came through with three ringing hits.

There are a lot poorer players than Hooper is right now holding down big league jobs this very season.

Duffy Lewis and Tris Speaker, who with Hooper constituted the greatest outfield trio ever, were also immense, covering acres of ground in the field, hitting timely and hard and displaying the same deadly arms that they did in their prime.

Famous Outfield Trio Plays Entire Game

The whole nine innings this great trio played, and they were as full of pep at the finish as when they started.

Small wonder local fans say neither Hub team has had an outfielder since these three lads severed their connection with the Sox.

None of the other players went the distance, but many of them were able to and would have if permitted, but the rival managers, Bill Carrigan and Fred Clarke, wanted to give the fans a peek at all their charges and made frequent substitutions.

INDIANS ON THE WARPATH AGAIN

Capt. Hal Andres — Coach Jack Cannell

WAH-HOO-WAH shriek the Dartmouth Indians as they lay aside the peace-pipe and prepare for fall battles on the gridiron. The first day's hatch of candidates is shown dashing from the Field house at Hanover to be greeted by Coach Jackson Cannell. Note the "shorts" which were started at Dartmouth. In the other photo Coach Cannell is talking things over with Capt. Hal Andres of Newton, one of the best centers in Dartmouth history. The Big Green expects a fine season. They'll be in Boston on October 25 to play Harvard. The Green's big game is with Stanford on November 29 at Palo Alto.

78 TURN OUT AT DARTMOUTH

Hanover, N. H., Sept. 9—Dartmouth opened its strenuous 1930 football campaign here when 78 candidates, assembling from all sections of the country, gathered at Memorial Field this afternoon for the big Green's opening drill.

Activity was not lacking as the squad, which included a dozen letter men, was sent through its paces in a two-hour workout by the Dartmouth coaching staff.

Brett Osborne, captain of the 1928 Andover Academy eleven, and Bill Hoffman, captain of the 1932 freshman team, both tackles; Dan Rollins, quarterback for last year's yearling group, and Jack Smart, halfback were at the drill.

Hoffman today saw his first football work in two seasons, having dropped out of college at the end of the first semester of his freshman year, to return at the start of the last school year. Arthur Connelly, end; Way Thompson, tackle, and Forrest Branch, guard, other freshman regulars a year ago also reported.

Leading the candidates reporting today was Capt. Harold Andres of Newton, who will play center. Gus Bromberg, Charley Nims and George Pettingill, guards; Henry Barber, tackle; Ping Percy, center, and Stan Yudicky, end, were the other lettermen in the line to report.

42 Candidates for Providence Eleven

Providence, R. I., Sept. 9—Providence College opened its two-week pre-season football practice here when 42 players, the largest opening day turnout in the history of the college, reported to Head Coach Archie Golembeski.

FANS PROTEST PRICE BOOST

Football fans are up in arms over what they term as the arbitrary action of football officials in boosting the price of tickets for the annual Malden-Medford high football game on Thanksgiving day, which will this year be played at Malden. The tickets will be $2 or just double what they have been heretofore.

Malden high is adding many additional seats so that its field will this year seat 17,000 instead of some 11,000.

The annual contest between these schools has been held for more than 35 years. The price of tickets has steadily increased but has been at $1 for many years past.

SENATOR TO SUCCEED WAGNER

QUINN WANTED HIM.

Quinn was seriously considering appointing him manager of the Sox when Lee Fohl and Bill Carrigan retired.

Carrigan's surprising decision to come back robbed Muddy of his chance to become the Sox pilot in '27, and when Bill retired again last winter, he so strongly urged that Wagner be given the job that Quinn agreed.

Though Ruel's success will depend entirely on the material he is given to work with, he should make a good manager. He's been in the big show for more than a dozen years and he wasn't in action two seasons before he became generally regarded as one of the smartest backstops in the history of the game.

BORN IN ST. LOUIS

Ruel was born in St. Louis on Feb. 20, 1896, and his first pro baseball engagement was with the St. Louis Browns in 1915. He was farmed to Memphis the following year and came up again with the Yanks in 1918 and has been a big league star ever since.

In 1920 he came to the Sox and went very well for two years, becoming very popular with local fans.

In 1923 he was traded to Washington and became a star of stars. Last year and this he has been used mostly as a coach of young pitchers and a second-string receiver. He is still able to catch 75 games a season, but he will probably become a bench manager in the Hub.

Ruel took up the study of law after going to Washington and last year qualified to practice before the United States Supreme Court, and it is reported he makes more money in his law business than he does on the diamond.

Bob Quinn Denies Considering Ruel

Bob Quinn when asked about the appointment strongly denied it, saying that he hadn't given any thought to the question of who would manage the club next year and wouldn't until this season is over.

"I haven't given a thought to Ruel or anybody else for the very good reason that I have so many things to think of in connection with the 1930 campaign that I have no time to look forward beyond the end of this month.

"If I haven't got Ruel or any other manager, I'll say I don't know that I will have a new pilot next year.

"There's absolutely no reason for anybody believing that Ruel will be boss of the Red Sox in 1931."

Quinn is always honest. He's telling the truth when he says he hasn't signed Ruel. He hasn't, because 'Muddy' wasn't available until today.

He couldn't be expected to affirm his intention of appointing a successor to a man who still has a few weeks more to go before his contract expires, even if he contemplated such a move.

Some owner would, but no Quinn. He never hurts anybody's feelings if he can help it, and he probably won't actually get the signature of the new manager until long after the season has closed.

Denials are natural at this time. Sit tight and watch developments.

Collegiate Wrestler Dies After Bout

San Francisco, Sept 9 (AP)—Injured by a heavy fall in a University of California wrestling bout, George Yoshinoaga, 21, a sophomore, died here last night. Yoshinoaga, apparently recovered, went home after the bout, but collapsed. He died after an emergency operation.

Coach Murphy Predicts Strong Eleven at Rindge

TEAM FACES DIFFICULT SCHEDULE

By BILL CONNELL

"We'll have a good team this fall," said Coach Tommy Murphy of Rindge Technical high school of Cambridge today. "With five members of last year's eleven back and some capable subs, Rindge will be able to cope with every opponent on its schedule."

That was an unusual statement for any coach, school or otherwise, to make. Most of the mentors seem only to worry about boys who are gone from the previous season's team, and for publication at least, are unwilling to see a single bright spot in the prospects for the coming campaign.

Bill Connell

Coach Murphy, though, shows his confidence in his boys by his courageous outlook. Especially because Rindge faces one of the hardest schedules in its history. The slate opens September 27, with Peabody high as the enemy team.

Steve Patten always has a strong team at Peabody and that initial clash will be a tough one for Rindge. And for the rest of the season Rindge plays one good team after another. Everett, Cambridge Latin, Chelsea, Brookline, Lawrence, Newton, Lowell, New Bedford and Somerville come along in that order.

Sarausky One of Best School Backs

Captain Tony Sarausky, ranked with the best of the school backs last year, will be at quarter. Nick Dergeay, Stan Grygiel, Jim Wyche, Vito Annaix, Tony Burbui, Gilbert Lawrence, John "Buster" Raddick and Bluesko are other backs who give Tom Murphy a couple of sets of ball carriers to toss into the lists.

John Burgess will be pivot man of the team. Other linemen must fight for the positions. Though none has any tight hold on any place on the front wall, the following should be in the lineup steadily: Jim Malisinski, Adelbert Corbin, Ted Faxon, Clark Freeman, George Parker, Charley McCue and Jack Delulse.

Murphy has a splendid system, developed by him, for keeping the athletes eligible for the team. Boys who play Saturdays have the following Monday free from grid practice. They are not, however, released from all thought of school.

Special Study Period For Gridmen

The boys are required on Monday to stay at school after the regular classes are finished. There, with the aid of three or four teachers, who sacrifice their free time for the boys, the lads put in a special stretch of study.

The boys who practice Mondays, generally the weaker members of the big squad, have their extra study session Friday afternoon. Keeping the subs in class Friday enables the coach to put in much more necessary work with the regulars.

This extra work keeps all the players up in their school work and eligible to play football. More important, from the viewpoint of Coach Murphy, it enables the lads with athletic ability to manage to cover their school work thoroughly and later on proceed without trouble to the college of their choice.

School Notes

Bob Lapidus and Sam Fishman, great guard and back respectively of Malden high last year, leave for Hanover on Sunday to enter Dartmouth.

Fishman, not very heavy a year ago, has picked up considerable weight during the summer. He should boil down to about 165 pounds, enough for fresh competition for a shifty back of his type.

Lapidus has grown. He now weighs 185 pounds. Five pounds under that mark will be playing trim for Bob. These two are probable members of the Green frosh team this year.

Johnny McCarthy, all-scholastic Malden high end last year, was headed for Notre Dame. Appendicitis threw him for a loss this summer and he will stay out of school for a year to regain his strength.

Jack Leary is ready to start serious grid work at Waltham high. Bill Pendergast is gone with other members of the fine '29 team, but some good material is ready. Coach Leary could make a good team, even out of poor material, and the Watch City will have another strong eleven this fall.

MORE HONORS IN VIEW

JOHNNY FARRELL, off-and-on winner of many golf titles, was the co-medalist with Horton Smith in the annual professional golfers' tournament, both leaders turning in scores of 145 for the 36-hole qualifying round. Johnny, after showing he is on his game, is among the favorites to win the title. Leo Diegel is the defending title-holder. Match play opens today.

Notes of the Sandlots

Newton and Allston are having a merry war for the Hub Twilight League pennant. Three games have been played with one victory chalked up by each team and the third game ending in a 12-inning deadlock.

The rival teams carry their battle to Newton Upper Falls tonight for the fourth game. A tremendous gathering should be on hand tonight for many fans are now realizing the class of ball exhibited by these winners of the Hub Twilight League.

DeGeorge, outfielder for Newton, has been the batting star of the series thus far. He has gathered five hits in 10 times at bat. Kerivan has also been hitting well for Newton, getting five singles in 11 trips to the plate.

Hollis, McGuiness and O'Hare, all of Allston, have also been hitting the ball hard in the pennant fight. Hollis has three clouts in seven times at bat. His homer won the first game for Allston.

The teams now have added incentive for a victory since Joseph E. Ely, candidate for governor, has donated a trophy for the winner. Allston will have a large party at the Egyptian Theater tonight where motion pictures of the game will be shown and the players introduced from the stage.

Watertown's Twilight League will start its title series tonight with the Knights of Columbus and Watertown as the opponents. The second game will be played tomorrow night and a third on Saturday unless one team takes two running to grab the gonfalon.

St. Mark's has established itself as one of the finest semipro ball teams in the state by defeating the Neponset Wanderers to win both halves of the Dorchester Twilight League pennant.

The St. Mark's club is made up of local boys, from the vicinity of St. Mark's Church, and most of the players are young and inexperienced as compared with other noted semipro teams in Greater Boston.

St. Mark's has got a huge following and their rooters believe that St. Mark's can lick any of the Greater Boston Twilight, Hub Twilight or Cap Cod League teams.

This team will have a chance to show its calibre when it meets the Dorchester team of the Twilight League tomorrow night at the Town Field.

Ask Receivership for Seattle Club

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 9 (INS)—The Seattle Club of the Pacific Coast baseball league figured in a suit on file in Superior Court today, declaring the organization to be insolvent and petitioning for a receivere.

George C. Newell, a stockholder, brought the action. William H. Klepper, president of the club, characterized the suit as an attempt to force him to sell his stock.

LOTT IS BEATEN BY VETERAN WILLIAMS

Forest Hills, N. Y., Sept. 9 (AP)—An upset a day seems to be the toll of the national tennis singles championship tournament, and leading favorites today were wondering who was going to be next.

With Jean Borotra of France and George Lott of Chicago already out of the tournament, no one seemed safe. Both went out at the hands of opponents they were heavily favored to defeat.

Perhaps even more surprising than the downfall of Borotra before Berkeley Bell on Saturday was the exit of Lott before Richard N. Williams yesterday. Lott met his Waterloo in his first match of the tournament after drawing a first round bye.

Bill Tilden seemed fairly proof against a surprise defeat today, as he was drawn against Ed Feibleman, a New York player who has never been able to give him much trouble.

Vines Needs All His Steadiness to Beat Rogers

Ellsworth Vines of Pasadena figured to need all his steadiness of stroking against Lyttleton Rogers of Ireland. Johnny Van Ryn was heavily favored today over Keith Gledhill, but Frederick Perry, one of the leading English invaders, faced a dangerous opponent in Eddie Jacobs of Baltimore.

Williams was to face no more formidable an antagonist than Harold Blauer of New York, and Johnny Doeg likewise drew an unimpressive opponent in Lieut. R. M. Watt, Jr., U. S. N.

A possibility of major casualties in the ranks of the English contestants loomed up with Harold Lee meeting Jerry Lang of New York and Ted Avery opposing the veteran Frank Hunter.

In the other half of the draw the lineup was as follows, the first player named being the favorite:

Frank Shields, New York, vs. Elmer Griffin, New York.
Gregory Mangin, Newark, N. J., vs. John Hennessey, Indianapolis.
John Olliff, England, vs. Keith Werner, Los Angeles.
Sidney Wood, New York, vs. Wilbur F. Coen, Jr., Kansas City.
Bryan Grant, Atlanta, vs. Samuel Gilpin, Philadelphia.
Clifford Sutter, New Orleans, vs. Herbert L. Bowman, New York city.
Berkeley Bell vs. Richard Lewis, New York.

B. C. Yearling Grid Candidates Report

The Boston College freshman squad reported to Coach Bill Kelliher yesterday and went through the first drill of the year.

The list of those reporting yesterday included Kelly, Ott, Burns, Lillis and Saffriti, all of the championship Boston College High team; Freire and Velho of Huntington School; Comporato and Healy of Bridgton Academy; Esmund of Salem High School; O'Brien of Samuel Johnson Prep; Harrington of St. Anselms; Duggan of Perkinsen Prep; Connelly, Cahain of the great Lake Forest team that swept through the best clubs in the Middle West; Donnelly and Moynahan of Xavier High School, New York.

Other prospects included Brennan of St. James; Dunnill and Moloney of Bucksport Prep; Carr of South Boston High; Rattigan of Coburn Classical; Kelly of Norwood; Sullivan of St. Johns Prep, and Couhig of Beverly. The club will work out every day for a fortnight and will then scrimmage the varsity.

MR. BOSTON by JACK CONWAY

Mr. Boston says Al Singer, who tackles Jimmy McLarnin in a 10-round bout at the Yankee Stadium, New York, on Thursday night, told him in Florida last winter that he refuses to battle other than near Broadway.

"Why should a take long train rides around the country and tackle local ring heroes before their friends and neighbors?" demanded the youthful Singer. "I can get all the ring exercise I need right in little old New York.

Jack Conway

"Mr. Boston, I can pick up $14,000 in the Garden for fighting a mug, while if I care to step into fast company my cut of the dough runs around $50,000. That's what I got when I fought Kid Chocolate which is pretty sweet jack for one in his early twenties, eh?

"I have made more than $250,000 during the few years I have been in the ring. That's more than I could have picked up as a buttonhole maker or as a bank president. Remember, Mr. Boston, you will always have to hop to New York if you want to see me sling punches. But then New York isn't such a bad town. If the fight is bad, you can always forget the affair by sitting in at a night club."

"Singer," chirped Mr. Boston, "will add $40,000 to his bank roll when he meets McLarnin on Thursday night.

Plenty of Sentiment Still in Baseball

"The large crowd at the old-timers' ball game proved there is still plenty of sentiment left in baseball. The affair was a success chiefly because Howard Reynolds spent three months lining up the proper talent and staging a fine ballyhoo.

"Jess Santa says he can fight, despite the fact he is six feet, nine tall and weighs 265 pounds. A bird named Dempsey, weighing 185 pounds, proved under a boiling sun at Toledo that size doesn't mean a thing in the prize ring once a battler scales over 150 and is fall enough to reach his rival's jaw with a right hand smash.

"Jackie Fields, who lost the welterweight title to Young Jack Thompson, who in turn was beaten by Tommy Freeman, knocked out the new boss of the welterweight group early this year. Jack Britton or Ted (Kid) Lewis would have beaten all of the present day welterweight crop without getting up a sweat.

"If there is any welterweight who hasn't been champion during the past year, let him step forward and he will be measured for a crown.

"Eddie Mack of the Argonne A. A. has given up hope of landing a Maloney-Carnera bout for Boston this fall. Carnera is sailing for Rome the latter part of this month.

"Dan Carroll is tickled he didn't pay $10,000 for a half interest in the managerial affairs of Ernie Schaaf. Dan was ready to buy just before the Hunt bout.

If You Want to Get Thin, Try This One

"Dr. James Duddy of Tufts College tells us that if one wishes to lose weight he can succeed by not eating potatoes, white bread, desserts and sugar. Dr. Duddy tried his own diet and dropped 35 pounds.

"Former athletes put on weight faster than other folks when they let down and take a seat on the front porch.

"Col. Charles R. Gow, Boston postmaster, has gone in for golf.

Jack Sharkey Packing His Bags Again

"Jack Sharkey is packing his bags again. Along with Mrs. Sharkey he will start for New York Thursday morning. They will attend the McLarnin-Singer bout in New York on Thursday night after which the American heavyweight champion will start intensive training for his 15-round tilt with Victorio Campolo on September 15.

"Alex McLean and Johnny McGann are getting ready for the Boston Garden's indoor season.

"Eddie Mack is trying to match Andy Callahan and Sammy Fuller for a rubber battle. These boys have already met twice and each has a decision to his credit.

"Jack Fitzpatrick, aged 10, shot a 50 for nine holes in the caddies' tournament at Scituate Golf Club. His brother, Tom, age 8, got an 80. Jack Leary, pro, gave Tom first prize for counting all his strokes."

Another Foul

New Bedford, Sept. 9—The bout between Bobby Mays, lightweight champion of Connecticut, and Al Winkler of Philadelphia came to a sensational conclusion in the fifth round when Mays was awarded the decision on a foul.

Dundee Picks M'Larnin to Win Over Al Singer

Orangeburg, N. Y., Sept. 9 (US)—Among those sold on Jimmy McLarnin to flatten Al Singer on Thursday night is Johnny Dundee, former featherweight champion and veteran of nearly 400 ring battles.

Johnny was deeply impressed with the arguments advanced by Jack Vancouver flash in the form of left hooks, right crosses and elusive tactics that are reminiscent of the Dundee style of evading punishment.

"I don't think it will go more than four rounds," said Dundee, and it should be a great show while it lasts. The first good punch should settle it."

Dundee likes to study form and over depends on second-hand information. He was a visitor at Singer's camp last Saturday and while commenting on the lightweight champion's condition, boxing skill and training methods could not quite bring himself to believe that youth will triumph in this fight. Johnny had already taken a peek at McLarnin.

He dropped in here again to sum up the eye evidence and after watching the Belfast hitter chug through four rounds in the outdoor ring cast his vote for Jimmy.

"Singer is good," he reasoned, "but how can you take it away from this fellow. He has everything, plus experience, and is the more rugged of the two. Singer may pop him but he won't slay him with one punch. I'm sure of that. And there is the opinion of one who can be tagged an 'expert.'"

Al Watrous and Eric Seavall All Square at 18th Hole

LEO DIEGEL SEVEN UP ON HENRY CIUCI

Flushing, N. Y., Sept. 9 (AP)—The first match to finish 18 holes in the first round of 36-hole contests for the P. G. A. championship gave no advantage either to Al Watrous, Detroit, or Eric Seavall, Culver City, Cal. They were all square at the half way mark.

Leo Diegel, the champion, went to luncheon several up over Henry Ciuci, Stratford, Conn. Six up going to the home hole, Diegel stymied his opponent, but Ciuci's ball knocked Diegel's into the cup, giving the title holder a win.

Charles Lacey, shooting an approximate par 70, was three up over Charles Guest, Pontiac, Mich.

Haverhill Golfer Has Three-Hole Advantage

Bob Crowley, Haverhill, Mass., holed a iuck for an birdie three at the home hole to go six up over Wilfy Cox, Brooklyn.

Bill Mehorn, Pensacola, Fla., also holed a putt for a birdie at the 18th to go two up over Harry Cooper, Chicago.

Mark Fry, Oakland, Calif., one of the long hitters of the competition, was four up over Al Espinosa, Chicago.

John Golden, Noroton, Conn., was two down Jook Collins, Dayton, Horton Smith, New York, was two up over Billy Burke, Greenwich, Conn.

Clarence Ershman, Philadelphia, was one up over Harold Samson, Burlingame, Cal., after 18 holes Tommy Armour, Detroit, led Dave Hackney, Lowell, Mass., seven holes at the luncheon recess.

Joseph Kenney, Sylvania, O., was one up over Bob Shave, Cleveland, at the half-way point. Densmore Shute, Columbus, O., assumed a two-hole advantage over Joe Frank, Kenosha, Wis.

Johnny Farrell, runner-up last year, was six up on Norman Smith, Spokane, Wash. Gene Sarazen, former champion, was two up over Charles Schneider, Philadelphia.

BATTLE ROYAL IN NATIONAL LOOP

Chicago, Sept. 9 (US)—National League baseball, bounding along in a race that for thrills has not been surpassed in years, finds the four contending clubs—Cubs, Cardinals, Robins and Giants—all gathered along the subway circuit of Greater New York.

The Cubs, opening a three-game series with the Robins, are struggling to protect a two-and-a-half-game lead over the fast-finishing Cardinals, who will be engaged at the same time in opening a four-game series with the Giants.

Greater New York, therefore, has all the baseball there is today, and for three days thereafter, when the race may have reached a less involved state. The Robins, handing two cunnings, 8 to 2 and 11 to 4, to the faltering Phillies, hauled themselves past the Giants and into third place.

As the two series along the subway circuit begin, here, then, is the picture:

Cubs leading Cardinals by two and one-half games.

Cardinals leading Robins by one game.

In the light of what has happened within the past two weeks, it is folly to assume that the two series beginning today will settle the pennant. Their results could go a long way toward settling it, but if past performances count for anything, they will merely serve to complicate it the more.

A week hence, a similar condition will obtain, for then the Cardinals will be locked in a struggle with the Robins, while Giants and Cubs, those ancient rivals, will be meeting for the last time, this year.

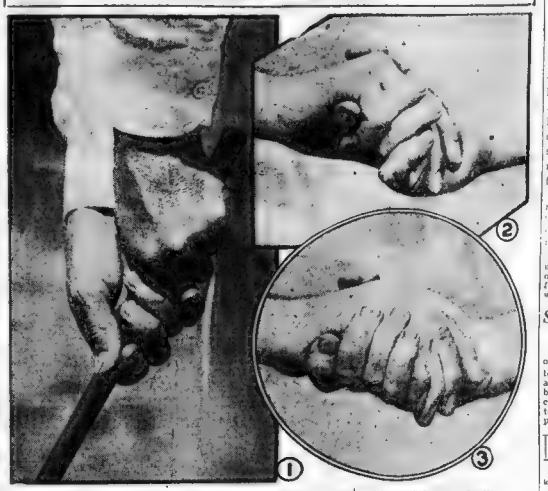
Famous Young Missouri Professional Illustrates and Describes the Mechanics and Technique of Play



SOME STUDIES IN OVERLAPPING AND NATURAL GRIPS

1—My Grip (The Vardon or Overlapping)

While this is the most popular grip there is no doubt it does not suit everybody. Bobby Jones, Chick Evans, Harold Hilton and other well-known authorities say it is of little use for people with small hands. That often includes the business man who only plays week-ends. Therefore it is advisable for him to test the turning power of his forearms using the full natural and overlapping grips to see which is the stronger.

2—Overlapping Grip With Larger Hand

The smaller hand easily turned over the hand that was overlapping. It is interesting to figure up the number of championships that have been won with the natural grip. Among those who used it, or still use it, are John Ball, winner of nine national championships; Harold Hilton, winner of six national championships; Jerry Travers, five national championships; Alex Smith, three national championships, and Chandler Egan, two national championships.

3—Natural Grip With Both Hands

Very likely the smaller arm would be quite easily turned over by the larger one, because both hands have the natural grip. Grantland Rice declared: "When both finalists in the 1929 U. S. Amateur Championship and three of the four semi-finalists went into action with the natural grip, the incident became worthy of further reflection. 'The natural grip may relieve hand and wrist tension.'"

Another article by Horton Smith will appear in these pages Thursday.

CARNERA STOPS M'CARTHY IN 2D ROUND

Newark, N. J., Sept. 9 (INS)—Primo Carnera, giant Italian heavyweight, notched his 22nd American kayo victory today. He knocked out Pat McCarthy of Boston here last night in the second round of a scheduled 10-round bout which drew 10,000 fans.

The Bostonian, for some time rubber decks-e, was no match for the Italian, who crashed him to earth the start of the second round with a right to the jaw.

He fell flat on his back and was unable to get to his feet. Previous to the knockout Carnera floted McCarthy for a short count with a right uppercut to the jaw.

St. Joe's Bouts on Saturday Night

A record number of boys for the opening show of the year, have enlered for the St. Joseph's T. A. S. amateur boxing tourney to-nit will be held Saturday night in Mechanics Building. Classes to be contested are 118, 126, 135, 147, 158 pounds and light heavyweights.

Tulsa, Okla.—George Courtney, Tulsa, outpointed Cowboy Jack Wills, San Francisco (11—referee stopped fight).

Sharkey Winds Up His Local Training for Campolo

By RINGSIDE

Jack Sharkey, American heavyweight champion, will end his training in Boston at Jim Toland's gym this afternoon for his 15-round ring skirmish with Vittorio Campolo, which will be staged at the Yankee Stadium, New York, on September 25, under the direction of Madison Square Garden.

Sharkey will leave the Hub tomorrow morning accompanied by Mrs. Sharkey. He will motor to New York.

Johnny Buckley, Sharkey's manager, and Al Lacey, trainer, will also start for Gotham tomorrow.

Paul Cavalier has already been signed as one of Sharkey's sparring partners.

Buckley has wired Tony Paisola asking him to line up Arthur DeKuh and several other husky battlers.

Sharkey is down to 202 pounds after 10 days of work in Boston. He showed plenty of speed in a two-round workout with King Solomon. The latter stepped into Toland's and consented to put on the gloves with Sharkey.

Solomon is in town to finish training for his 10-round scrap at Joe Santa, Portuguese heavyweight, which is billed for Dana Field, Salem, tomorrow night.

Santa to Work Out in Boston Today

Pat Silva declared Santa would be in Boston today and that he would breeze through a workout at Toland's. Santa is six feet, nine inches tall and weighs 265 pounds. He is anxious to secure a match with Primo Carnera.

Amateur Ready for Dilboy Post Show

There is a large entry list for the Dilboy Post amateur boxing show which will be staged at Dilboy Field, Somerville, tomorrow night. There will be contests at 118, 126 and 147 pounds and in the light heavyweight division.

Plenty of action is expected in the light heavyweight class. Henry Surrett of Leominster, who recently defeated Al Dean, will compete against Paul McNamara, Alston; Don Perry, Newburyport; Chris Litz, Boston, and Ted Johnson, Somerville.

BRITISH SHIFT LINEUP FOR SECOND GAME

New York, Sept. 9 (US)—A new polo lineup for Great Britain will be announced late today.

According to information emanating from high polo circles, the British probably will revert to the original "Big Four" that brought the current challenge to these shores.

It is said that Capt. Richard George will be returned to No. 1, at which position he won official endorsement before being incapacitated by illness about two weeks ago. In that case, Gerald Balding will resume operations at the more familiar No. 2, Lewis L. Lacey will do likewise at back, and Capt. Pat Roark will remain stationary at No. 3.

This will mean the removal of Lieut. Humphrey P. Guinness, whose appointment to the British team was, in the last analysis, an emergency measure.

At the same time it is understood that there will be no change in the American quartet, although the defense committee of the United States Polo Association made it clear upon naming the established lineup that the order was to hold good for the first game only.

EARLIEST START FOR SERIES

Chicago, Sept. 9 (US)—An early start—Wednesday, October 1—was decided upon for the World Series baseball games.

Applications for tickets to the annual classic will be received by the contending clubs beginning next Monday.

The first two games will be in the park of the American League pennant winner—probably the Philadelphia Athletics.

The next three games will be in the park of the National League winner. While the Cubs are in the lead, St. Louis, New York and Brooklyn still remain possibilities for the pennant.

The last two games of the series, if it is necessary to play them, will be back at the American League park.

If the Cubs or the Cardinals are the National League winners, an interval of one day will be allowed between the second and third games and likewise between the fifth and sixth games.

Should Brooklyn or the Giants win the pennant, however, the seven games, or as many of them as are necessary to play, will be scheduled for consecutive days. All games will be started at 1:30 p. m. The custom of tossing a coin for the location of the seventh game, where necessary to play it, was abandoned this year.

Tickets will be sold in three-game lots again, and applications may be made in the cities which will figure in the pennant races in the two leagues.

It is available in thirty-two beautiful models ranging in price from $2385 for the ever-popular Standard Eight Five-Passenger Sedan to $6075 for the finest Individual Custom creation. (At the factory.)

Improved carburetion and manifolding have increased the power. With added power, performance, especially in traffic and at the "red light", has been bettered. The advantages which only a four-speed transmission can give have been retained, with the transmission converted to the "short-shift" type. Longer and softer springs and new shock absorbers provide more riding comfort. An entirely automatic lubrication system now takes the human element out of daily chassis care and protects the long life resulting from fine engineering and precision manufacture.

Bodies made in Packard's own factories are the finest in every way that Packard has ever offered. Traditional appearance has been retained and beauty of line refined. Interiors have been beautified and made more luxurious. New color combinations have been provided.

Thirty years of building for the most discriminating clientele has taught the Packard Motor Car Company what such a clientele demands. And year by year—and again this year—new luxuries, new refinements and new improvements have been added.

An Investment in Luxurious Transportation

Today when nearly everyone is thinking in terms of investment instead of speculation, and buying more carefully, we ask you to view refined and improved cars—cars without a single speculative or untried feature. With Packard the car has always been greater than any one feature. You could not buy, expecting to keep your car four or five years if it were otherwise.

We shall be delighted to have you visit our showrooms and, as our guest, you will not be urged to buy. You will be extended every courtesy and desired attention in return for your own kindness in calling.

Terms Massachusetts As a Compulsory State

Editor Boston American:

That was a wonderful editorial in your paper of yesterday entitled "Auto Insurance Gouge Should Be Halted Now."

Especially the part where you rap Gov. Allen's refusal to permit the Legislature to act on this matter now.

But let me add some more. There is one way to make Gov. Allen act. And that is this. Let the unions of Massachusetts have their members and all the other citizens of the state join with those who resent his attitude, drive their cars out next January 1 WITHOUT any REGISTRATION and then action would start.

The poor man is sick of the costly compulsory insurance, compulsory inspection of cars, compulsory taxes, compulsory this and that. Massachusetts seems to be a compulsory state

The money barons control a man's car today. Pretty soon he will have to ask the state when he can take a ride

Another thing I would like to state at this time is this: Inspection of cars will not stop accidents. Inspection of drivers would be better

Declares Draper Is Man of the Hour

Editor Boston American

What I think of Mr. Eben Draper. I was born 47 years ago in the U. S. A. I have watched the elections each year. I have never spoken my mind before. Today I send to the greatest newspaper printed (the Boston American) my story. I do not want to hurt any man, but I do want to see Mr. Draper win. Mr. Draper is the man of the hour without any doubt in my mind. A real he-man of courage. An honest man. A man among real American thinking men. Let us ask ourselves the question of the hour: "Stop, think" World Court (Yes). (But, no, we don't want a World Court.) Mr. Draper don't want to see a World Court. Mr. Draper will not VOTE FOR A WORLD COURT.

Draper uses his brains. He thinks. He knows. He acts. Draper will WIN. Mr. Draper should be rated among the outstanding men of these U. S. A. A VOTE FOR EBEN DRAPER IS A VOTE TO KEEP YOU AND ME OUT OF WAR. IT IS FACT. WAR IS HELL. IT DESTROYS OUR BEST MANHOOD ALWAYS. WE MUST STOP THIS YEAR AND THINK WELL AND WISELY. WE MUST PLACE OUR X BY MR. DRAPER. AND MORE OF DRAPER'S SAME CLASS.

My name is BUTLER, but I would not VOTE FOR BUTLER. Why? I respect the hard-working man and woman. Often I hear people say Mr. Butler is a mill owner, a big stock holder, but pays the working man the small wages. (Draper doesn't believe in small wages). If the working man and woman receive high wages for their labor certainly I shall benefit more; we all will benefit.

By placing Mr. Eben Draper in Washington, we can rest assured that the working conditions will pick up, and soon the wheels of machinery will move along again if it's in Draper's power.

Wants Autoists to Pay What They Owe for Gas

Editor Boston American

I read your paper every day. Your column, something to think about, interests me. I have a gas station. Am an old man, 65 years of age. I see by your paper some time ago that Mr. Parker warns certain garages not to charge the autoist for certain work.

Now why let the autoist gouge the gas station? Men come along with a hard luck story that they have been sick or the wife has been sick, and "let me have some gas till I get to work."

So I try to help them out and after they get 50 gallons, they are never seen again. The writer is owed for from 3 to 145 gallons of gas by different parties that could well afford to pay, but they won't.

RANDOLPH

Shows How Prohibition Aids Auto Safety

Editor Boston American

Drunken driving is a very opportune subject as we face proposed increase in automobile insurance rates.

It is stated on scientific authority that one average size drink slows up the reflexes three fifths of a second. In other words, it requires three-fifths of a second longer for a traffic signal or a sign of warning to register on the alcoholized brain.

This means a distance of 25 or 40 feet, the difference, in many cases, between safety and a possible serious accident.

All causes	15,891	22,794	20,175	21,800
Liquor	2,799	2,927	3,151	3,175

Thus in 1927 liquor causes comprised 17 per cent; in 1928 it had fallen to 13 per cent; in 1929 to 11 per cent, and thus far in 1930 it is only 10 per cent.

A striking contrast: During this four year period all other causes made the frightful increase from 13,063 in 1927 to 25,425 in 1930—more than doubled.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

Editor Boston American:

An item of news in your paper set me thinking over the safety we enjoy from the constant use of the railroad trains entering and leaving the North and South Stations daily. As a commuter on the railroads from Boston for nearly 40 years, I think it is about time that we took off our hats to the employes of railroads.

There are fewer accidents on railroads today than ever before. Engineers take no risks and mind signal lights and switches. It is part of their training. They think of the responsibility placed upon them. They keep their eyes wide open. Other employes are always working in the interests of the patrons of railroads.

If drivers of automobiles would only take some hints about running a machine of this type from these engineers they might improve. This helter-skelter style of driving an auto might easily be exchanged for the care, watchfulness and caution displayed by the average railroad engineer. Engineers who drive autos never have accidents. Here is something to think about.

or in be more exact, increased 11⅛ per cent

One man says the person who has been drinking should think twice before taking his place behind a steering wheel, and then should stay away from it

If a man has not will power to let intoxicants alone, how can he have sound sense and caution enough, after befuddling his intellect by drink, to refrain from driving?

Booze has been a disturber of peace, a breeder of crime, poverty and wrecked manhood in all climes from a time when the memory of men runneth not.

Speaks Good Word For William A. Ryan

Editor Boston American.

I'd like to say a good word for William A. Ryan of Dorchester Although being unacquainted with the entrance requirements of the Greek letter fraternities he has nevertheless done a mighty fine job in advertising Boston to the world. He displayed thought, initiative and enterprise.

Mr. Ryan unfortunately does not hold a high position and of course has no connection with any of the royal families of America, but that does not preclude him from a meed of praise.

After spending plenty of his own money in writing to the various mayors throughout the world he presented himself at some little function at the Statler. He was immediately ejected as persona non grata by somebody or other in spats. Perhaps he lacked that nonchalant air.

It's laughable the way some people act when they get into a tall hat and striped trousers. What they need most is a mirror and a sense of humor.

Hits 5-Cent Fare As Unjust to Public

Editor Boston American

There is much objection to the five-cent fare as inaugurated by the Boston Elevated.

Where once we could ride for a six and a quarter-cent fare strip ticket, we are now deceived into paying a 10-cent fare with a coupon as a transfer limited in time and use.

Such a condition as to a five-cent fare is unjust and not fair.

What we want is a five-cent fare within the five-cent fare zone, and not as now along Tremont st. and Huntington ave. and other sections, where a 10-cent fare is charged.

MAX HENRY NEWMAN.

Sees Man as Mere Cog in Business Machine

Editor Boston American.

There is something to think about in Evelyn D. Connell's letter. The economic organization of a capitalist society is highly competitive. American business has committed itself to Darwin's theory of social evolution, viz., the survival of the fittest. In accordance with this principle, efficiency becomes the weapon of competition

The high efficiency in modern business has brought about many advantages. Today, the employee's work shorter hours at higher pay. A high standard of living is maintained. The average person has greater leisure to enjoy the comforts of life. His purchasing power is thus increased, in order to stimulate additional demand for luxuries as well as necessities.

The tendency of American business points to the direction of bigger and better business at the expense of individual business men and independent business concerns. In the future, the control of business will be in the hands of a very few capable leaders.

Economic competition and equal opportunity cannot exist side by side. Unless the government takes proper measures against ruthless and endless competition in business (as the Clayton and Sherman Acts), the corporation will be supreme in business. And man will become merely a cog in the great business machine.

Andrews' Aid Fired on by Chinese Bandits

Peiping, China, Sept. 9 (AP)—Roy Chapman Andrews today received word from J. McKenzie Young, chief of motor transport for Andrews' expedition into the Gobi Desert, saying Young and his Chinese assistants had been fired on by bandits near Tangking, 175 miles northwest of Kalgan. They were returning to China from Mongolia.

"We were not hit, and reached camp tired and happy," Young telegraphed.

Roxbury Residents Await "El" Action

Roxbury residents were today awaiting action by the trustees of the Boston Elevated Co. on the demand of the city council that they abandon their new system of a five-cent fare from Massachusetts ave. to Arlington st., and return to the former policy of a six-cent fare from Frances st., that section, intown.

City Councillor Leo Power of Roxbury, who presented the order to the council, charged that the El trustees appeared to be reducing fares on the Huntington ave. line but actually were increasing the fare of Roxbury people from 6⅔ cents to 10 cents.

Leonard Wood, Jr., Taking "Rest Cure"

New York, Sept. 9—Leonard Wood, Jr., son of the late governor-general of the Philippines, who forewore the sword for the pen and then cut a wide swath as a Broadway playboy, was found yesterday to be taking "the rest cure" at a sanitarium just outside New York.

Woman's Fire Tip Wins $25 Prize

Family Skeleton Brought Out for Airing by Son of Engineer

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Catherine Paige, elder daughter in a fatherless home, marries her wealthy, elderly employer, Alfred Farnsworth as the only way out of her financial difficulties.

"Is there anyone else, anyone you love?" he asked her before the wedding, and Cathie said no. It was true, for she could hardly count Gordon Moor, who once paid her attention and then forgot her.

Cathie's marriage begins auspiciously with a generous settlement for her impecunious family and a gorgeous trousseau for her. But returning from her wedding trip she is struck with the gloomy, almost sinister, quality of Farnsworth's home. It is a large, pretentious place with innumerable Chinese servants under the supervision of an ancient fat Chinaman named Chut, and a solitary white woman, Marguerite.

Some realization of the enormity of the step she has taken comes to Cathie soon after entering the house which is now her home. Mention of Farnsworth's son, Chester and his bride frightens her.

Some realization of the enormity of the step she has taken comes to Cathie soon after entering this house which is now her home. She dreads meeting Farnsworth's son, Chester, and his bride. She is first repelled, then attracted by the woman, Marguerite, who hints that the men in the Farnsworth family have been no better than they might be.

Acting on impulse she decides to invite her husband's secretary, Martha Darrow, to lunch.

Cathie is dressing for dinner one evening when the maid announces her husband's son, Chester, and his bride are downstairs.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER 17

(Copyright, 1930, King Features Synd., Inc.)

THE WOMAN was sitting up in bed, a great walnut four-poster that had probably been moved up to the third story when newer styles crowded it out of rooms below.

Her beautiful dark red hair streamed over her shoulders and her angry eyes were fixed on Chester Farnsworth, who was leaning against the footpost of the bed, wiping his forehead with a blue bordered handkerchief.

Chester Farnsworth turned and greeted her with an unwholesome smile.

"The fair Catherine. First I, then you, next father and Enid, I suppose," he said. "The whole family seems in upheaval over the delicate Marguerite. And oh, how that retiring, timid creature hates to be the center of interest!"

Marguerite slumped down in bed, pulled the covers over her head and lay there like a dog.

"Family Scandal"

There was nothing to do but leave. Cathie went first, and Chester at her heels. As she neared the door to her own room on the second floor he stopped her.

"I suppose you know all about Marguerite. She's been locked up, told you," he said, in what Cathie secretly thought of as his most "oily" manner.

"Yes, he told me something about her," Cathie admitted.

"The family scandal?"

"I wouldn't call it that."

"No? Then he didn't tell you. You want to hear it. It's our best family yarn."

He followed her into the room, and made himself comfortable on the silver brocade chaise-lounge.

"This is good, really. Our dear little Marguerite is more than an old family servant. She's an heirloom, that's what she is. That's not bad heirlooms, ha!" He laughed unpleasantly at his own wit.

"Your father told me that her mother used to be housekeeper here," Cathie said coldly.

"Yes? Well, she was housekeeper all right." He watched Cathie to see how she was taking it, and his little brown eyes behind the thick glasses glittered when he saw that he was making her uncomfortable.

Details Told

"What else she was we don't know. Grandpa with his whiskers was an elder in the church, and maybe the buxom Maggie didn't appeal to him after all."

"Need we go into that?"

"What's the matter? Aren't you a married woman? What do you mean, blushing like a schoolgirl? Where was I? The scandal! Our Marguerite put in an appearance anyway, and the red-headed butler got fired. Maybe grandpa was jealous, and maybe he was just being righteous. Anyway out went Maggie and her child and ever since we've paid and paid. Mother started it—took pity on the girl after old Maggie passed

Thaw Yacht Story Enriches Realty Man $15, While $10 Award Goes to N. H.

Approximately 100 telephone calls reached the News Tip Editor of the Boston Evening American last Friday on the six-alarm North Cambridge factory fire—but Mrs. M. A. Van Geenhoben of 149 Harvey st., North Cambridge, was the first.

Because she was first she receives the major prize in the $100 weekly news tip contest, a check for $25 being forwarded to her today.

Second prize of $15 goes to Robert Bonner, real estate man of 264 Lake ave., Newton Highlands, who was the first to telephone the editor that Harry K. Thaw's nephew had been burned in a ship explosion in the Fort Point channel.

THIRD TO MANCHESTER

The third prize, a check for $10, goes to a Manchester, N. H., man who tipped the editor on a New Hampshire murder still under investigation.

For the first time since the contest started, the Boston American awards two $5 checks for fourth and fifth prizes. The first of these goes to James D. Conboy, of 19 Folsom st., West Roxbury, who photographed a wrecked automobile in Roslindale and rushed the film to the news tip editor.

The other was won by a Plymouth woman who telephoned the news that George E. Mabbett, mill owner, died in that town following an attack of acute appendicitis.

In connection with Mr. Conboy's win of $5 for the photograph of the wrecked car, the News Tip editor announces that all photographs printed will hereafter entitle the person furnishing the picture to at least $2.

20 WIN $2 EACH

The 20 prizes of $2 each were by the judges as follows:

Morris Courage, Milford N. H., story on hotel fire.

Robert Brennan, 40 Mt. Vernon

SEATS FOR ALL IN CAMBRIDGE SCHOOLS

Ready for Reopening Tomorrow; Boston Pupils Troop Back to Study Thursday

Boston's thousands of school pupils will troop back to their desks on Thursday for the new session, while those of Cambridge will take up their books tomorrow, a day ahead.

Although Cambridge will have 16,000 students to care for in the public schools at the opening, Supt. of Schools Michael E. Fitzgerald announced today that there will be a seat for everyone.

Because of the razing of the Merrill School, pupils in that district will attend the Harvard School, while the Harvard School pupils with exception of the fifth grade will move over into the next, or Felton School, district.

In North Cambridge, where the new Abraham Lincoln school is not yet completed, the pupils will be housed in other schools until October 1, when the new building is expected to be ready for occupancy. If there is an overflow temporarily it will be taken care of in the Malta Association hall in Davenport st.

In suburban schools that opened yesterday, record enrollments were reported.

RECORD ENROLLMENT.

In Everett, 5000 boys and girls were recorded. Two sessions daily will be in order at the Parlin junior high school in that city, owing to crowded conditions. The Waltham high schools are again on the two-session plan this year, with college and technical preparatory courses in the morning and other classes in the afternoon.

Brookline school officials reported 8358 students. Ernest R. Caverly, who succeeds Winfred C. Akers, greeted Brookline High School pupils.

Malden had an unusually large enrollment, there being 9200 pupils. Some Malden High School students had to be accommodated in the old Center Grammar School.

Melrose reported about 3800 on the opening day. Revere had 8100 pupils, all schoolhouses being congested. Arlington was overcrowded with 6300 pupils, the largest enrollment ever.

CROWDED IN LEXINGTON

Another record enrollment was noted in Lexington, where 2251 boys and girls practically filled to capacity all available space. Having about the same registration as last year, Burlington reported 346 pupils on the opening day of school yesterday. Lincoln and Bedford, with respectively 225 and 352, had enrollments about the same as on the opening day last year.

BUYING PLAN PRAISED AS PROSPERITY MEDIUM

Team Work Between Employers and Employes Urged to Dispel Depression

Business in Boston and New England is bucking up.

The drab clouds of depression and public dread are being scattered to the four winds.

The sun of prosperity, radiant and promising, is breaking through.

Business leaders interviewed in Boston today were decidedly optimistic.

They agreed that the upward trend had started and that the return of good times was now a matter of team work. They said employers, employes and the great general public, must do their bit. Everybody should put his shoulder to the wheel.

CURLEY COMMENDED

Mayor Curley was commended for his buying campaign which prominent business men said was timely and constructive.

"Mayor Curley's plan and the Evening American Buy Now Club, have hit the nail on the head," said P. A. O'Connell, president of the E. T. Slattery Co. "If folks don't buy the mills will lack orders and cannot employ help.

"The best way to restore public confidence and stimulate business is to assure employes that their jobs are safe. If textile mills and shoe factories and other institutions that employ help would get together and issue such assurances and announce that they planned to hire more help this winter, would vanish.

P. A. O'Connell

"We have not discharged any employes in our store. On the contrary our salary list is $100 a day greater than it was a year ago. We have periodical reviews and grant increases to the deserving.

STOCK INCREASED

"As another example of confidence our stock of merchandise is $30,000 greater than it was last year and our volume of business 25 per cent greater.

"We have noted a decided improvement since the advent of September.

"We receive business letters from most of the principal cities of the country and they all carry notes of optimism.

"A group of stores with which we are loosely affiliated reports increased business. A store in Washington and another in Buffalo announce about the percentage of gain that we have noted in Boston, while a store in Philadelphia reports the volume of business as about even with last year.

DEMAND FOR FUR

"If the public only realized it, prices are unusually attractive in most lines of merchandise at the present time, but my prediction is that any decided forward movement of business will result

CONCORD HOLDS CELEBRATION

With its residents attired in the costumes of Colonial days, Concord, on Friday, will hold a joint observance of its own 295th birthday and the tercentenary of the Bay Colony founding.

All of the old houses in the historical town will be open to the public between 10 a. m. and 5 p. m. At each there will be women in old-fashioned costumes to act as hostesses. Among the historical shrines to be opened will be the Old Manse, the Emerson House, the Ephraim Bull cottage, Alcott House, Hawthorne's Wayside, Concord Antiquarian House and the Concord Art Center.

The annual reception and tea of the Concord Antiquarian Society will be held at its headquarters from 3 30 to 5 p. m. with Mrs. Allen French in charge. Pourers will include Mrs. David A. Baldwin, Mrs. Arthur B. Brooks, Mrs. F. Alcott Pratt. All assisting will be in costumes of different periods from 1636 to the gay 90's.

The arrival of Gen. Lafayette in 1825 will be re-enacted in front of the First Parish Meeting House at 3 p. m. An old-fashioned wedding procession will follow and there will be costume dancing on the green to music furnished by an old time fiddler.

Auto Injuries Fatal to South End Man

Leslie Bunker, 63, of 387 Columbus ave., South End, died today at City hospital from injuries received last night when he was knocked down by an auto at Columbus ave. and West Newton st., South End. The auto was driven by Julius Goldstein of 62 Pleasant st., Roxbury, according to police.

Motor Trouble Ties Up E. Boston 'L' Line

Motor trouble on a Gladstone-Orient Heights car on the inbound loop at Maverick station, East Boston, caused a seven-minute tie-up of surface cars during the morning rush today. The car was pushed out by the following car and taken to the barn.

MALDEN FIGHTS FOR LIGHTS

In protest against the action of the city in cutting out street lights in 65 thoroughfares, citizens of Malden will hold a mass meeting tonight in Malden high school auditorium.

The meeting will follow the City Council meeting, at which Councilor George Finegold of Ward 7 will introduce an order that all lights taken out be immediately restored. Former City Councilor C. J. Ray, who last week hung out a lantern in front of his home in Champa ave. in protest against the street light having been cut out of the circuit, will preside at the mass meeting.

According to Mr. Ray, Mayor Hastings has put the curtailment of street lights up to the street commission and the commission has "passed the buck" back to the mayor.

Samaria Bringing Home N. E. Tourists

Bringing a large number of New England tourists, the Cunard liner Samaria will dock here tomorrow about 8 a. m. on a special trip. She is expected off Boston lightship late tonight. Hugh Ogden, well-known Boston lawyer, and Mrs. Ogden, and the two daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Julian Codman are passengers.

Woburn Politician Dies

Word reached here last night of the death yesterday at Tampa, Fla., of Lawrence Martin, well-known political leader and successful business man in Woburn several years.

7-Foot Skillagalee Brought to Port by Schooner

A seven-foot billfish, or skillagalee, was brought in to the Fish pier yesterday by the schooner Louis A. Thebaud, arriving from the Cape Shore with a catch of swordfish.

The billfish, a species seen here infrequently, attracted much attention, and later was shipped to a store in Quincy to be placed on display. It is the speediest of all fish, being capable of swimming at nearly 80 miles an hour.

This particular specimen put up a stiff battle after being harpooned, but was hauled aboard in short order.

X-RAY BOY HURT BY POLICE CAR

John Hart, 14, of 71 Cushing ave., Dorchester, was subjected to X-rays at the City Hospital today following a crash in Sawyer ave. yesterday in which his bicycle and an automobile driven by Police Lieut. Jeremiah Sheehan of Fields Corner division figured.

The boy rode his bicycle into the side of Sheehan's car, according to police, and was thrown. The lieutenant took him to the hospital.

He has concussion of the brain, fractured left wrist and lacerations of the scalp.

COLD WAVE DUE HERE TONIGHT

A marked drop in temperature is forecast for Greater Boston today and tonight. The cool spell, resulting from a high pressure area over the Great Lakes, struck this section last night and resulted in a drop of several degrees.

Outlying sections noted a similar drop in the mercury. In the low-lying districts of Lexington, the second frost of the month occurred. Although quite general, it was very light and little damage was done to crops. Temperatures as low as 27 degrees were recorded in some districts, but the official minimum was 37 at Concord.

MacAndrew Wins Keene Tourney

Keene, N. H., Sept. 9—Charlie MacAndrew of the Bonnet Shores Country Club, Sanderstown, R. I., won first prize money in Keene's second annual New England golf professional tournament, leading a field of 43 entries over one of southern New Hampshire's trickiest courses. MacAndrew had a 138 and established the course tournament record by carding a one under par score of 67 for his second 18-hole round.

$100 Weekly for News and Picture Tips

Do you want to get money for being alert? If so, the Boston American offers the opportunity. Each week $100 in prizes will be given for news and picture tips telephoned in to the News-Tip Editor, at Liberty 4000.

And what is a news tip? It's the information that something of interest to Greater Bostonians has taken place or will take place. Do you know, for instance, that an interesting picture is to be obtained, that an accident or an unusual event has happened, that there is going to be a business merger? That's a news tip. If you have a camera, take a picture of some news event, while it is happening. Pictures of unusual animal poses are wanted, too. Bring your action pictures to the American quick. Delay often spoils them for use in the American.

There will be $25 given weekly for the best or an unusual event news tip received, $15 for the next best, $10 for the next best, two $5 prizes and $2 prizes for each of the 20 next most valuable tips. Of course, the first one who turns in the tip in an interesting event receives the award on that particular item. Anyone who is alive and alert can win.

DRUNKENNESS ON LONG ISLAND CLEANED UP, MAGUIRE DECLARES

SAYS MURPHY IS CAPABLE ENGINEER

Commissioner Refuses to Let Him Be Scapegoat in Boiler Row

"All the drunkenness on Long Island was cleaned up when I came into office."

With that somewhat enigmatical statement, Institutions Commissioner James E. Maguire today defended engineers of the Long Island Hospital against the attack made yesterday in the City Council.

City Councillor Peter A. Murray of Jamaica Plain, attempting vainly to defeat Mayor Curley's loan order for $50,000 to repair boilers at the hospital, declared the heating plant was installed only last year at a cost of $180,000 and that the only trouble with the boilers was caused by "drunken engineers."

Mayor Curley this morning passed to the institutions department the responsibility of resolving to Councillor Murray's charge and Commissioner Maguire issued the following statement.

"All the drunkenness on Long Island was cleaned up when I came into office. The engineers there are capable men.

"John Murphy, chief engineer, is fireboss and a veteran of the Spanish and World Wars. He wrote the specifications for a fire pump which we have just installed in the hospital.

"The opposition can't raise a smoke screen against Murphy. I won't let them. They can't make a scapegoat of Murphy. I didn't appoint him. He was here when I came into office. He is a straight man and I am behind him.

"Let the opposition go to the Finance Commission and ask them if there is any drinking at Long Island. No investigation is necessary."

The council passed the loan order yesterday after Commissioner Maguire told that body he hoped the repair work might be done for $30,000 and the remainder saved the taxpayers.

BUSINESS BOOM AT AIRPORT

By GEORGE HAMBLIN

An immediate boost in business was the aftermath of the three-day Tercentenary Boston air show, it was revealed today by operators at the airport.

The idea in back of the show was to get people over to the port who have never been there before, and acquaint the public in general with the excellent flying facilities existing there.

Having drawn 100,000 people to the airport during the three days, Albert L. Edson, airport superintendent, expected that business would pick up, but no sudden surge is looked for.

Countless people applied for flight tickets, and several cross-country flights were arranged. In addition to the Robin monoplane sold during the show by Curtiss-Wright, several other prospects were reported.

Tercentenary Band Concert by Municipal Band on Common This Evening

Walter M. Smith — Tercentenary Tribune — Edwin Franko Goldman

BOSTON MUSIC LOVERS WILL be entertained in a Tercentenary concert at the Tribune building on the Common by the city's Tercentenary municipal band. Edwin Franko Goldman, noted New York band leader, will be guest conductor of the diversified program which has been arranged. Walter M. Smith, leader of the band ordinarily, on this occasion gracefully relinquishes the baton to his distinguished guest. He will be on hand, however, and will entertain with a trumpet solo and also take part in a trumpet trio with his two sons.

EAST BOSTON VETS PLAN BIG PARADE

Civic Organizations Expected to Enter Floats in March Saturday

East Boston's tercentenary parade next Saturday was mapped out at a meeting of the council of the veterans' associations last night in the headquarters of the Lieut. Lawrence J. Flaherty Post. .

Commander William Flannagan represented the Flaherty Post, Commander Frank Sacco the Orient Heights Post and Commander Maurice Cashman the Grady Camp, Spanish War Veterans.

It is expected that many Legion posts and auxiliaries as well as more than 25 camps of Spanish War Veterans will be in the parade.

The council expects that the several civic organizations that had planned to enter floats in the parade sponsored by the citizens' committee, but which was abandoned when it was found that the city would not provide funds, will take part in the veterans' parade and thus ensure a division of floats.

Funds for the parade expenses are being raised by the Flaherty Post by means of a march gras on the grounds adjoining the headquarters.

A meeting of the Flaherty Post has been called by Commander Flannagan for Thursday night to complete arrangements for the procession which is to start at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

"For example we have found that because of the popular demand for badger fur there has been an increase of $10 in 60 days. The same is likely to be true of other merchandise when brisk buying depletes stocks on hand.

"We have many wealthy customers and we notice that they have been buying liberally. They have discovered that this is the time to shop for real bargains.

"Last week we sold two mink coats for $950 each which we could not have sold under $1500 last year. The drop in price of pelts and silk and other trimmings made this possible.

"This is true of furs and merchandise everywhere. It is a market condition which shoppers should take advantage of. Trade in fur has been rather brisk this fall. This letter from a Philadelphia store says that a great many coats for $100 and upward have been sold by them in the past two weeks. Prices have not been so low since before the war.

WANTS MORE SPEECHES

"I, for one, hope that Mayor Curley will further enlighten the public with some more speeches of the type that he made on Boston Common on Labor Day. It was full of common sense."

Mr. O'Connell, on September 6, sent the following letter to John T. Scully, director of the Industrial Bureau of Boston, 80 Federal st.:

Dear Mr. Scully:

I have your letter of September 2, enclosing clipping of August 28 sent to you by John Donnelly & Sons, in this connection you say that if there has been an appreciable increase in our sales within the last few days, you would be glad to know it.

I am glad to say to you that our sales so far for the month of September are more than 25 per cent ahead of the corresponding days of September of last year. I have no doubt but that the Mayor's radio speech helped very materially in creating confidence in the minds of the public and stimulated buying. Of course, it is a well known fact that if the public does not buy, we cannot make purchases from our manufacturers, and if our manufacturers do not receive business from us, they cannot employ labor.

We are keeping our stocks up and are endeavoring to supply the public with assortments of reliable and dependable merchandise reasonably priced. Merchandise is being sold today at prices in many instances as low or lower than before the war.

I congratulate the mayor on his splendid address and I hope he will see his way clear to deliver one or two more similar talks.

Yours for Better Business,

Adolph Ehrlich, president of the C. F. Hovey Co., said

"We have noticed an upward trend of business this month which is very encouraging. Apparently the worst has past. It has been largely a state of mind. Unemployment has been a factor. We have not discharged any of our employes and don't intend to."

Capt. Parker Wants Easy-Going Horse for Parade

Registrar of Motor Vehicles George A. Parker wants a nice, quiet horse for Sept. 17. For, on that day, the date of Boston's big parade, Captain Parker is planning to ride on the back of a trusty steed, if he can find such an animal in this city.

"What I want," said the head of the State motor vehicle department, just back from his vacation on the Cape, "is a horse that is trustworthy and not given to attempting to break speed records, like the automobiles, and not one I will have to keep my eye on."

CHAMBER BACKS RAIL PLAN

The Boston Chamber of Commerce is solidly behind the suggestion for a permanent organization to be financed by the various New England States to look out for the interests of this territory in railroad and traffic matters, which is part of a preliminary report now in the hands of the governors' committees of the New England railroad committee.

This was made clear yesterday by Edward L. Hefron, assistant traffic manager of the chamber, who said that the suggestion comes as a stimulant but not as surprise, inasmuch as a similar plan was proposed to the committee several months ago by William H. Day, traffic manager of the chamber.

No definite conclusion as regards the report have yet been arrived at by the New England railroad committee. This was made clear in a statement issued by Rolland H. Spaulding, the general chairman.

Goldman Will Direct Band Tonight

Boston Common will ring tonight with strains of the concert of the Boston Tercentenary Municipal Band, led by the master baton of Edwin Franko Goldman, distinguished New York conductor, who has volunteered his services as guest conductor.

Walter M. Smith, regular leader of the band, has stepped aside at this time in order that Boston music lovers might see and hear the genius whose concerts over a long period of years have brought pleasure to millions throughout the nation.

Smith, however, will be in evidence at the concert and will play a trumpet solo and also take part in a trumpet trio with his two sons, Walter, Jr., and G. Edward Smith.

This trio comes at the request of many Boston people following a similar performance at a concert on Aug. 24. The trio played in public then for the first time and scored a remarkable success.

VARIED PROGRAM

A diversified program has been arranged for the concert. The opening number will be the march, "The Pilerim," a composition by Lake and dedicated to Edgar P. Davis, of Brockton. This will be followed by the "Overture" from Wagner's "Tannhauser." The third selection will be Bach's Chorale from his church cantata, 160, "Wachet Auf, Ruft Uns Die Stimme." This number was especially arranged for the Goldman band by Albert Chaffarelli.

The last number of the first part of the concert will be the introduction to Act III and the Bridal Chorus from Wagner's "Lohengrin." Following this presentation there will be a short intermission.

TRUMPET FEATURE

The second part will open with the William Tell Overture by Rossini, and this selection will be followed by the Walter Smith trumpet features. The first will be a solo, "Carnival of Venice" by Del Staggers and this will be followed by the trio presented by Smith and his two sons. This number will be the "Three Solitaires" of Victor Herbert.

The seventh selection will be made up of two numbers, an Irish tune set by Percy Grainger, and Director Goldman's own march, "Stepping Along."

The program will close with a special arrangement of the Blue Danube Waltz of Johann Strauss The arrangement is an entirely new one and was made especially for the Goldman orchestra.

Bostonian Awaits Mate's Death Details

Mrs. Annie Isherwood, of 96 Moore st., E. Boston, today is awaiting further word regarding the death of her husband, William Isherwood, who died at a Liverpool hospital on Aug. 21, the day after he was to have taken passage for home aboard the Cunard steamer Scythia. In good health when he left here in June to visit his sister, whom he had not seen in 35 years, he was stricken suddenly. Interment took place in Labor Day, in the little cemetery at Kirkdale, just outside Liverpool.

Slaying Suspect, 75, Pleads Not Guilty

He was remanded to East Cambridge jail to await trial. Nickerson, a feeble health, had to be assisted to the dock

URGES CITIZENS BE ARMED

A suggestion for a return of the old vigilante days, as a means of curbing armed robbery and wholesale shooting will be presented to the Wollaston Improvement Association at its next meeting.

The suggestion was made by a citizen of Wollaston to President Allan MacDonald of the association

The proposition is that a certain number of reputable citizens, working under and alongside the police department, be given the right to arm themselves and help carry the law into effect.

The writer, in his letter to President MacDonald, said the police are so few in comparison with the large number of people who have cars and guns of all kinds from the machine gun to the pistol, that the police are at a disadvantage and it is further contended that the police be empowered to call on these vigilantes to help in a vigorous enforcement of the law

Policeman's Black Eye Costs Man $35

LARGE INCREASE AT B U

Fall entrance exams at Boston University had lots of boys and girls worried today and many of them took a last look into their books ere they marched in to take their pens in hand.

Outside the College of Liberal Arts building at 688 Boylston st., Miss Emma Crawford, of Arnold Mills, R. I., and Miss Eleanor Wragg, who hopes to be one of Needham's representatives at B. U. this year, were snapped doing just that thing.

Officials at B. U. said today the enrollment this Fall will show a large increase even over last year's high figure.

Hold 'L' Operator on Death Charge

Probable cause was found by Judge Charles S Sullivan today in the Charlestown Municipal court in the case of Arthur W. McLean of Hewlett st., Roslindale, charged with manslaughter and he was held in $2000 bail for the October term of the grand jury. McLean was the operator of the Boston Elevated train, which struck and killed Carmello Frenni, 48, a track walker of 6 Minor st., West End, on August 25 on the "L" structure in Charlestown.

Fine Milton Autoist $20 on Drunk Charge

Raymond C. Plummer of Maple st., Milton, was found guilty today in Stoughton court on a charge of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. On recommendation of Patrolman Romayne of Canton, the arresting officer, the minimum fine of $20 was imposed.

FINE 2 GIRLS IN CRASH $400

Two girls were fined $200 each on dangerous driving charges today in Waltham court, although one of them was not operating the automobile concerned.

Eleanor DiCeca of Boston st., Somerville, 16, a senior at Somerville high school, alleged to have been the driver, was cleared of a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Ida Menotti, 19, of Joy st., Somerville.

The other girl fined was Mary A. Serafino, 18, of Mullen ct., Cambridge, owner of the auto, who was charged with permitting the dangerous operating of a car under her control.

Both girls appealed and were held in $1000 each.

Miss Menotti was one of six in a roadster alleged to have been driven by Miss DiCeca in North ave., Weston, on August 9, when it overturned. Ida Menotti was killed and the other five were injured

CAPT. PINE OFF TO GROOM SPEEDY THEBAUD TO RACE BLUE NOSE

FISHERMAN TO BE PUT IN DOCK

Boats Are Due to Meet Off Gloucester in International Trophy Oct. 9, 11, 13

Gloucester's newest fisherman, and reputed her fastest, headed home today to prepare for the race expected to crown her queen of the North Atlantic fishing fleet.

Capt. Ben Pine took the Gertrude L. Thebaud out of Boston after discharging the last fish before the races at Gloucester on October 9, 11 and 13, when she will meet the Canadian champion, Bluenose, for the title and a cup offered by Sir Thomas Lipton.

"Piney" said she would be taken out on the ways at Story's, in Essex, where she was launched earlier in the year, and that she would be groomed to her finest for the races off Gloucester.

The Lipton trophy will become the property of the schooner winning two out of the three races.

The Thebaud is somethinb of an enigma in that she has not been in competition but she was built as a challenger for the internationcal cup held by the Bluenose and as such she is believed to be faster than anything yet produced in the way of real fishing vessels.

Mayor Curley Outlines Plans for Brookline Tunnel

THOMAS F. SULLIVAN EDWARD DANA MAYOR CURLEY FREDERICK H. FAY NATHAN SIDD HENRY I. HARRIMAN

PLANS FOR THE NEW TUNNEL, suggested by Mayor Curley, to run from Brookline to the heart of Boston, along Huntington ave., were discussed by members of the "L" trustees and the City Planning Board. The mayor found all members at the meeting in full accord with plans for the new tunnel project. The cost of the tunnel is estimated as high as $21,000,000.

LAST RITES FOR FR. M'CORMACK

Cardinal O'Connell pronounced final absolution at the close of a solemn high requiem mass at St. Paul's Church, Hinchsm, today for Rev. Peter J. McCormack, pastor of that church, who died suddenly on Saturday.

The mass was attended by more than 1200 including a large number of priests and all Hingham officials. Stores were closed during the funeral hour.

Delegations from many organizations in Greater Boston included a group from the Knights of Columbus Council of the West End of Boston, where Fr. McCormack was formerly a curate, attached to St. Joseph's.

Rev. Michael J. Cuddihy of St. Matthew's, Dorchester, was celebrant of the mass, assisted by Rev. Joseph P. Lawless of St. Anthony's, Cohasset, and Rev Michael J. Derby of Immaculate Conception Church, East Weymouth. The eulogy was pronounced by Rev Hugh J. Blunt of St. John's, North Cambridge, a classmate of the deceased. Burial was at St. Michael's cemetery, Hudson, where Rev. Ambrose Corbett of that town said prayers.

Globe Trotter, 82, Gives Health Hints

Work hard while you're young, learn to save and retire early to enjoy what you've saved. That is the advice of Anthony Wayne Strauss, globe-trotter, sportsman and retired business man, who celebrated his 82d birthday yesterday in his home at 1039 Massachusetts ave., Cambridge.

2 SENTENCED FOR EXTORTION

Changing their pleas to guilty, Frank Cappola, 22, of Endicott st., and Frank Spangiotett, 25, of Margaret st., Boston, were sentenced to indefinite terms at Concord reformatory in Superior Court at Dedham today, for extortion of $135 from a Brookline dentist.

They were trapped by Dr. Alfred Smith who had arranged with police to be in hiding when the two called for the money on April 28. He gave them marked bills and turned on the radio as a signal for the police to enter.

The same charge against Emilio Paone, 23, of Thatcher ct., Boston was nolle prossed today, the authorities being convinced he was innocent

Cappola has been on parole since 1926 and must serve out three years remaining on his previous term before beginning his new term.

Cleared on Charge of Tipsy Driving

Newburyport, Sept. 9—Failure of the prosecution to produce witnesseses to testify that Charles H Rowe of Middle st., this city, was operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor, resulted in Associate Justice Oscar Nelson finding the man not guilty in district court yesterday.

Arrested by Reserve Officers Henry Gagnon and Michael O'Connor, the defendant denied that he had been drinking or that he had been driving. According to the policemen, Rowe at the time of the arrest was parked in the middle of the road with his wife.

Decision on Proposed Auto Rates Monday

Following the stormiest protest ever directed against compulsory automobile insurance rates, State Insurance Commissioner Merton L. Brown today prepared the 1931 premiums for publication Monday.

At the same time, a bill to abolish the system of territorial assessing by substituting a demerit plan was in the hands of the House clerk.

Little hope was held for any reduction in the figures proposed 10 days ago in which Boston, Chelsea and Revere are rated from $1 to $7 higher than in 1930

Leaders in the motorists' protest cited their views in no uncertain terms during yesterday's hearing that packed Gardner Auditorium at the State House

When the hearing concluded, Rep. Bernard Ginsburg of Dorchester moved for a change in the insurance system by filing the bill providing for a demerit plan

The bill would increase the premiums for drivers involved in accidents and convicted of serious breaches of the driving laws and would relieve careful drivers of excessive rates.

Commissioner Brown would give no inkling as to his position following the six-hour hearing. He merely announced the rates for 1931 would be revealed Monday in accordance with the law that provides for their filing before September 15th.

His decision is final in view of last year's Supreme Court ruling that no court could act against him unless fraud were shown.

The hearing was reopened long enough for two more protests to be filed against the present compulsory system. H. S. Stoddard of the Boston Automobile Club placed on record as opposed to the zoning and as favoring the demerit system the Boston Automobile Club, Holyoke Automobile Club, the Springfield Automobile Club, Berkshire County, New Bedford, Bancroft, Lawrence and Wachusetts Automobile Clubs.

Warren D Provost, Boston insurance broker, urged greater consideration for truck owners who adopt up-to-date safety appliances and means to reduce accidents.

LORING RITES TOMORROW

Funeral services for William Caleb Loring, former associate justice of the Supreme Judicial Court, who died yesterday at his summer home at Pride's Crossing, Beverly, will take place in Trinity Church, Copley sq., tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Burial will be private Justice Loring was one of the most widely known of the Massachusetts judiciary, and news of his death caused widespread expressions of regret yesterday. For 20 years he had served the Commonwealth as an associate justice of its highest court.

LITTLE SOLDIER FIVE YEARS OLD TODAY

Eleanor Green Unable to Enjoy Party, but Filled With Gratitude for Aid

The tiny flame of life still burns in the almost helpless body of Roxbury's "Little Soldier" on her fifth birthday, despite the diagnosis of medical science.

Her courage and faith in the miracle that may come has kept the pain-racked little child carrying the torch high.

The people of Greater Boston by their generous contributions are responsible for the baby's life today, and although Eleanor Green is not able to enjoy a birthday party, she is happy with the joy of one who has suffered and knows when to be thankful for what she has.

"Mamma," she asks, "why is everybody so good to me? They don't know me and yet they send me such lovely gifts and toys. It must be that they love all little girls, don't you think? I love them, too, and I wish they'd come and see me so that I could thank them."

TRANSFUSION IMPOSSIBLE

The life of the "Little Soldier" hangs on a thread. Her heart is bad and her blood pressure is so low that any operation or blood transfusion would be fatal.

"I have to thank everybody for giving me my child for these last few weeks," said Mrs. Green today. "I didn't expect to have my baby with me on her fifth birthday, and yet she is here. It was a miracle that saved her from death, and maybe another miracle will give her to me for a long time.

"She's my best child. The most affectionate, the most loving of the four of them. I hate to see her die. When I hold her tiny body in my arms I can hardly breathe when I realize that so very soon she will have to leave me, and I can do nothing about it.

"All I pray for is a miracle. Doctors have pronounced her doomed, and can do nothing for her, but maybe the Guiding Spirit has another fate in store for the little angel."

HUNDREDS ASSIST

Hundreds of altruistic persons have made great sacrifices of money so that Eleanor may have milk and orange juice daily, the diet prescribed for her.

Gifts have come pouring into the Green tenement for the "Little Soldier" who today has another birthday. Offers of all kinds are made in person to Mrs. Green and the prayers of many are keeping the child here just a little while longer, and making her days just as pleasant as they could possibly be for one in her condition.

SEEK RIGHT TO INCREASE STOCK

Petitions of eight electric and gas companies for authority to issue additional capital stock aggregating more than $800,000 were heard today by the State Public Utilities Commission. In each instance the additional stock issue was requested in order that the company might capitalize expenditures made for additions and improvement to properties.

The companies appearing and the amounts of additional stock requested were Electric Light & Power Company of Abington and Rockland, $236,250; Amesbury Electric Light Company, $75,000; Norton Power & Electric Company, $25,000; Randolph and Holbrook Electric & Power Company, $25,000, Union Light & Power Company, $230,000; Weymouth Light & Power Company, $215,000; Worcester Suburban Electric Company, $133,000, Norwood Gas Company $25,000.

There was no opposition voiced to any of the petitions, which were taken under advisement.

Sullivan Asks Aid at Rally for Lame

Henry J. Sullivan, Democratic candidate for the Governor's Council, at rallies in Roxbury and the South End, last night, made a plea for special institutional training for crippled children. He said $50,000 is annually appropriated to the State Board of Education for rehabilitation of crippled children and maimed adults.

Arthur W. Sullivan, register of Probate for Suffolk County, candidate for re-election, was tendered a dinner by a group of lawyers who pledged their support.

Rings Doorbell to Greet Brother He Never Saw

Twenty-five years ago, when James Le Duc was born in a house on Ives st., Salem, his mother died and the nurse who was attending her disappeared with the infant.

Efforts of the father, now dead, to find trace of his child failed and his whereabouts was a mystery to his three brothers and two sisters until today.

Ringing the doorbell at the home of his brother Joseph, at 176 Lafayette st., James Le Duc introduced himself and a reunion followed

He had been placed in an orphan home in Lowell by the nurse and was later adopted by a family named Fogarty. The orphan home had his right name and recently, after having gone through the Lowell school and worked for several years in New York, LeDuc decided to find his family. He did so without much difficulty from the old record at the Lowell institution

A brother, Charles, also lives here, and another brother is in New York. One of the sisters lives in Great Barrington and the other in Chicago. An effort will be made to bring all together for a family gathering

Fire in Rubbish at Braves Field

Braves Field, where Boston's "Old Timers" burned up the diamond yesterday, as they used to 60 years ago, staged a little bonfire of its own account, probably in celebration of the big event that was held within its walls yesterday.

Fire fighters were called out early today to check a rubbish fire which started under the third base bleachers, believed to have been caused by one of the 25,000 spectators who watched the former Boston stars display their wares.

JANE COWL SHINES BRIGHTLY AS VIOLA IN SHAKESPEARE'S 'TWELFTH NIGHT'

OLD PLAY SCORES AGAIN

The Cast

Feste, the Fiesta	Lewis Martin
The Duke Orsino	Coburn Goodwin
Viola	Jane Cowl
Sea Captain	Robert Lowe
Sir Toby Belch	Walter Kingsford
Maria	Angie Ralph
Sir Andrew Aguecheek, Arthur Hurt
Olivia	Joyce Carey
Malvolio	Leon Quartermaine
Antonio	Gordon Burby
Sebastian	Rowe Foot
Fabian	Harry Sothern

By NICHOLAS YOUNG

THE MASQUERADING Viola of "Twelfth Night" always has been seductive temptation to ladies of the theater who take their art seriously. In line and situation it is the voice of the tempter—a siren's call to the ambitious actress. Back through the years to the day Will Shakespeare penned this comedy, Viola has come into theatrical life with almost studied regularity. Not too frequently, of course, but regularly.

• • •

IN THIS generation we have tested the qualities of Allen and Julia Marlowe, each sufficiently remote and dim in memory to give Jane Cowl now at the Wilbur, a clear field with a multitude of new playgoers upon which to practice her speculations and, we might add, her innovations. Having given the theater of the last ten years its loveliest and most intriguing Juliet, there was a grim certainty that sooner or later this estimable actress would risk her talents upon Viola. And so came "Twelfth Night" in somewhat new fashion; an adventure in simplified stage mechanics.

Nicholas Young

AN TO THE ROLE itself, Miss Cowl made it sufficiently engaging. The performance just naturally took care of events as they arrived. Miss Cowl's Viola, with alternations as the bogus and real Sebastian, were filled with all the charm and grace one might reasonably expect from a lady whose personality and talents have made easy conquest of this old town one season upon another. If there is anything solid in this thing called clientelle, Miss Cowl certainly has it. Most of us here, as the records reveal, are a bit prejudiced in her favor. So, if you haven't already suspected it, she was a lovely Viola. Will Leon Quartermaine as Malvolio, Lewis Martin as the clown, and Joyce Carey as Olivia, the cast was as nearly complete as you have any right to expect in matters of this kind. The rest of the company behaved in the conventionally upright Shakespearean manner.

• • •

POSSIBLY having enjoyed the impressive simplicity of last season's Stratford-Upon-Avon Players in "Twelfth Night" and player of Shakespeare's plays, Miss Cowl's new managers brought forth an even more simple device for changing scenes without delay. For there were no tedious waits. Like pages of a picture book, Mr. Martin, the clown, whirled one scene into another even quicker than you can tell about it. In the meantime two sturdy pages, drilled like Pubix ushers, and in rhythmic military stride, placed and replaced the only movable prop—a garden settee. These settings, arranged by Raymond Sovey, were both novel and effective. The entire handling was so unaffected, so natural, that it seemed as if the changes might have been done by a couple of librarians. It was merely turning the page of a monster volume.

• • •

MISS COWL, you need not be reminded, pleased her audience. Also she confounded it. In the alternating roles of Viola and Sebastian there was no distinguishing line in voice or in costume. The casual attendant upon Shakespearean performances would be hard put to determine with safety whether Miss Cowl, at any particular moment was Viola, the girl, or the boy Sebastian. But that is a detail subject to easy correction. The play is still very young.

'GIRLS TOGETHER,' NEXT FILM FOR JOAN CRAWFORD

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Universal Service Motion Picture Editor

Copyright 1930, by Universal Service, Inc.

Los Angeles, Sept. 9—Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer would just be plain foolish if they didn't capitalize on the business that "Our Blushing Brides" and its predecessors, "Our Modern Maidens" and "Dancing Daughters" did at the box office. The public has proved what it wants, so naturally M.-G.-M. is going to give it to them with all the trimmings.

"Girls Together," by Mildred Cram, is the next number in the series of girl pictures. Irving Thalberg read it in the galley proofs and purchased it before it was published. I am mediately. It is due to be published this fall in a current magazine. John Crawford, who has been the heroine in all these modern maiden tales, will again star in "Girls Together."

Louella O. Parsons

While it is not officially announced we have reason to believe that Anita Page and Dorothy Sebastian will again support Mrs. Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.

Paramount is proud of its only woman director, Dorothy Arzner. In fact, the whole film industry is proud of Miss Arzner who with Lois Weber is the only woman to achieve fame as a director. Years ago, of course, there was Madame Blache, but we haven't heard of her in a number of years. Miss Arzner is on her way to New York with the Hector Turnbull Company. She belongs to his unit and her first picture in the East will be called "Sex in Business" with the lovely Claudette Colbert in the leading role. The fans are getting stronger and stronger for Miss Colbert who has beauty and apparently plenty of intelligence.

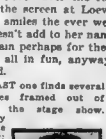
"GOOD NEWS" AS TALKIE REPEATS STAGE HIT

By HARLEIGH SCHULTZ

THAT SCHWAB AND MANDEL musical comedy which sent "Good News" and "Varsity Drag" and "The Best Things in Life are Free" over the footlights into circulation as song hits, holds the screen at Loew's State this week. Out of the silver sheet smiles the ever welcome face of Bessie Love. It is true she doesn't add to her name in this appearance, yet the sum total is a gain perhaps for the gayety of nations, so what's the odds? It's all in fun, anyway. And the songs are very well sung, indeed.

IN THE CAST one finds several familiar faces framed out of memory of the stage show. There is Mary Lawlor, quite fetching; There is Dorothy McNulty, the hit of the film rendering of the famous "Good News" musical show. One glimpses also Gus Shy; also Billy Taft, more recently of the Boston boards in the ill-fated "Taffy Tales." The strictly screen folk outnumber these by far, among them fandom's own Miss Love, Cliff Edwards (with his "uke" as usual) and Stanley Smith. It's the same tale of the mythical Tait College, and of a football star and a couple of co-eds, and so on. You probably remember more about it than we do; the book didn't amount to much; the songs were the real thing. So, similarly, in the picture.



Stanley Smith

MISS LOVE IS the education factory's tomboy, and an attractive hoydon she is. But it is Miss McNulty who shines brightest of any and all. She may thank her lucky stars for this opportunity to "strut her stuff" before the microphone and camera; she sure does have screen personality. One may count on a featured place for her in the not far-off months. Her dancing with Mr. Taft is very classy, and her singing equally good.

• • •

THOSE WHO like three cheers and a lot of college spirit will find "Good News" tipping Fame. The same may be said for those who love the singing pictures. There is abundant song, and many hits may be hand-picked. The film follows the stage show closely on the period lines; here and there the camera swings out and away for diversion, but, essentially, "Good News" is the old flesh-and-blood "Good News."

• • •

THERE ARE film specials on the State bill in addition to the feature picture. One is the Hal Roach comedy, "School's Out."

FINE PROGRAM BY PEOPLE'S ORCHESTRA

By MOSES SMITH

The patient and interested onlooker at the current civic celebrations has waited a long time for a definite achievement in the field of music. We mean something else than the good-natured and sincere but essentially mediocre expression of groups insufficiently organized and trained.

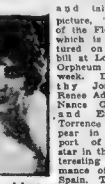
This achievement comes very definitely now with the pair of concerts at Symphony Hall, under the direction of the Music Committee of the Massachusetts Bay Colony Tercentenary Commission. A remarkable program was given last night, and will be repeated this evening.

An audience that thronged the auditorium heard the People's Symphony Orchestra joined with the Apollo Club under the direction of Thompson Stone, leader of both organizations. And there were the assorted talents, as assisting artists, of Hulon Y. Robison, tenor; William F. Dodge, violinist; Armand Welcome, viola player, and Walter Kidder, baritone, with Douglas Kenny as the piano accompanist.

The program was brilliantly arranged to give a sort of musico-historical cross-section of music in America.

NOVARRO IN LATEST AT ORPHEUM

Ramon Novarro's singing voice is heard to good advantage once again in his latest singing and talking picture, "Call of the Flesh," which is featured on the bill at Loew's Orpheum this week. Dorothy Jordan and Renee Adoree share the honors with Novarro.



Renee Adoree

The story is that of a young singer, care-free and frolicsome while singing in his cantina or dancing with his partner. But when he reaches the pinnacle of fame as an opera star he finds it is a triumph paid for with a broken heart. Swiftly the light drama of the picture is converged into a gripping drama of human souls.

Debs Become Salesladies for Charity Sale

WHILE THE YOUNGER set is enthusiastically enjoying its net matches at the Essex County courts at Manchester today, a large group of this season's debs are serving sweet charity at Marblehead. And to be a salesgirl at the large rummage sale at the latter place means hard work all day long, that the coffers of the Children's Hospital may be heaped up by willing hands. Mrs. James F. Hunnewell of Gray Rock, Marblehead Neck, is directing, assisted by Miss Catherine Bowden and Miss Constance Learned. Her workers include Miss Caroli e Hunnewell, Miss Margaret Emerson, the Cosby twins, Misses Charlotte and Carolyn, Miss Constance Creighton, Miss Rosamond Holton, Miss Barbara Hodges, Miss Barbara Percival and Miss Marian Upton.

OTHER DEBS SERVING AT the counters are Miss Mary Ives, Miss Priscilla Simonds, Miss Ruth Keyes, Miss Rebecca Benson, Miss Elizabeth Stephenson, Miss Mary Thompson and Miss Helen Thompson, Miss Margaret Ives, Miss Elizabeth Brewster, Miss Janet Rothwell, Miss Martha Brewer, Miss Kath rine Davis, Miss Anna Walcott, Miss Eleanor Jaynes, Miss Kath. rins Fabens, Miss Emily Davis, Miss Nancy Jaynes and Miss Peggy Creighton.

Dinner Dance in Honor of Mary Armstrong

MR. AND MRS. ALBERT M. CREIGHTON and George Creighton are entertaining 80 young people at their home, Marmuna, at Little's Point this evening at a dinner dance honoring their niece, Miss Mary Armstrong. Miss Armstrong is leaving soon for college and tonight's festivities are the finale to her summer activities. Her cousins, the attractive Misses Peggy and Constance Creighton, have had several informal affairs for her during the past few weeks.

THE FINAL DANCE OF THE Dixie Yacht Club takes place tomorrow evening, when racing togs will be replaced by evening gowns as the feminine members make merry before returning to town houses. Preceding the dance, a large dinner party will be given for many of the Marblehead group by Mrs. Frederick Kimball at Swampscott.

MR. AND MRS. LLOYD NICHOLS are aboard their yacht Siconess today, for a two weeks' cruise in Newport waters. They will witness the challenge contest of the Shamrock V and the Enterprise at that resort on Saturday and will journey leisurely homeward about the 20th. They will remain at their place, Dunroven, at Beverly Farms, until October 1.

Mrs. Robb Directs Trinity Church Flower Show

MRS. RUSSELL ROBB IS IN charge of a flower show being held today in the parish house of Trinity Episcopal Church under the auspices of the Concord Garden Club. The exhibit is open to the public during the afternoon

MISS BARBARA MORSE, A debutante of the coming season is in Erie, Pa., to be one of the bridesmaids at the wedding of her brother, William G. Morse, Jr., today. The bride is Miss Katrina Hitchcock, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto G. Hitchcock, and a member of the Junior League of Erie. She is being attended by her sister, Miss Frances Hitchcock, as maid of honor, and her remaining attendants are Miss Ruth Wells Boyd of Philadelphia, Miss Anne Morrison and Miss Mary Lane Van Cleve of Erie. William Dobbins is best man. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Gibbons Morse of Cambridge and is a Harvard '28 graduate. The couple will live in Portland, Me after Oct. 1.

MISS ANNE FROTHINGHAM, who with her talented sister, Miss Eugenia, joined the ranks of Vincent Club girls vacationing on dude ranches this summer, is due at Bentwood, the Langdon Frothingham place at Pocasset, today. Miss Anne returned from the C & M ranch in Wyoming three weeks ago only to volunteer at once her services as counsellor for the children of the Elizabeth Peabody House, who are at Camp Gannett at Sharon. The Frothinghams will remain on the Cape until Oct. 1.

BY THE WAY, ARRANGEments have been completed for a benefit performance of the silhouette picture "Adventures of Prince Achmed," for the Elizabeth Peabody House, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Alexander Siefert. The picture will be shown in Symphony Hall on Nov. 4. Arthur Fiedler will conduct the orchestration accompanying the picture.

BOSTON'S LUCKY GIRL

-a. But pshaw! what can you do for anyone like that?"

"What were you trying to do?" Cathie asked. It was a stupid question. It just slipped out because she was tired, and ill at ease. It had no meaning, and no malicious intent, but it had a sudden, very frightening effect on Chester. His sprang up and glared at her, his sallow face distorted with anger. "You mind your own — business!"

Cathie gasped. "Why, Chester! I—I didn't mean—"

A Black Mailer

"Cut that. I know what you meant. And you mind your own business. Do you understand? You lay off of me, and I'll lay off of you! Go sticking your nose into my affairs and—"

"But Chester, I—"

"Don't Chester me. I'm on to you. I saw through you from the first. But I've no intention of making trouble if you don't."

"Please—I wasn't trying to make trouble. Oh, please listen. Listen—it doesn't matter about us. But we've got to be friends, for your father's sake. It would hurt him so. Please—" She held out her hand

"Oh, well," he said ungraciously Then he held out his hand, too, and smiled. "All right. And don't get this wrong. Marguerite is a blackmailer. I've been paying her for years, just to keep her off poor oad's neck. I was just telling her that I'd quit. Has she been talking to you?"

"No! Oh, no—of course not."

"Take my advice and give her a wide berth. She's a terrible liar Likely to tell you anything. She's already told me plenty about you."

"About me? But she doesn't know anything. There isn't anything to know—"

"No? Well that won't stop our Marguerite. She's got an imagination—that one!"

Food for Thought

He laughed boisterously, turned on his heel and left.

"He's the liar," Cathie thought, uncomfortably. "He's lied to me . . . and he lies to his father . . . oh, I know he does . . . he could say anything about me . . . he will, too!"

She began to walk up and down the room wringing her hands. The sight of her drawn frightened face in the mirror shocked her. "I mustn't give way to this. It's foolish. I'm just imagining things . . . no, I'm not . . . but I can trust Mr. Farnsworth. He loves his son, but he loves me, too . . . Oh, if I could only tell him! If I could only tell somebody. . . . If I could just talk to Ma. . . ."

But she knew that she couldn't talk to her mother. She couldn't talk to anyone. There was no one to go to with her troubles. She must keep them all locked in her heart, and so on living, trying to look happy in Alfred Farnsworth's twelve room house. She had offended Chester, made an enemy of him—she knew that, in spite of his half-hearted acceptance of her apology.

Poor Cathie. There was little rest for her that night When she slept it was only to dream, unhappily.

Guests Leave

In the morning she was still too shaken and miserable to face them. She slipped away, with an excuse of necessary shopping, and when she came back at ten time her husband was waiting for her in the drawing room, a whiskey and soda by his side.

"Chester is gone," he said without preliminary.

"Gone!"—Then he'd told his father about yesterday's unpleasantness. He WAS still angry.

Mr. Farnsworth looked apologetic. "Yes, it was hasty. They were both very sorry not to see you, but their apartment was ready and they went right over. Anxious to get settled. They left messages for you. Enid was particularly sorry—"

He thought she was hurt because they had not waited to bid her a formal good-by. He went on explaining and she came and knelt on the floor beside his chair, her head on his knees.

They were gone! She clung to him, almost dizzy with relief

"It's nice to be alone, just you and I again, Catherine."

"Oh, yes—yes," she breathed.

Like Old Sheep

"You are more to me than anything now. More to me even than my son. More than I ever thought anyone could ever be." His voice shook and there came that look in his eyes . . . devotional . . . Old Shep used to look like that, sitting beside her, his shaggy head on her lap, his nice eyes watching with patient humility.

Cathie swallowed the lump in her throat. "You—you shouldn't care so much for me. I'm—I'm always doing things wrong. I'm just nobody!" she burst out childishly, and then, afraid of her own withdrawing, she slipped her arms tighter about his neck and kissed him warmly.

The twilight deepened. They sat together, silent, in the firelit room

After a long while she realized that he was speaking again

"By the way, Catherine, Moore is coming here for a few days. It will be convenient. We can work together in the evening"

"Here" You—you asked him here?"

"But, Catherine dear, I didn't think you would mind"

Hides Emotions

Cathie hid her twitching face in his sleeve. He stroked her tumbled honey-colored hair. "If that you don't like him, my dear? Shall I—"

In a small voice she answered "No, it isn't that. It was sort of a relief to be alone, that's all. But we can be alone later. There will be plenty of time for that after . . . after he's gone

But she couldn't control her voice any longer. It broke, and she lay there weeping, weeping as if her heart would break, burrowing her twisted, streaming face deeper into the crook of her husband's arm.

246 Student Fliers in 8 Months' Course

Washington, Sept. 9 (AP)—An eight months course of flying training beginning next November at the army schools at Brooks Field, San Antonio, Tex., and Marel Field, Riverside, Calif., will be taken by 246 new students. Among them will be 87 second lieutenants recently graduated from West Point.

For all SILKS use the new CARBONA
Grease Absorbent
POWDER
REMOVES GREASE SPOTS WITHOUT LEAVING A "RING"
Most silks are now "weighted" or "loaded" with foreign substances to make them appear of better quality. Liquid cleaners dissolve this "weighting" or "loading," and this causes "rings" on Silks. We have therefore created Carbona Grease Absorbent Powder for use on Silks only. This Powder will not affect "weighting" or "loading" in any way—it absorbs Grease Spots instead of dissolving them, and no "rings" can result from its use on Silks.
For all other Fabrics use Carbona Cleaning Fluid

Urge Wages on Work Not Sex

By NANCY BREWSTER.

New London, Ct., Sept. 9 "Wages based on the job and not on sex constitute one way of overcoming the unsatisfactory industrial conditions," it was declared today by Miss Mary Anderson, director of the women's bureau, United States Department of Labor.

Addressing the second day session of the New England conference of the State Federation of Women's Clubs at the New Grisvold, Miss Anderson asserted that:

"Proper working conditions, by bringing health and happiness to the worker, repay the employer in dividends of money, good will and the efficiency of his employes."

"Long hours," she said, "poor pay, unhealthful working conditions and absence of humane employment policies, which would be a means of constructive health in the present period of unemployment, are all too frequent characteristics of the industrial situation of today."

Youth today is handicapped by parents, Mrs. Alice Pattison Merritt, former State senator in Connecticut and regional director of the New England Girl Scouts, asserted.

"Youth is reckless!" she began her address on "The Spirit of Modern Youth." Why not? It is the urge to grow, it is the healthy and natural expression of development for only by constructive action can youth expect to find peace.

"Youth rebellious? That is the attitude of the adult mind, that mind so determined on beaten paths as not to recognize youth's initiative and exercise. Adults can not expect youth to travel those beaten roads simply because they have travelled them. Lincoln had that spirit of youth when he dared to do what others dared only to dream of."

"Youth today is handicapped by parents," she continued. "Youth isn't getting a fair deal. They are misunderstood.

"Youth is ageless, youth is timeless. In our eagerness to count our calories and watch our diets drop off those pounds that prohibit activity and movement in carrying out those things we are interested in, we mustn't fail to retain the spirit of youth by which we may retain the understanding of our children.

Courage to Tackle Problems Needed, Says Educator

Early Americans were not brought up on vacuum cleaners or companionate marriages or high school education but their courage to tackle hard work, their perseverance and their persistence have made the New England of today a fine section of the country, Howard Bradstreet, director of adult education in Hartford, told the club women in an earlier session.

Stressing the "Traditions of New England" and their maintenance, Bradstreet discouraged the continued study of such tradition departed countries as Egypt and Assyria But New England's traditions must be carried on, he said.

The conference opened with greetings from the chairman, Mrs. Omeron H. Coolidge of Maine, and was then turned over to the president of the Connecticut State Federation of Women's Clubs, Mrs. Robert F. Gadd. The clubwomen were treated to a musical program both afternoon and evening.

Since "co-operation" is the keynote of the conference, outstanding on today's program is the address of Sidney A. Edwards, director of the Connecticut bureau of markets, on "What the New England Label Means to the Consumer?"

New England clubwomen have pledged themselves to co-operate with the New England Council in promoting industries for the six states. The problem of the woman in industry is another feature of today's program.

Headed by the State president, Mrs. Carl L. Schrader of Belmont, the delegation of Massachusetts clubwomen to the conference included Mrs. Carl W Illig, Jr., Onset; Mrs. A. H. Worrall, Onset; Mrs. Ernest E Sawyer, Brockton, Mrs. C. T. Warner, Marlboro; Mrs Heman A Harding, Chatham, Mrs Charles L. Fuller, Brockton, Mrs. A N. Webb, Salem; Mrs. Franklin P Hawkes, Arlington; Mrs. D Fletcher Knight, Arlington; Cora E. Pierce, Fitchburg; Mrs. Herbert Meade, Arlington; Mrs. George E. Taber, Brockton; Mrs. Robert Parmenter, Arlington; Miss Edith N Winn, Arlington; Mrs. David R Collier, Gardner; Mrs. George A Keyworth, Gardner; Mrs. Perley H Washburn, Gardner; Mrs. Edward A. Brooks, Gardner.

Mrs. L. A. Richardson, Lowell; Mrs. C. A. Ferguson, Marblehead; Mrs. John A. Jennings, Brookline; Mrs. Walter B. Leach, Brookline; Miss Carolyn J Beck, Wellesley; Mrs. William J. McDonald, Boston; Mrs. Anne Blair, Springfield; Miss Grace H. Noyes, Springfield; Mrs D B. McPherson, Brookline; Mrs. R E. Bailey, Brookline; Mrs. James Hale, Springfield; Mrs. Wendell Brownson, Springfield; Mrs. Henry Crane, Springfield; Mrs. Frederick H Bishop, Wollaston; Mrs. W. L. Tufts, West Somerville; Mrs. Willard H. Sawtelle, East Dedham; Florence L. Stone, Worcester; Miss Nellie L. McAvoy, Boston; Mrs. Lawrence C Putnam, Peabody; Mrs. J A Stiles, Gardner; Dr Anna C Palmer, Milton; Miss Rachel Brooks, Gardner; Mrs Fred B. Cross, Springfield; Mrs. Ernestine C. Perry, Agawam; Mrs. Frank H. Stewart, Newton; Mrs. Lillian Folger, Newton Center; Mrs. Ernest R. Brackett, Medford; Mrs. Fred P. Bennett, Jr., Saugus; Mrs. Edwin L. Pride, Somerville.

MRS. POOLE PRESENT

Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole of Brookline, first vice president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, who, two days ago, returned from a summer of European travel, was in attendance at the meeting of the conference.

Other speakers on today's program are Rodfield Proctor, president of the New England Council; Robert C. Deming, Luther M. Keith, James H. Taylor, Massachusetts highway landscape supervisor; Miss Mary Anderson of Washington

Tonight at the annual banquet presidents of the state federations will speak briefly on television, radio, aviation, electricity, life, seeking the gold, and velocity

Hats Bring Out Your Personality

By ANN ARDEN

MODELS FROM L. P. HOLLANDER CO., INC.

HATS THIS SEASON certainly have personality, and are capable of adjustment to compliment or mar the wearer The close fitting type of hat takes on many variations, but the turban, toque and beret are very closely related

Berets have proven their comfort and chic so conclusively that they are sure to repeat in newer lines and materials Every young thing has worn them, and will wear them again this fall

What would the fashion world come to if Madame Agnes did not make a new turban every now and then? So dependent upon her smart little creations have we become, that we can hardly imagine a season without one

* * *

LIKE LAST YEAR'S "little rag of a hat," the latest creation from Maison Agnes is of a knitted fabric. It is made of a new firmly woven boucle that holds its shape admirably. The most important point about this hat is that it is adjustable to any head. Two adroitly placed slits where the ends pull through enable you to fit it as snugly to your head size as you wish Two snaps hold the ends firm after being adjusted. The shallow crown effect gives the high brow line. This hat is pictured in a becoming beige tone

* * *

THE MODIFIED TRICORN pictured is of felt in a smart rust or copper color, its flare-back double brim framing the face in three points, center front, and low on each side. Two perky quill feathers, speckled brown and beige on white, are run through side front of brim

The few hats which the clever clothes shopper takes away to school include at least one on turban or beret lines, matching, or agreeing with a favorite coat or suit

* * *

WHATEVER OUR VIEWS on the communistic regime, we are going Russian in the matter of fashion Millinery is the latest field to come under this influence The tiara, or high draped front, is one version that speaks Russian. The Cossack turban is another bonnet that is making its appearance. The use of astrakhan on hats and coats is definitely of this trend

Daily Antique No. 191

Here is a real early American baby walker. Who ever thought that such a thing existed 200 years ago? This one is held together with wooden pegs and hand wrought nails and the rollers are all of wood. This walker is 16 inches high and 16 inches wide at the bottom. It was found in the garret of an old house built about 1700 in Kingston, Mass. A wooden button holds half of the top in place and turns so that this part can be removed and the baby put in the walker. It is a very crude piece of workmanship, but is in very good condition. It is owned by the Anchor Antique shop of Kingston, Mass.

Boston Evening American is publishing daily photographs of interesting antiques. Owners of antiques of Colonial or early American origin or of historic associations are invited to forward photographs and records for publication. If a photograph is not available, the American will send a cameraman to photograph the antique, providing the owner lives in Greater Boston. Address the Antique Editor, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston, Mass.

Congressman Frisby Offers Unique Contest to Voters

In order to get the country into the right frame of mind, and thus put an end to pessimism for all time, Congressman Frisby has applied for permission to print the above picture in the Congressional Record and drop copies from mail planes throughout the parched farm belt. "The picture," explains Frisby, "shows two innocent, but nevertheless frightened girls, a large Shetland pony, and a fearless man. The idea of the contest is to guess which of the four is Congressman Frisby. The winner will probably receive a handsome prize. The contest is open to everyone except relatives of the two young ladies, the horse or your favorite congressman."

Simon and Schuster are publishing their $1 novels in three different colors: blue to signify books more or less serious; red to show those of a lighter nature, and green for detective and mystery stories.

Which will make things a lot simpler for customers who are unable to read.

* * *

The plan was doubtless hatched for the convenience of book reviewers.

* * *

With unemployment what it is already, the conclusion is that this publishing firm is definitely pro-Democratic.

* * *

(Lamar, Mo., Democrat.)

"Is it right for the town people to park their cars up town on Saturday afternoon, then walk home for supper, and walk back so they have a place to park?

"What about the farmer?

Women Who Play With Eggs Can Make Some Pin Money

Cut Corners With These New Tricks

WITH EGG PRICES on the up-and-up again, the careful housewife hunts through her files for recipes that bear lightly on the number of eggs required. The United States Thrift Leaflet No. 15 tells us that eggs may be considered a medium-priced food, as long as they do not exceed 50c a dozen. But at higher prices they should be considered in the luxury class except for children and people who especially need them.

Martha Lee

If you use storage eggs for cooking—and it's a practical economy—remember that any food product taken out of cold storage spoils fairly rapidly, but if storage eggs of good quality are kept in the refrigerator until used, you will find them in good condition and they will help you economize in your baking.

Up 50 cents a dozen, as we have said, eggs make a practical meat substitute, but at over this price the woman who must count her pennies does not serve eggs just as eggs, but combines their use in cooking, except in the case of children and invalids, and perhaps pernicikity menfolk (which, as usual, merely eliminates the mother herself from the luxury list).

If you have an egg white or egg yolks left over, save it by adding ¼ tsp. water to it and place it in a small cup. Cover with water or milk and keep cold. Cared for in this way, the opened egg will keep well for several days. When ready to use pour off the liquid.

EGGLESS SPICE COOKIES

¼ cup butter or substitute
(add ¾ tsp. salt to flour if unsalted fat is used).
1 cup brown sugar
¼ cup milk
2 tsps. baking powder
1 tsp cinnamon
¾ tsp. cloves
¼ tsp. nutmeg
1 cup raisins
1 cup walnuts
1¼ cups flour.

Cream the fat well, gradually working in the sugar. Mix the creamed mass until thoroughly blended. Sprinkle a little of the measured flour over the raisins and nuts. Mix and sift the dry ingredients. Add the milk and dry ingredients alternately to the creamed fat and sugar, working and beating the dough after each addition, so as to keep a smooth, uniform mixture. Cut or knead in the last of the flour. Drop by spoonfuls on a greased cookie sheet and bake in a hot oven (400 deg. F.) 18 to 25 minutes, depending on the size and thickness of the cookies.

SOFT CUSTARD

2 Cups heated milk.
¼ Cup sugar
2 Tbsps flour or 1½ tbsp. cornstarch.
1-16 Tsp. nutmeg.
½ Tsp. salt.
1 Egg
½ Tsp. vanilla.

Heat the milk. Mix the dry ingredients until thoroughly blended. Slowly stir in the hot milk. Cook over water until thickened, stirring all the while to prevent lumping. Continue to cook for 15 minutes in order that all of the raw flour or cornstarch flavor may be lost. Beat the egg slightly and gradually stir into the thickened milk mixture. Cook one minute over hot water, stirring. Add the vanilla and set aside to cool.

Watch this column tomorrow and listen to my broadcast at 11 a. m. over Station WHDH, for other economical egg recipes, including an economical Boiled Salad, Eggless Apple Sauce Cake, and Eggless White Cake.

Faithfully yours,
MARTHA LEE.

Baby Bunting

"When may a child be taught to feed himself?" writes Mrs. E. B. of Newton.

Usually at about two years of age. You may begin with cereal or potato. You will find that by three years your child can be taught to feed himself almost entirely. To feed the child after four years is a great mistake. Most children take pride in being able to wield their own little spoons, forks and knives, and a few misguided pokes in the cheek or eye does no real harm. A large bib with pockets will protect the clothes.

What's in Fashion?

Smarter Topcoats

Directed by AMOS PARRISH

WHAT ARE MOST MEN going to look like this fall? Good, of course. Better dressed than ever.

But something else. They're going to look one of two ways. Informal, in a sort of swagger way. Or very formal, with a crisp and business-like air.

And it's their topcoats that are going to help make them look like this.

Most men—in our opinion—are going to choose the first—the informal swagger look. And they'll get it from the so-called "British" swagger topcoats.

They're going to choose them first because they're masculine looking. They give a man a careless, rugged, well-dressed—but not finicky—look.

They're going to choose them because they're comfortable. They hang rather loosely from the shoulders and drape easily over the body. The sleeves and pockets are roomy.

Sturdy Materials

They're going to choose them because they wear well. These strong Scotch or Irish tweeds, cheviots, homespuns and Bannockburns are made to wear long, resist rain and keep their shape.

For all these reasons you're going to see more and more of these British swagger topcoats on the backs of well-dressed men this fall. Just like the one sketched at the right.

Lots of men are going to choose to look formal. And they'll wear the so-called "town" coat—a coat of smoother, harder cloth, that fits the body with carefully tailored lines. It's sketched at the left.

Broader Shoulders

The town coats are cut moderate at the shoulders, fuller at the chest, snugger at the waist. They're either double or single-breasted.

The single-breasted ones usually have peaked lapels. The single, either peaked or notch lapels.

There'll be other coats this fall, of course. But these two will be seen most about town.

Camels hair will be back on the football field and in the roadsters. Young men and older like them for their artlessness, warmth, light weight and sporty air.

Grays are as strongly intrenched as ever this fall. But browns and tans are still contending strongly for first place.

The Town Coat Swagger Type

Men wear what hats they please with these coats. But most prefer the snap brim hat with the swagger topcoat and the camels' hair coat.

Boys Should Let Girls Decide

For the Discreet Debutant
By MRS. C. BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. Should a boy definitely ask a girl whether he may write to her, or is it just the same if he says that he will write and the girl may answer if she feels inclined?

2. How long after receiving a letter from a boy should one wait before answering?

3. What should one say in closing the above letter. It is merely to a good friend.

4. The first time a boy spends an evening at a girl's home, should he have asked if he might come, or should he have been invited?

5. In a case where a girl has rather a special invitation for a boy, isn't it rather foolish to write a note? I think it is more friendly to telephone, don't you? But then comes the question, is it correct for a girl to telephone a boy?

R. C. M.

Dear R. C. M.: 1. It is more gallant of him, and more gracious and polite, to ask the girl if he may have the privilege of writing to her.

2. This is just as her little heart dictates. In this world of telegraphing and telephoning an answer written soon naturally delights the writer of the first letter.

3. "Very sincerely yours" is a good complimentary close for the first letter—a closing in good taste and criticism-proof.

"Cordially yours" is correct also.

4. Either makes his visit correct. It is always correct, of course, for the gallant gentleman to ask for the lady's permission to come to see her. And it is correct, too, for her to invite him to come to see her—just in the same natural way in which she would extend an invitation to a girl friend to share the hospitality of her home.

This invitation could not be any self-conscious news about extending of this invitation—it is for such sharing of hospitality with our friends that we have our homes.

5. In the cases where there is the slightest doubt about this, the girl should write a note of invitation. This is always correct, always easy and graceful for both and the same cannot always be said for the invitation extended by the telephone. Generally speaking, a girl is wise, very wise, not to telephone invitations.

"Puppy Love" Likely to Cool in Eight Years

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

BEATRICE FAIRFAX will discuss a problem of heart and home at 6:15 p. m., over station WLEX.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am 18 years of age and I am deeply in love with a girl one year younger than I am. We are both in the last year of high school and have been going together about a year.

Beatrice Fairfax

As time has gone on our friends have always told us that a love affair at this age could never amount to anything. At times I find my girl telling me that "Absence makes the heart grow fonder." Do you think she is getting sick of me?

Also, what would the probable outcome be of a marriage or love affair that started in this manner and lasted about eight years, this being the number of years before I get through school and college?

PUZZLED.

Dear Puzzled—I'm not a seeress or a prophetess, so I can't possibly tell you more than you can what's going to happen eight years from now. Not knowing either of you it would be hard for me to say how true you could be to each other. The old romantic idea that one can love once and only once is rather exploded, I believe, and is now in favor only in poetry and drama, and not always even then.

Giving the law of averages full play, I should say the chances were rather against either of you still being in love with each other, eight years from now. Long engagements are bad anyway, because you either get so used to each other that you lose interest or necessary to start marriage off on the right foot is gone, or else one or the other gets tired of waiting and finds another sweetheart.

The trouble with marriage before you get through school, or even anything so modern as companionate marriage, is that children are likely to follow and a young man working to make the most out of school should not be burdened with a family.

In absolute cold bloodedness, I really think you ought to be free to continue your studies without the responsibility of a family engagement. School affairs are always interfering with an appointment with your girl, and after a while the whole thing will begin to be irksome.

Why not leave it at friendship and palship and both of you retain the right to have all the friends you want? If your love is the real thing, you will find yourselves unconsciously sticking together without any formal engagement to hold you.

You'll Be Glad to See Him Again

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a girl of 19 and in love with a fellow 28. I have known him for four years. He has been away for two years, but we have been writing to each other. He is coming home in three months and wants to know if I will keep company with him. I would also like to know if he is too old for me. Thank you.

BABE.

Dear Babe—What you do will depend on how much you like this boy. I don't think he's too old for you, and if you like him well enough to keep up a two-years correspondence there can be no objection about accepting invitations from him. You don't have to marry him just because you are old friends, you know.

You Ought to Know Your Kisses

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a girl of 17 and in love with a boy of 18. I have been going with him for the past seven or eight months. He is a steady worker and does not go with other girls. When I first started to go with him he kissed me a great deal and would never let me go.

Of course I loved him so much that when he kissed me I never resisted. If it had been someone else they would have gotten a slap.

Lately when I go out walking with him we sit on a bench and talk about different things. He kisses me about once or twice.

Please, Miss Fairfax, don't think I'm in love with his kisses, because I'm not, but what I want to know is if he thinks more of me now than he did when I first went with him or if he is losing interest in me. In fact, I'm pleased that he doesn't kiss me as much as he used to because it is awkward.

DOUBTFUL.

Dear Doubtful—Power kisses doesn't mean a growing lack of interest. In the early stages of a love affair kisses seem the only satisfactory way of expressing feeling. Later, when you begin to find each other's minds, and have something to talk about, the thrill of the kiss is less important.

If you find your sweetheart's kisses so unpleasant, "sickening," in a way, I question whether you really love him. A kiss is a very intimate thing and should be a mutual pleasure. It is the most natural thing in the world, although kissing is all too often used in a moment's fun. Don't get the two mixed in your mind.

Toning a Child's Nerves

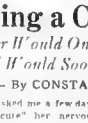
If Mother Would Only Keep Cool Her Little Girl Would Soon Be in Good Form

By CONSTANCE CAMERON

A MOTHER asked me a few days ago how to "cure" her nervous child. I replied: "First, cure yourself." She doesn't like me so well now.

But I meant it in all sincerity. It has been my observation that where you find a nervous child you will invariably find a nervous mother.

The average conscientious mothers are sometimes fussy over their own good and the good of the child. They worry over the amount and intake of food and sleep and rest and so get the food down. They do this as the so called "nervous nose" in the face of the child—and a child is human. If "nervousness" is going to help him in the spotlight, keep him as the chief topic of conversation, he will play it up for all he is worth. He will find individual tricks with which we call attention to ourselves and this is one of the most over-worked ones I know of.



Constance Cameron

What most children need more than anything else is a sense of harmony and quiet in the home, a sense of security. The need opportunities to play and find their own projects without interruption, without nagging about "messing up" the house, without constantly being brushed. A play place of their very own will solve this difficulty as a rule.

Children are, in a sense, extremely psychic. You will find that on a day when you are irritable, impatient, when you drop things, when life seems about three leaps ahead of you, that will be the day when Sonny will "blow up, too.

Purposeless precipitate activity is most communicable, even to the adults about you. Therefore, it behooves the mother of the so-called "nervous" child to take stock of herself, to see if her sense of values is straight, if too much importance hasn't been placed on unimportant things.

Another cause of "nervousness" in children often lies with the parent who does all the children thinking for him. This parent helps to permit the child to lead a life of artificiality, helping to push him into a small adult with adult concerns, or trying to too rudely force the childish attitude.

A child doesn't have to become a "toddler" before he can show signs of nervousness. You can teach it to him in his cradle if you are not extremely careful.

Cure yourself. When you are serene and calm you will find that your child will take things calmly, too.

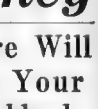
Nature Will Stop Your Nosebleed

By R. S. COPELAND, M. D.

WHAT A NUMBER of things there are to worry about!

As let a bit of worrying is done over nosebleed.



Dr. Copeland.

One of the most common of childhood's ailments is bleeding from the nose. Usually it is not at all serious. Nosebleed is almost always founded on some local disturbance, easily ascertained and corrected.

It is always well to see a doctor if nosebleed occurs often, or if the bleeding is long continued. A very great loss of blood is not good for anyone. But sometimes Nature takes this way of getting rid of too much blood in one place, a congested area somewhere in the body.

In our northern climate, especially on the Atlantic sea coast, and inland on the Great Lakes, where there is much moisture in the atmosphere, catarrh is one of the most common ailments. One who has repeated colds and catarrh is very apt to have nosebleed from broken tissues in the nose. There is a chronic inflammation of the tissues. Scabs or crusts are formed in the nose and when removed bleeding is sure to be produced.

In some acute fevers, nosebleed is a symptom. Measles, influenza, pneumonia, diphtheria, whooping cough, scarlet fever, and especially typhoid fever, are such diseases. Condition where the quality of the blood is reduced, as in anemia, may be accompanied by the nosebleed.

Of course, if you have a blow on the nose or some other injury there you would expect to have bleeding after it. But don't worry, nature has provided a clotting of the blood to stop the flow of blood. The ordinary handkerchief pressure will usually stop the nosebleed.

There are several simple remedies that can be used in case of nosebleed. Cold applications on the back of the neck or over the nose are recommended. Sometimes putting the feet in hot water will draw the circulation from the head and thus assist in controlling the bleeding. Pinching the nose between thumb and finger will make pressure sufficient often to control the hemorrhage.

Another good thing to use is tannic acid dissolved in water. This can be applied on cotton. Clear the nose by blowing out the blood clots and then push into the nasal passage a cotton tampon saturated with the fluid. You may use peroxide of hydrogen or adrenalin chloride in the same manner. The latter is a solution which has marked astringency.

The sight of blood is apt to frighten people. We are taught that the blood is the very life of the body and, of course, it is. But fear is foolish, for it sets the heart to beating strongly, and this, in turn, increases the bleeding. Say soothing things to the patient, calm his fears.

If everything is not all right in a short time call a doctor or take the patient to the nearest clinic.

ANSWERS

D. M. H. Q—How can I reduce weight?

A—Eat very sparingly of starches, sugars and fats. Get regular systematic exercise. A gradual reduction in the amount of food consumed, with the regular exercise, will work wonders in most cases.

Mrs. A. M. W. Q—What do you use to clean the crown top nail?

2—Yes

E. A. K. Q—Would gas in the system cause me to feel short of breath?

A—Could gas cause a feeling of a lump on the left side just below the heart? It is not there all the time.

A—Yes

2—Yes

L. C. Q—What do you advise for blackheads and pimples?

A.—Correct your diet, by cutting down on the sugar and starchy foods. Eat simple food. For further particulars send self-addressed stamped envelope and repeat your question.

D. P. Q—Is vaseline harmful to the eyes or eyelashes?

A—No.

O. E. W. Q—What should a woman, aged 29, 5 feet 3 inches tall, weigh?

DOUBLING FOR LOVE -:- By Winifred Van Duzer

Judy Would Rather Die Than Face a Terror; So She Decides to Slip Out Window

CHAPTER 41.

A WOMAN came in and closed the door.

A large woman, not tall, but broad, with sleeves rolled up, powerful arms and ragged gray hair stringing down her wide, homely face. A woman with black, not unkindly eyes and a moustache.

She nodded at Judy, sitting white and rigid with her hands gripping the edge of the cot, and plodded across the room while the floor shook beneath her tread. She yanked the shade from its fastenings. Twilight now—and the Mohawk would call tonight. It must be after eight. The woman motioned Judy to stand. "You spik French, Ma'm'zelle?"

"No. What—what do you want with me? You—don't you know there'll be trouble? My friends—" Her lips trembled so she could not go on.

The woman laughed and shrugged. "But no—that trouble—no, Ma'm'zelle, I will now, if you have plis, to make you search. If you will have so kind."

"How—dare you! I'll not have you touch me! I'll—I'll—you keep your hands off!"

It seemed to amuse the woman, who laughed till her broad hips shook. "I sink you now will have so kind plis?"

Hunting for What?

In the end Judy had to pause for breath. She sensed the futility of struggle. These people thought she had something they wanted. Well, then, let the woman search. They would let her go then. They wouldn't trouble her any more, ever again. They would let her go before the Mohawk sailed, so she could go back home and stay there always and always.

"Listen. Is this all you want?" she asked. "to look through my clothes?"

"But what else, Ma'm'zelle?"

"You'll let me go then? Oh, you'll have to do this—let me get back in time"——

She took the fast shrug for assent. But she would not have the woman touch her." She removed her garments one by one, and the big hands went over everything patiently, minutely. What in the world did she expect to find, shaking out ruffles, running her fingers along seams?

When it grew too dark to see the woman lighted the gas jet and held thin silken stockings to the glare as if she expected to discover something concealed between the threads. She went through the handbag and all gave it back intact.

"Well, I hope you're satisfied! I hope you'll keep your word now and let me go."

The woman lumbered away, smiling and nodding politely. "Plis, you have wait the so little minute, Ma'm'zelle. One minute—two minute—if you have so kind."

Once again the key turned, the bolt was drawn.

Despair closed in. It drop like a pin point a long way off, drew nearer slowly, surely, growing as it was larger until it filled the room. Every ghastly crime Judy had encountered in news column or story came up to stalk before her eyes. She saw the woman's cheerfulness as sinister, her indifference to the threat of trouble as significant.

Of course they meant never to leave this place. They meant to kill her—hide their crime this way. That spidery sailor—what would a life more or less be to him?

She turned the gas jet so it was a mere blue bead clinging to the brass tube and crept to the window. The man had left the shade up and Judy pushed the sash open softly. She was climbing out to the stone sill when memory clicked again.

A movie. A girl locked in a high room. Locked away from a lover by hard-hearted parents. How silly! But the girl made a rope of bed sheets. * * *

The woman lumbered away, smiling and nodding politely. "Plis, you have wait the so little minute, Ma'm'zelle. One minute—two minute—if you have so kind."

Once again the key turned, the bolt was drawn.

Despair closed in. It drop like a pin point a long way off, drew nearer slowly, surely, growing as it was larger until it filled the room. Every ghastly crime Judy had encountered in news column or story came up to stalk before her eyes. She saw the woman's cheerfulness as sinister, her indifference to the threat of trouble as significant.

Of course they meant never to leave this place. They meant to kill her—hide their crime this way. That spidery sailor—what would a life more or less be to him?

Out of her panic a purpose took form. One thing for her to do. They'd never put their hands on her—not while she was alive.

She turned the gas jet so it was a mere blue bead clinging to the brass tube and crept to the window. The man had left the shade up and Judy pushed the sash open softly. She was climbing out to the stone sill when memory clicked again.

A movie. A girl locked in a high room. Locked away from a lover by hard-hearted parents. How silly! But the girl made a rope of bed sheets. * * *

The Escape

The strips were ready now and lay a long, long, snaky coiled beneath the window. Judy was living one end to the cot when the door opened. Let them come!

She gave up all attempt at silence, dashing back to the window, throwing the line over the sill. Oh, it was tangled—it was in a million snarles . . .

She worked furiously, tugging, jerking. And the door was open now. It opened only a little again at first, and a black eye peered through the crack.

"You can't get in!" Judy shouted. The door broke into reckless and went charging away down the stairs. It meant the watchman had been called off—there was to be no gal for. And now the tangles were straightened out.

Judy stood on the stone sill when they came back. The woman still approached and the little Frenchman chattered, pounding at the door.

Supposing they cut the line? Supposing they pulled her back? She could let go. Open her hands. She always could let go. She would her wrists in it, step on, on above the other; held her breath.

She dreaded the instant when her body would slip from the sill, swing into space. Years of athletic work had hardened her muscles and she could swim and dive better than any boy she knew. But it looked a long way to the bottom of the white line. A very long way indeed.

It seemed she had gone an endless distance when something gave way.

BUSINESS INDUSTRY

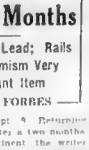
Notable Gains in Stocks in Last 2 Months

Industrials Lead; Rails Lag; Optimism Very Important Item

By B. C. FORBES

New York, Sept. 9 Returning to Wall Street after a two months' tour of the continent the writer has been interested in comparing stock quotations then and now.

During the early part of July the average of 50 representative stocks was as low as [illegible]. These same stocks closed on Saturday at 204. The rapid ascents and declines every few days during twenty points in high-grade stocks.



B. C. Forbes

Industrial issues have done best. Since the last week in June they have advanced from a low of 253 to better than 293, a gain of fully forty points.

Representative railroad stocks are a shade lower now than they were in the first week of July.

More utilities have advanced moderately. A few have bounded up quite sharply, but several are lower than they were two months ago.

* * *

Having voiced the opinion before leaving that the stock market was likely to do better later in the year, the market's recent strength naturally is gratifying to the writer. Much more important, the improvement is an extremely good thing for the country.

Deflation has gone too far. Pessimism has gone much too far. A change in sentiment would do more than almost anything else to encourage a change in conditions. Gloom incites contraction, retrenchment, unemployment. Optimism stimulates enterprise, expansion, employment.

* * *

The writer has felt all along that the stock market would turn earlier than industry and general business. Lately the market has had every earmark of being oversold. Bear attacks no longer produce effective liquidation. It is not covering immediately causes a recovery.

Of course, the market's action will be governed later on by the trend of business. July and August were poor months. More recently there have been a few encouraging symptoms. But the writer would prefer to familiarize himself more thoroughly with what's what before venturing an opinion as to the longer outlook.

Office Equipment Profits Fall Off

New York, Sept. 9.—Earnings of leading office equipment companies for the first-half year reflect the general business depression. Aggregate net income of $14,747,925 for six prominent companies decreased 25.8 per cent from the $19,923,087 in 1929. Although business machines support trend is gradually lower industrial operating expenses, they cannot be classed among depression-proof products. Large scale buying of such equipment awaits generally signs of a definite business upturn.

NEW ACTIVITY FORECAST FOR MARKET

By FRANK H. MELOON

A leading Boston investment banker, who has just returned from New York and other financial centers, finds the consensus of opinion is that the market will see a considerable pickup in activity before long. He states:

"Five or six weeks from now there will be a different story. The current dullness cannot last. There are plenty of 'bears,' but there are also a lot of prominent leaders on the constructive side. The stock market in recent weeks has repeatedly demonstrated the ease with which a portion of the existing short interest can be driven to cover at advancing prices."

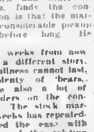
A Washington advisory service tells me the outstanding event of the months to the appointment of Eugene Meyer, Jr., to head the Federal Reserve Board succeeding Roy A. Young, who comes to lead the Boston Reserve Bank with a larger salary. It also says the appointment of the change was made premature to relieve them responsibility for the task information has not been fixed.



Roy A. Young

It is declared by the same service that Mr Meyer will "key" with Secretary Mellon and in turn "key" with President Hoover. It agrees with our financial authority W. Cousins in expressing belief that very important changes are to be made in Reserve Board policies.

Announcement that the Canadian tobacco crop has suffered crop damage which will reduce it about 25 per cent, will surprise many unaware that Sir Walter Raleigh's valuable "weed" grows north of the frontier. American tourists through the land of the staple last June, however, know tobacco gardens are a familiar sight there On the highways to Quebec one passes hundreds of little farms whereon the owners raise a patch of tobacco for their own consumption, just as many New Englanders raise potatoes, peas or beans.

* * *

Tobacco is by no means peculiar to the South We have been told that the Ashuelot Valley in south western New Hampshire has in several years produced a wrapping tobacco which brought the highest price a pound of any raised in this country. A tobacco patch was long a familiar sight at Forest Hills, where it was raised by a Harvard professor.

Evidence and testimony of witnesses for the government and Standard Oil Co. of New York and Vacuum Oil Co at hearings on government suit to prevent proposed merger has been summarized by Special Master Williams and presented to U. S. Court of Eastern District of Missouri and argument has been set for October 6 and 7. It is not considered likely that a decree will be reached before end of this year.

Announcement will be made within the next few days of an expansion program by Columbia Gas & Electric involving an arrangement with the Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line Co for the purchase of natural gas from the latter company. Full details have not as yet been worked out but it is understood that Columbia Gas will purchase the natural gas for cash and that no exchange of stock will take place.

Missouri, Kansas Pipe Line recently built several large pipelines some of which extend close to the Columbia Gas & Electric properties. Physical details of the plan consequently may easily be worked out. Columbia Gas also has several other expansion plans in prospect, but these have not as yet progressed to the point where early announcement may be looked for.

Starrett Earnings Are Well Kept Up

New York, Sept. 9.—Earnings well kept up are reported by Starrett Corporation for quarter ended July. It reports that consolidated earnings after all charges for eight months ending August 31 were at the yearly rate of $3.07 per share on the 1,000,000 shares outstanding common stock, against $3.50 the previous fiscal year.

"Mokan" Serving Gas to 27 Cities

Chicago, Sept 9 Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line Co is now distributing natural gas in Tell City, Ind., Bowling Green and Whitesville, Ky., making 27 cities it served from its own lines.

Whiteley Payment at 10 P. C. Rate

Today's News of Live Stocks in Wall Street

Many stocks today are in earnings sufficient to justify present prices or higher. This is true notwithstanding some whose earnings have increased in 1930, but also of some whose earnings have decreased. The brokers agree that many issues are positively cheap but bemoan lack of public participation.

October Peak Month For National Biscuit

Although sales of National Biscuit in July were the highest on record, interests in the company are looking for improvement this month because normally the best period of the year is just ahead. October sales have been the peak month in each of the last seven years, as indicated in the stock in recent sessions whenever moderate recessions occurred. This buying has been credited to important interests.

Bangor & Aroostook A Rail Exception

Bangor & Aroostook is one of the exceptions in the railroad group which has to report better earnings in seven months of this year than corresponding period of 1929. While the property generally has been viewed as dependent to a large extent on the potato crop, Aroostook County, the record of earnings in the past has been attractive.

Freeport Texas In Better Favor

Freeport Texas has been in better favor recently. It has been under aggressive sponsorship as to buying based on statements that operations are being conducted for obtaining new sulphur properties. Late last week vague rumors were heard of some important developments within the company. They lacked detail, and nothing official was announced. Nevertheless, the rumors were reported throughout the financial district and were credited with bringing buying into the stock.

Philadelphia & Reading Coal Bond Conversion

A new group is said to have become interested in the market for Philadelphia & Reading Coal recently. Its activity has attracted outside buying because of the low price of the issue. While improvement in the company's bituminous coal properties has been responsible for the upturn, the conservative view in the financial district is that efforts to bring about bond conversion are also a factor.

R. K. O. Active On Deal With Shubert

Wilmington Active In Du Pont

Consistent improvement shown in DuPont marketwise is attributed to steady accumulation by Wilmington interests. Brokers usually active for the DuPonts there have been persistent buyers of the stock for several weeks with the result that the floating supply has been materially reduced.

Current accumulation in the stock is attributed to estimates that earnings for the current year will approximate those of 1929 despite the fact that income during the first half of the year was slightly below the same period a year ago. Income from the company's holdings of General Motors stock will be the same as last year and earnings from DuPont's own operations are expected to show some improvement during the last half of 1930.

Bull Leaders Are Selected

One stock exchange firm has selected the following leaders of the next bull market: U. S. Steel, American Can, General Motors, Kennecott, American Tobacco, Allied Chemical, New York Central Stock and Oil of New Jersey, Borden, Standard Gas, Electric Bond & Share, General Electric, Radio, A. T. & T. and National Biscuit.

"There will be many others," it states, "but the 13 listed are sufficient for a start. Developments from time to time will bring forth other leaders."

Eugene Meyer, Jr. Formerly Broker

Appointment of Eugene Meyer, Jr., as governor of the Federal Reserve Board meets with the hearty approval of Wall Street. Few individuals know Wall Street and what business needs better than Eugene Meyer, Jr. He was a successful broker up to the beginning of the war. He was identified with many of the industrial corporations and enjoyed the confidence of the banking business and brokerage community. His experience since he left Wall Street will add to his value in the councils of a Federal Reserve Board governor.

Burroughs Shows Better in Half

The showing of Burroughs Adding Machine for six months this year was better than the 20-point drop from a high of 51¾ for the year has indicated. Net for the half of $1,022,000 compared with $5,225,-702 for first half of 1929, covered the common earned $2.78 a share, margin Cash and investment securities amounting to approximately $21,500,000 were but slightly less than June 30, 1929.

Electric Stocks Are Doing Well

A good investment demand for electrical power stocks has developed, evidence of which is seen in substantial gains in shareholders of record. Moderate speculative buying also has been evident. Brokers agree that improved business later will result in new high records in earnings, due to growing uses of electricity. Many new lines of electric consumption have developed that equal if not surpass those upon which power and electric companies formerly depended largely.

Earnings Reports Are Given Study

	Since Additions	July 1 yesterday
Increased earnings	101	7
Decreased earnings	455	7
Unchanged dividends	938	9
Increased dividends	43	3
Decreased dividends	73	..

Shareholder List Gains Are Large

Gains of 25 per cent. to 50 per cent. or more in shareholders' lists of big corporations mean that stocks are in strong hands.

Long-Pull For Shattuck Buying

Great Western Pfd. Prospects

Any cheering news regarding railroad conditions in its territory is likely to result in immediate response in Chicago Great Western preferred.

United Corp. Financing

TRADING DULL, PRICES MIXED IN BOSTON

Prices were mixed in dull trading on the Boston Stock Exchange today. Changes for the most part were fractional, with leading issues showing gains or losses of from 1 to 2 points. Edison Electric dropped a point.

Gillette was a feature of local trading dropping over a point in the forenoon part of the session but rallying later in the day to show a gain of 2 points.

Boston Elevated gained 1½ and U. S. & Overseas a fraction. Small gains were recorded by New England Telephone, American Telephone and Stone & Webster.

Fractional declines were shown by New Haven United Founders, United Shoe, Pacific Mills, Western Steamship and Eastern Gas & Fuel preferred. Atchison dropped 1¼ and Allen & Fisher was a point lower.

Prior to the intermission caused by a cotton crop report making for lower staple prices, the cotton goods business was expanding sharply. One of the largest commission houses states that sales two weeks ago were the largest since the middle of March, and that last week showed still further improvement of 20 per cent. Some mills are known to have placed large orders—much greater than in months.

Unfortunately prices are wretched, and orders now being booked will show the great majority of mills no profit. Goods are being priced on a basis of 9 to 9¾ cent cotton rather than the 11 to 11¼ cent level prevailing.

New Bedford awarded to National Rockland Bank of Boston at 2.38 per cent $400,000 loan dated September 9 and payable February 9.

Other bidders were First National Company of New Bedford 2.53 per cent; Solomon Bros. & Hutzler, 2.55 per cent, and S. N. Bond & Co., 2.74 per cent.

G. C. Murphy Co. August Sales Gain

G. C. Murphy Co. reports that sales for the month of August amounted to $1,362,309, which represents an increase of 7 per cent over the $1,273,230 reported in the same month of last year.

For the first eight months of current year, sales of the company amounted to $9,782,771, which represents an increase of 10.1 per cent over the $8,877,907 reported for the corresponding period of 1929.

Ludlum Steel's Dividend Is Off

Watervliet, N. Y., Sept. 9.—Ludlum Steel Co. omitted the quarterly dividend of 50 cents on the common due at this time. It declared the regular quarterly dividend of 62½ on the preferred, payable Oct. 1 to stock of record Sept. 19.

Pres. Corning stated: "It was decided to omit the dividend on the common stock in order to conserve resources and to maintain the present cash position, which on Aug. 31 showed a ratio of current assets to current liabilities of approximately 10 to 1."

Morrow Interests Are Seeking Ward

New York, Sept. 9—Plans are under consideration looking toward acquisition of control of the Ward Baking Corp. by new interests headed by George K. Morrow.

If the plan is consummated, it will add another important company to the Morrow group. These interests at present control Child Dust Corp., United Glue Stores Co. and Morrow Paper Co., all Canadian concerns. A letter outlining the plan of the Morrow group is being prepared and may be mailed to stockholders in the near future.

Apponaug Earnings Total Is Larger

New York, Sept. 9 (AP)—The Apponaug Co. of Apponaug, R. I., for the fiscal year ended June 30 today reported earnings equal to $8.86 a common share, compared with $7.02 a share in the previous fiscal year.

Oppenheim, Collins & Co. today reported for the fiscal year ended July 31 net income of $952,614, equal to $4.23 a common share, compared with $1,580,590, equal to $7.09 a share, in the previous fiscal year.

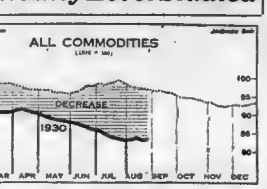
Radio-Keith Is in Improved Earnings

Net profits of Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corp. for the quarter ending September 30 are expected to show substantial improvement over the three months ended June 30, when net after charges and federal taxes was $350,231. It is also anticipated that the last quarter will be the best of the year.

Southern Steel Orders Improve

Birmingham, Ala., Sept. 9—Steel orders in local territory are slightly better, and increased production is expected this month. Steel operations in southern territory are estimated between 55 per cent and 60 per cent.

Commodity Level Studied



Wholesale Commodity Price Level (Fisher Index; 1926-100)

By HARLOW PETERS
(Irving Fisher Service)

An editorial page cartoon the other day pictured Uncle Sam before a large turkey labeled "Prosperity." Uncle had not yet partaken of this delicious meat—he was sharpening the carving knife. The caption underneath read: "Good carving requires a keen blade."

That the keen blade necessary for us to carve out portions of prosperity is nearly ready for practical use is borne out by the action of the wholesale commodity price level during the past month and a half.

The ideal condition to be wished in the commodity price level, in the long run, is that it move neither up nor down, thus making future commitments worth the same at the time of paying as contracting. When the level fluctuates either the buyer or seller loses in the deal, according to whether the price goes up or down.

Following the long, severe decline since January, the Irving Fisher index has lately held to a comparatively level figure, so that some measure of confidence has been restored.

Barring resumption of a continued decline, with no compensatory gains, is seems safe to say that business contracted will soon increase, even if the commodity price level does not gain back the ground it lost in the general drop of prices since 1929. It need regain only part of the loss to give zest to reviving business.

Pan-American Gain Due to Refinery

New York, Sept. 9—Earnings of Pan-American Petroleum & Transport Co. of $7,988,361 before federal taxes for six months were more than double the $3,983,719 in first half of 1929 and compared with $9,-052,992 for all of 1929. This large gain was due principally to operation of its $15,000,000 refinery at Aruba, Dutch West Indies. Contributing factors were the extension of marketing facilities in the United States and in Argentina, Uruguay, Paraguay and Brazil, operation of its asphalt plant at Savannah, and distribution of its products throughout Great Britain and Irish Free State by its subsidiary, Eibano Oil Co., Ltd., incorporated for that purpose in 1929.

Kelly-Springfield Is Reported Sound

New York, Sept. 9—President Woolner of Kelly Springfield Tire Co. says the company is in excellent financial condition with current assets July 31, 1930, of about $13,000,000 and current liabilities of $3,000,000. He says the company has no bonds, debentures or long-term notes outstanding and business for July and August has shown satisfactory profit.

Statement was issued following the filing of the suit asking appointment of a receiver for company, which Mr. Woolner says is unjustified.

Better Earnings for Rail Are Seen

New York, Sept. 9.—President Sargent of the Chicago & Northwestern declared:

"I think that the bottom has been touched and that we will have a gradual pick-up in general business from now on. We are experiencing a seasonal gain in business at present. September carloadings started off well.

"We expect that September gross will be slightly better than August and that net operating income for the month will be between $500,000 and $600,000 below last year."

August Trading in Actives Dull

Argentines Rise in Bond Market

New York, Sept. 9—Recoveries in Argentine issues and increased activity in several sections of the domestic list featured the bond market today. Argentine 6s of 1958, Series "B," advanced more than a point when most of the other members of the extensive group firmed. Buenos Aires city and province bonds moved up one to two points.

CURB MARKET MOVEMENTS HESITANT

New York, Sept. 9—The curb market was in a hesitant mood today. Opening irregularly lower, prices recovered as efforts were made to swing the list back into the Monday advance that had been checked by profit-taking, but the gains were small and traders seemed disposed to realize quickly. There was also a renewal of short selling.

United Gas was active and buoyant, leading the utilities with a rise of about a point. Changes in the other power, light and natural gas shares varied fractionally on both sides of the Monday close. Duke Power broke several points in the early trading, only to regain most of the loss. American Superpower, Bond & Share, United Light "A" and other prominent stocks held steady.

Oils maintained their activity, but failed to develop much of a trend. Cosden was under pressure, making another new low. Texon was supported for a point gain.

Industrial leaders were dull and the more volatile specialties displayed little or no animation. Ford Motor of Canada, American Cynamid, Niles Bement Pond and Mead Johnson turned in gains in small blocks. The new Diamond Match shares, both common and preferred, which are being traded on a when issued basis, remained around yesterday's levels.

United States & Overseas met a little profit-taking. Other investment trusts eased slightly, apparently reflecting disappointment over the general market's failure to show much strength.

Money was firm and call loans again renewed at 8 per cent on this market.

Rubber is Steady

NEW YORK STOCKS

Today's Complete Prices and Dividends

FRESH ADVANCES MADE IN WALL STREET TRADING

New York, Sept. 9—Bulls gained a new leverage and continued the laborious elevation of stock prices, unaided by public buying, in most of today's market.

The wave of profit taking late yesterday appeared to have encouraged further short selling, thus improving the market's technical position and giving speculators for the rise a fresh advantage.

FROM GROUP TO GROUP

Trading was less active than that of the previous session, however, and bulls were forced to shift their activity from group to group to keep the list pointed upward.

Prices tapered off somewhat in the late trading when selling appeared in the Standard Oil and independent steel shares. Bethlehem, Vanadium and Republic Steel, with Standard of New Jersey, inclined between one and two points.

However, the list again hardened on renewed accumulation of the utilities and foods, which had been among the stronger groups in the earlier hours. The close was steady. Sales approximated 1,850,000 shares.

The operations of bullish interests were most effective in tobacco, utility and natural gas, merchandising and food shares.

Rails and several of the important industrials made little progress. Oils were inclined to sag.

The American Tobacco shares were strong spots, the old B issue gaining more than 5 points. Case and Duplan Silk sold up about 4, and shares advancing 3 to 3 included DuPont, Macy, Woolworth, Congress Cigar, Liggett & Myers B, Air Reduction and Best & Co.

Such issues as National Biscuit, Loose Wiles, Columbian Carbon, Houston Oil, American Can, Westinghouse Electric, Public Service of N. J., American Water Works, National Power & Light and Stone & Webster sold up moderately. Kreuger & Toll was active and firm.

WHITNEY GIVES VIEW

Business reports still failed to show any emphatic change, although further progress in turn for the better were indicated. The bull campaign has been hampered by the very limited extent of business upturn thus far. Since the market crash of a year ago, there has been considerable perplexity in the minds of speculators as to whether the stock market forecasts, or merely reflects, business recovery; whether it stimulates business, or merely responds to business.

Richard S. Whitney, president of the exchange, in an address today, did not encourage the theory that the market forecasts business recovery, saying:

"Before security prices rise, there must be confidence that business has turned the corner."

(The speed with which the market will respond to business improvement, he added later, will depend upon the rapidity with which accurate business statistics are made available to the public.

MISTAKE IS EASY

The belief that business actually has turned the corner appears to be gaining headway in important banking and industrial circles, but it is pointed out that it would be easy at this time to mistake a temporary seasonal upturn for a definite change of trend.

In any case, the American Iron and Steel Institute's estimate of total steel production for August showed a gain over the previous month for the first time since February.

Electrical World reported that telegraphic inquiry of public utility heads throughout the country resulted in almost unanimous opinion that the business trend had definitely turned upward.

On the other hand, unfavorable dividend actions and earnings statements are expected to affect confidence, although bulls point out that these represent water and inventories and are not indicative of the future.

The weekly condition statement of reporting Federal Reserve member banks showed a gain of $30,000,000 in "other" loans, perhaps indicative of more money withdrawn from industry while loans against securities gained only $6,000,000.

Americans Needed in Soviet Russia

New York, Sept. 9—Ralph Budd, president of Great Northern Railroad, says development of a modern railway transportation system in Russia along the lines of United States and Canadian railroads will result in call for American and Canadian engineers, operators, equipment and supplies.

Automatic Voting Machines Ordered

Jamestown, N. Y., Sept. 9—Vice-President Russell Griffin of the Automatic Voting Machine Corporation reported the receipt today of an order for 125 voting machines for Jamestown, Pennsylvania. The company will make immediate delivery.

Oil Production in U. S. Is Lowered

New York, Sept. 9—Domestic crude oil production in the United States in week ended Sept. 6 averaged 2,437,732 barrels daily, decrease of 25,440 barrels daily from the previous week, according to Oil & Gas Journal.

SPECTATOR'S FAVORITES TODAY

By SPECTATOR

It is probable if earnings in the third quarter failed to mark a return to the earning power displayed early this year, a period of marked irregularity would follow the current advance. While awaiting the returns on the bull business recovery, the stock market by its action appears to indicate higher prices.

Best-Acting Stocks

Although shaking its head and expressing skepticism over the extent to which the current phase of the advance can push, one of the commission houses, which apparently favors a sideline position for the moment, has nevertheless compiled a list of stocks which it believes offers trading opportunities on the upside for those who are bullishly inclined. This group includes Allegheny, Chesapeake & Ohio, Air Reduction, American International, American Radiator, American Smelting, Best, Brooklyn Manhattan Transit, Coca Cola, General Electric, General Foods, International Nickel, Johns Manville, Loew's, Reynolds Tobacco, Union Carbide, U. S. Steel, Westinghouse Electric and Woolworth.

Continental Can

Ranking as the second leading factor in the steadily expanding canning industry, Continental Can is expected to show to better market advantage when the broadening out of trading operations extends to the secondary issues. This stock is favorably regarded in investment circles, and despite some minor effect on earnings brought about by the drouth, quarters familiar with its operations predict that earnings at least equal to the $5.46 per share reported for 1929 will be shown. Although no interim report of earnings has been published, sales for the seven months ended July 31 were 7 per cent greater than in the like period of last year. The annual dividend of $2.50 per share affords a return in excess of 4 per cent at prevailing levels.

Expects Increase in Radio Business

Current operations of the Zenith Radio Corporation are on a profitable basis with expectations that the quarter beginning August 1 will show earnings considerably better than in the preceding three months, Hoyt Wenzell, company president, vice-president and general manager, according to a statement made recently.

Mr. Klugh further remarked in part:

"Profits in the next quarter, which includes peak months on the radio season, should be considerably larger than in the current quarter.

"Current financial positions is sound with cash of $600,000 and no bank loans."

Public Service Co. Income Increases

Gross operating revenues of the Public Service Co. of N. H. a New England Power Service Co. subsidiary, for the second quarter of 1930 were $1,338,589, compared with $1,229,504 in the second quarter of 1929. Balance available for bond interest was $668,227, compared with $588,890. Net for retirement and dividends was $434,862, compared with $388,351.

For the 12 months ended June 30, gross operating revenues were $5,616,387, compared with $4,786,636 for 12 months ended June 30, 1929. Balance available for bond interest was $2,813,121, compared with $2,383,185. Net for retirement and dividends was $1,689,614, compared with $1,653,264.

Abrasive Company Plans Expansion

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 9.—President McKnight of Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing Company said regarding completion of negotiations for purchase of Bauder Abrasive Company, Philadelphia, that an expansion program will be carried out in St. Paul. The companies manufacture sandpaper and abrasives.

Bauder Adamson Company, subsidiary of American Glue Company of Boston, was purchased by Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing for about $2,000,000, the payment to be in debenture bonds, cash and stock of the purchaser.

Kirsch Net Income Under a Year Ago

Kirsch Company reports for the year ended July 30 a net income of $236,169, after charges and Federal taxes, is equal, after allowing for dividend requirements on the $1.80 convertible preference stock, to $1.36 a share, earned on 108,090 no-par shares of common.

In the preceding year the company reported a net income of $291,312 which was equal to $2 a share on the outstanding common stock.

Laconia Payment Is $5 Per Share

Laconia Car Co. declared a third dividend in liquidation of $5 a share on the first preferred stock payable upon presentation of stock certificates. Two previous payments have been made of $10 and $15.

PORT OF BOSTON

By CARL MORRISON

Under the heading of "Westinghouse Salutes Boston," a radio program is dedicated tonight to Boston's achievements and traditions that have gained her a place among American cities.

At 10 o'clock Eastern daylight saving time, WBZ, WBZA and WJZ will carry a national hookup of the National Broadcasting Co. Millions of radio listeners will tune in on 36 stations.

"From the time when Boston clipper ships went racing around the Horn, until the present day, Boston has been one of the great ports of the world, glorying in its land-locked harbor, only six and a half miles from the open sea and 200 miles nearer Europe than any other major American port.

A 40-piece orchestra will provide music for the "changing scenes" of the story about the Hub.

TODAY'S WHO'S WHO

Today's harbor personality is Elmer Elwell, manager of Stone & Downer Co., and president of the Foreign Commerce Club.

As president, Elwell is at adopted a progressive policy of harbor boosting. Under his leadership the club has made the record of nearly doubling its membership this summer at a time when other trade associations are at a standstill.

Tonight's meeting of the club at the Hotel Manger will mark the launching of several new policies, which include enlarging the club's scope by the adoption of a new constitution and the opening of the membership rules to several new professions and businesses.

The club this summer initiated a drive to have matters at Commonwealth Pier brought to a higher point of efficiency. A campaign to have the harbor kept clear of floating rubbish which damages ships is underway. Another project of the club is the urging of repairs to all streets and bridges leading to the waterfront.

Commissioner Rourke of the city department of public works was commended by President Elwell for repairing Water st., in Charlestown, and replied that the club's letter was the first time he had been informed that anyone took an interest in keeping the waterfront streets in good condition.

COMPLETES TOUR

A group of 40 Bostonians have returned from a three-months' tour of Europe. The party was in charge of T. Frederic Carleton of Chase Associates, who arrived back in the Hub on the Britannic One of the features was a visit to Ireland during the 1000th anniversary celebration.

WAGES AND HOURS

A delegation of local longshoremen's union officials are in New York today for the opening of the annual conference on wages and hours. The party are J. F. Allen, George Brady, John O'Donnell, Fred Fitzgerald, Joseph Carney, Matthew O'Connell, John Doolin and J. F. Conley.

The conference probably will go on record as seeking an increase to one dollar an hour for day work and $1.50 for overtime, as compared to the present scale of 85 cents and $1.20. A five-day week proposal also will be discussed.

Nearly 60 delegates from the Atlantic coast are expected. Next week the position of the longshoremen, as drawn up this week, will be submitted to the transatlantic agents of the steamship companies. Considerable discussion of wages is anticipated, as the agents are reported to be seeking a heavy cut.

NEW RECORD

On a recent sailing of the Europa of the North German Lloyd Line, the freight carried was valued at $1,000,000. Rushing a fast airplane from Buffalo to New York, a new Curtis Conquerer motor with 13 cylinders was delivered to the steamship and later forwarded from Bremen to Friedrichshafen by plane—all in seven days.

BENEFIT PROGRAM

Some 800 tickets have been sold for the benefit program to be given in the Gem Theater, East Boston, Thursday night, for the widow and five children of "Nixie" Beasley, late longshoreman and boxer. A program of 20 acts and 10 bouts, featuring Jack Sharkey and others, will be given.

Butler's Record for Being Wrong on Every Real Issue Should Make His Defeat Certain

THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS, like Banquo's ghost, returns to haunt William Morgan Butler.

Mr. Butler has never been elected to the United States Senate. He was appointed to that office, not because the people of Massachusetts wanted him, but because he was an undercover political operator for the man who happened to be Governor at the time and who had the appointing power.

Mr. Butler could not and did not represent the spirit of the people.

His training had been as a lobbyist for the Arkwright Club, which would have the men, women and children slave long hours in the mills for pitiably small wages, and his associations had been with the Big Business interests that are constantly conspiring to receive favors selfishly from the government at the expense of the public.

* * *

IT WAS TO BE EXPECTED that in the short time he was allowed to serve in Washington he catered to the gang of international bankers who provide the campaign funds for the reactionary wing of the Republican party and collects its favors from that wing into which Mr. Butler so snugly fitted.

The international bankers wanted the League Court, because they wanted the blood and brawn of the young men of America pledged in order to redeem the reckless investments they had made in the tottering governments of Europe.

And Mr. Butler voted for the League Court.

He was out of step with the spirit of the people of Massachusetts; he manifested a contemptuous disregard for their patriotic desire to maintain the independence of their country, rather than to tempt it with the disasters that could come from foreign political alliances.

Mr. Butler would have them forget all this.

Yet he knows, if not he should know, that the League Court, dressed up in amendments which make it more dangerous than ever before, will come before the next United States Senate for action.

* * *

EBEN S. DRAPER KNOWS IT. He says, with a courage that Mr. Butler seems to lack, that if he is elected he will vote against it because it is contrary to the best traditions of the United States.

Mr. Butler prefers to talk about an innocuous labor amendment to the Constitution which, he does know, the United States would never adopt.

But the League Court issue is here to stay. The voters are aware of it. All Mr. Butler's ducking and dodging has had the effect of calling it to their attention and of making his attitude appear cowardly and evasive.

Mr. Butler was decisively defeated when he offered himself as a candidate to the people for the first time on his own record.

He should be defeated again because his record is unchanged, because it is unimproved, because it is now marked by paltering on the one national issue of importance which he should be discussing freely.

The artist above knows that the patriotic spirit of the people is not dead, the people themselves know it; in fact everybody seems to know it but Mr. Butler.

The Real Facts About Grabbing of N. E. Rails

Committee Fails to Get at the Truth

Mr. John F. Fitzgerald said in a recent speech that it is not the people of New England but the financial and the political leaders who are moribund and decadent.

The report on the condition of the New England railroads made by the Governors' Committee would seem to verify that serious indictment. These gentlemen have gone about their work with their eyes and their ears closed. Their report was hardly worth the expense of the stenographer who typed it for them.

They had the resources of six States and the prestige of all the Governors back of them. Yet after months of alleged study and alleged investigation they are unable to ascertain to what extent the New England railroads have fallen under the influence of alien financial control.

We will tell them. The Boston Evening American pointed out the peril to New England shippers months ago. The Pennsylvania Railroad and its subordinate holding corporation, the Pennroad, have acquired what amounts to a majority control of the New Haven and the Boston & Maine Railroad, those fine old New England institutions. These institutions were built by the brain and brawn of New England; they were milked dry by the House of Morgan. They have since been rejuvenated and are again richly attractive to any financial piracy that may be practiced upon them.

Further the Pennsylvania Railroad interests are steadily amassing a larger stock control of these New England railroads through the subtle and indirect holding corporation in violation of the spirit of the national railroad laws which presumably prevent these secret acquisitions.

These gentlemen tells us in all seriousness and with seeming gravity that they are unaware of any process by which these accumulations of control over the New England railroads can be halted. We will tell them the answer to that, also. Let them organize and send to Washington a committee of alert, upstanding New England citizens of character and courage to support Commissioner Joseph B. Eastman and the Interstate Commerce Commission in the demand now being made for legislation to regulate the holding corporations.

Unless and until these corporations and investment trusts are subjected to the same scrutiny and regulation and authority which the government can exercise over the railroads themselves they will continue to act in defiance of public sentiment.

In conclusion, the people of New England know, if the Governors' Committee does not, that the best interests of New England require that the New England railroads be operated as New England units, dedicated to the welfare of this community. We saw them wrecked once within the past twenty-five years by Wall Street and we saw the traveling public and the independent shippers suffer all the burdens and travails of disordered service.

If this committee is unawake to the dangers, the Governors should seek to find some gentlemen who do have the instinct to discharge their responsibility to New England in accord with the fine spirit of her people.

Foot Warmer Here Again

By ARTHUR BAER

THE MEDICAL congress in Canada erupts some very good advice if you can live to enjoy it.

Lord Dawson tells us never to eat when our hands and feet are cold. Thereby putting well-diggers on a diet for life.

Lord Dawson is personal physician to King George and advises folks to eat plain, simple food but doesn't tell us where to get it. If that's what the King eats we will have to cancel that dinner engagement.

We will read the whole indictment.

"If a man comes home cold and tired," says Lord Dawson, looking over the rims of his microscope, "and sits down to a hearty meal he is going to have trouble. First he should warm his hands in a basin of boiling water and then toast his feet before the fire."

Feet toasting was quite a science in the old days, when a man could get run over by a hoss and wagon and still retain his good name.

But since they have been illuminating homes with reflected lighting it is quite difficult to toast your dogs on an electric bulb that is lurking in an alcove near the ceiling.

H. G. Wells Writes

Science Could Make Methuselah Look Like a Day-Old Chick in Point of Years

IF WE CHOSE to take trouble we could doubtless keep a single flat worm going up and down the hill of life and never transgressing a certain limit of age for periods which would make Methuselah look ephemeral.

The actual experiment has not been tried on other species, but we have every reason to suppose that it would succeed with any organism which while living on itself can keep a just proportion between its various tissues. Such ought to be the case with sea-anemones up to the time when they absorb their tentacles, with certain worms, and even the highest insects in their growing stages, for starved beetle larvae can shrink almost as much as Planarians.

But in the intermittent starvation can serve as the fabled elixir vitae to lower animals, it unfortunately will not work with the higher.

H. G. Wells

It is quite possible that occasional holidays from food, such as form the basis of certain cures, would do good to many members of our over-eating modern civilization and might somewhat prolong their expectation of life; but this is a different matter; it is because their bodies are cluttered up with stored food and has nothing to do with rejuvenation.

Only two methods have yet been found to work with higher animals—one based on gland-grafting, the other on diet. However, this latter is rather a prevention of growing old than a return to youth.

If different proteins are used separately as the main or sole source of nitrogen in the diet, it is found that while some are altogether useless, there are several others on which the animal can maintain its weight and health, but not grow. Such a one is zein, one of the proteins of maize.

Young rats fed on this zein diet have been kept at half-weight until long after the time at which rat-growth is normally over, and yet begin to grow perfectly well when put on normal diet.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—No spot so successfully turns back the years for me as Coney Island. It is the one amusement resort that transforms the sourest curmudgeon into a Peter Pan. And this summer Coney did not fail to live up to its chirping anthem: "Bigger and Better."

There are three distinct classes in this whirling world of make-believe. Those who visit it lolling in the pontifical plush of limousines. Others who go to Coney for a lark. And the great, fat and waddling majority who refer to it as "Cooney."

The latter have the most fun. They live and play there from sunup until sundown, are housed in mere huts, furnished only with such bare necessities as a bed, table, chair and cook stove.

This summer I visited a former chauffeur who, with his wife and three children, occupied a three-room lean-to on the lower end of the island. His expenses for the first six weeks were less than $13 weekly. He hadn't the creature comforts, but everything else of the expensive spa.

He saved $200 for a three months' outing and expected this sum to cover all expense. This is a side of the resort those who visit it merely to chase thrills, devour hot dogs and frozen custard rarely see. Next season Coney's wax works are to include columnists—Migawd!

* * *

"The boys around the drug store never heard of you—but they know all about you now."

* * *

Sidney Skolsky tells of the comedian dismissed by Martin Beck, vaudeville magnate. Trying vainly to see Beck and express his resentment, he finally hired a horse and cab, donned a coachman's uniform and waited for him. When Beck appeared, the comedian tugged at the reins shouting: "Beck, you——, Beck, you——!"

* * *

A doddering grayhead is entitled a poetical moment now and then. This morning I passed the graceful and arresting Harriet Hector, the danseuse, along 49th st., and Wordsworth's lines have haunted me since:

"A dancing shape, an image gay,
To haunt, to startle and waylay!"

* * *

Outstanding nifty tossers are Bugs Baer, Wilson Mizner, Grant Clarke, Arthur Ceasar, Joe Frisco, and Jack Benny.

Some of their best lines were buried in reparatee which collected no royalties.

* * *

I think Bugs Baer's best was when after entertaining a large group in a night gyp joint he cried: "Waiter, my check and a fright wig!" It was Arthur Caesar who printed across the front of his bank checks: "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again!"

From a California civic magazine:

"McIntyre sometimes strikes us as brilliant, other times as so and so and now and then positively boring."

Make up your mind. We have "second company" nerves as it is.

Listen, World! "Give Me Life"

Man Feels the Urge and Reaches Out; Whatever he Seeks, the Idea Is Sacred

By ELSIE ROBINSON

PLANTS are a great show.

All this morning, crossing over the ridge that lies behind my camp, I have been tramping through them. Hundreds of kinds of plants—mile after mile in their infinite variety ...tiny mosses, filaments of copper cups and amber... "mountain misery" spreading in a gummy mat along the powdery, pink soil, smelling like new leather...ferns, turning rusty gold with the first fall frost...manzanita, ruddy barked, orange berries hanging in its silver green leaves ...chaparral that, in the spring will be a foam of blue ... live oaks, spreading gnarled gray branches low along the ground ... swamp oaks, spraying skyward like fountains ... bull pines, purple dark, heavy as bronze against the brittle, blue sky.

Elsie Robinson

Hundreds of varieties of plants and no two alike in leaf or fruit. Yet all alike in this—all are reaching out from the dark and secret places in which they are rooted, stretching out toward the sunlight, seeking to release and enrich themselves.

Tramping through the woods, touching plants on every side, that thought moves you strangely. Suddenly they are no longer plants. They are living creatures, filled with desire. Living creatures crying ... almost you can hear them crying! ... "Give me life! Give me life! Give me life!"

No matter how common the plant, no matter how dark the rooting, always there is that reaching out, always there is that cry "Give me life!" And when once you have heard that cry you can never again feel the same about plants. For the cry that is in them is in you too, though the plant is a weed and you a human being, you both cry—"Give me life!" and that cry binds you together.

And what is true of plants and of you is true too of all other men. There never yet was a life that wasn't reaching out—that wasn't trying to better itself.

The thing for which that other life reaches may seem trivial or stupid or actually vicious to you, but to that life it seems worth while. And its cry "Give me life!" is all of a piece with your cry "Give me life!"

Solomon praying for wisdom ... Garibaldi fighting for liberty ... Byrd daring the Pole ... Mamie trying to land a new boy friend ... Gyp the Blood spreading a reign of terror through the underworld ...and the missis raising Cain because she can't have a new roadster ... they are all reaching out. Reaching out for something that to them will enrich life and make them more powerful and happy. Even the drunkard and the hophead are reaching out, trying through their terrible addiction to escape into a realm where they may be at peace.

Every man reaches out. And though the thing for which he reaches may be unworthy, the reaching itself is not unworthy. It is the most necessary and the most sacred thing in life.

Despise, if you wish, the thing for which a man reaches—but don't despise the urge that makes him reach. For that urge is Life, trying to increase itself.

And Life is always mysterious and terrible and holy whether you find it in a common weed or in a loafer on a park bench—or in a saint or a philosopher.

They all cry "GIVE ME LIFE!" Respect their cry ... as you wish them to respect yours.

The Rhyming Optimist

Two Views

Of ruthlessness and pain,
Of cruel want and careless waste,

Ah, can it truly be
This is the world you see,
When here before your eyes

* * *

This world breathes loveliness.
And brims with joy and light,
Where sun and stars confess
God's glory day and night!

The sad, dark places you see
Of misery and care
Is but a phantasy
Of some dark hour's despair.

Then turn, ah, turn away
To this real world that glows,
Glad world of work and play
Which every brave heart knows!
